Supreme Council Meets in Geneva Next Week and May Make Regional Compact.

TRIPARTITE ACCORD FIRST

All European Nations, Including Germany and Russia, Then to Be Asked to Join.

FRANCE WOULD CUT ARMY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 12.—Acting on instructions from their Governments, the representatives of England and France today accepted Lord Robert Cecil's plan for an "international company assurance against war" as the Cecil plan for continental peace compacts has come to be called. It is to support this project before the Assembly that Premier Lloyd George is expected to come to Geneva next week.

It was also announced today that there would be a meeting of the Allied Supreme Council in Geneva next week, which leads to the supposition that England, France and Italy will conclude a tentative accord to serve as the basis of an arrangement to which other nations may subscribe.

The Cecil plan is general, including all nations. Theoretically it would have a European peace compact, a South American peace compact and an Asiatic peace compact. But political considerations which need not be detailed here make the chief interest in the plan attach to the European part.

To Make Aggression Futile.

The system on its face is a modification of Article X. of the League Covenant, but in reality it would mean giving the specific guarantees instead of the generalities of Article X. The nations would pledge themselves definitely to take action against any aggressor and make it impossible for him to obtain a victory. In the Disarmament Committee today it was made plain that the plan is to invite Germany and Russia to become parties to the agreement.

Up to today the Scandinavian countries, generally the leaders in disarmament moves, had opposed the Cecil plan on the ground that it might force them to increase their military strength. To meet that it was announced today that the peace compact would be open to every one, but only those who wished need join it.

As it now shapes up, it is planned that England, France and Italy shall enter into a mutual protective agreement which shall be forthwith joined by Spain. Germany will then be asked to subscribe to the non-aggressive guarantee arrangement, after which other European nations, especially those of Central Europe, will be brought in. Then the Moscow Government will be given an opportunity to join. It was no surprise that the English favored such a plan, but French adherence today caused great satisfaction.

In the Disarmament Committee H. A. L. Fisher, England, said any mutual protection compact to which the great nations of Europe, meaning France and Italy, would agree would have the support of the British Government.

Hearty Support of France.

Senator de Jouvenel, for France, said not only was France ready to join any such general treaty, but would work heartily for it, believing it would mean a real step toward peace and disarmament.

This indicates a liberal change of the French point of view which hitherto was held that France must trust alone in her army to protect her against German revenge. By her declaration today France said she would consider a guarantee of England and other continental nations against attack by Germany as sufficient ground to consider reduction of her army.

The origin of the Cecil plan lies in the replies of the European nations to a League request for a statement of reasons for the maintenance of large military forces. Led by France the nations stated it was fear of an external attack. Moving on the premise that the way to obtain reduction of land armament was to remove this fear, Lord Cecil came forward with his plan which has had a reception more favorable than even he expected.

It is not to be supposed that the nations represented in the Geneva Assembly will this month sign a protective treaty, but it is planned to draft a treaty for submission to the Parliaments to be reported on next year. However, the adherence of England and France to the plan augurs well for its success.

Effort to Aid Austria Meets Snag.

The effort of the League to take steps to aid Austria is meeting with difficulties. Two barriers now stand in the way of progress. The first is Italy's insistence on observance of the provisions of the Santa Rosa convention, which give her certain privileges in Austria, and the other is the rapid increase of Austrian paper money circulation. There having been a jump of many billions in the last week.

Chancellor Seipel has been asked to return to Geneva to give further information upon the situation in his country. Following the refusal of Peru and Bolivia to sit in the Assembly presided

British Winged Destroyer To Be Terror of the Air

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—There has been built for the Air Ministry a new type of machine shortly to be tested which it is believed will place an entirely new aspect on the aircraft versus battleship controversy.

Known as the Cubaroo, this new craft is a winged destroyer intended to be used, at least at the outset, for coastal defense purposes. It is fitted with a very high-powered engine. It will have a range, when fully loaded with bombs or torpedoes, of more than 1,000 miles.

The Cubaroo is a three-seater machine and will be a most effective weapon when operating in large numbers to repel not only invading seacraft but also aircraft. Against such a machine a Zeppelin would stand very little chance, for a feature of the new design is ability to climb at a tremendous rate.

The cruising speed of the craft will be about three miles a minute. Four machine guns will be fitted into the coastal defense plane. Great things are expected of it by the air authorities.

MRS. HARDING PAST CRISIS OF ILLNESS

HER PLUCK HELPS DOCTORS

Friends Will Urge Her Not to Resume Heavy Strain of Social Life.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Encouraging improvement was shown in Mrs. Harding's condition today and her physicians' bulletin tonight announced that the immediate crisis of her case had passed. Dr. Charles H. Mayo, who was summoned last week when measures of surgical relief were contemplated, started back this afternoon to Rochester, Minn.

Her condition is still serious, and physicians are constantly on the watch for the occurrence of the complications that caused so much alarm Saturday.

Two bulletins, both encouraging, were issued during the day. Brig. General Sawyer, the Harding family physician, who has the case in charge, said the bulletins would be continued twice daily for two or three days more.

Tonight's bulletin read:

Mrs. Harding's condition at 7:30 P. M.:
Temperature 99.4.
Respiration 23.
Laboratory findings show elimination increasing. Complications indicating surgical interference decreased to such an extent that Dr. Charles Mayo returned to Rochester, Minn., this afternoon. Dr. Carl W. Sawyer is leaving for Marion, Ohio. He will return Friday. Unless unforeseen exacerbations arise all consultants feel that the immediate crisis of the case has been passed. C. E. SAWYER.

The morning bulletin was:

Mrs. Harding's condition at 8 A. M.:
Temperature, 98.8.
Respiration, 22.
Early part of night restless. Later part, comfortable. General appearances improved. Enlargement due to nephrosis decreasing. Laboratory findings favorable. Crisis seems to have been passed. Surgical procedure deemed unnecessary for the present. C. E. SAWYER.

Slow Recovery Expected.

A slow convalescence followed by a complete rest is now in prospect for Mrs. Harding, and her friends show anxiety lest she attempt too soon the activities that customarily devolve upon the mistress of the White House. Although she has suffered intermittently during the last seventeen years from the kidney complaint that recurred in her present illness, she refused to let this stand as a reason for curtailing White House functions that have placed an exhausting strain upon her.

It is felt, however, that the desperate illness from which she now is on a fair way to recovery should cause a lessening of her social demands and that her friends will see to it that, regardless of Mrs. Harding's wishes, she shall not overdo in the future.

General Sawyer was full of praise today for the spirit which Mrs. Harding has shown in her illness, and he gave this as one of the main causes for the victory over the complications that threatened her life.

"Of course, the doctors deserve some credit," he said, "but Mrs. Harding's pluck and fine spirit in large measure pulled her through. She was always

FINAL TARIFF RATES REPORTED TO HOUSE; VOTE IS DUE TODAY

PASSAGE LIKELY BY OCT. 1

FARM PRODUCTS RATES UP

Elastic Tariff Provision Considered a Step Toward Taking the Subject Out of Politics.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The conference agreement on the Tariff bill, the first complete revision of American tariff duties along protective lines in thirteen years, was formally reported to the House today by Representative Joseph W. Fordney, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. There is no real opposition to its acceptance by either house, so that present indications are the bill will become law in another two weeks.

The House is scheduled to accept the conference agreement tomorrow, after four hours' general debate. Opposition, based mainly upon the dye embargo section, is so great in the Senate as to prevent prompt action in that body, with the probability that a short filibuster will arise there, under the leadership of Senators La Follette and Moses.

As harmonized in the conference, after fifteen days' consideration, the rates on wool, sugar and food products exceed the same duties in the Republican Payne-Aldrich Tariff law, enacted in 1909.

On an average the rates are declared by experts to be slightly lower than the last Republican tariff law and greatly in excess of the Underwood tariff law, in one respect the present bill differs from the Payne-Aldrich law. The latter carried adequate protection for manufactured articles, while it did not impose high duties on food products. With the farm bloc holding the balance of power in Congress, the opposite prevails in this bill. This accounts for the high duty on wheat, all farm products, sugar and wool.

The revised bill, it is estimated, will raise slightly more than $400,000,000 annually, based upon the present volume of the nation's imports.

One feature in the conference report which, if carried out successfully in practice, may bring an end to tariff making by Congress, is the compromise plan reached on the system of ascertaining the value of dutiable imports. The House bill contained provisions for basing duties on the American valuation of imports, while the Senate plan followed the old system of imposing the duty on the foreign valuation. As a compromise the foreign valuation was retained, with an important provision authorizing the President to modify the tariff and bring into action the American valuation plan if investigation showed this course to be necessary for proper protection to American industry.

This represents a compromise of the elastic tariff provision in which the Senate delegated to the President the power to modify the duties within certain limitations in order to meet changed trade conditions expected long before the new tariff law goes into operation. The compromise makes it mandatory for the President to change not only the duty but the basis of valuation "when the costs of production in the United States and the principal competing country cannot be equalised under the foreign valuation levy."

This article, declared by tariff authorities as the most progressive step in tariff making, is generally acceptable to business men. They are said to see in it an important adjunct to the oldtime method of tariff revision. Today a delegation of hosiery men complained that the duties carried in the conference report would close the American hosiery mills because these duties were not high enough to overcome the difference in cost of production between the United States and Germany. When Representative Fordney explained the provisions of the elastic tariff the hosiery men said they intended carrying their fight to the Tariff Commission at the very earliest opportunity.

Under the terms of the elastic tariff section the President is not authorized to increase the rates more than 50 per cent. of the duties imposed in the bill, nor can he lower them below that figure. Fifteen days after the President issues a proclamation declaring that he

Put Northcliffe's Personal Estate At £2,000,000; Probably Much Higher

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—It was announced today that Alfred Viscount Northcliffe left a personal estate provisionally sworn for purposes of probate as of the value of £2,000,000. This declaration of value is merely designed to meet the requirements of the inland revenue and does not necessarily represent the total value of the estate, which is expected to be much higher.

Letters of administration have been granted pendents lite to Sir George Sutton, who was appointed by order of the Court at the end of last month to deal with the estate pending the action by Lady Northcliffe. The grant which has been issued in this matter concerns the personal estate only, and in recent proceedings it was agreed that the appointment of an administrator pendente lite was not required in respect of the real estate.

The leasehold property is personal estate, as also are the holdings in stocks and shares, even if the stocks and shares themselves represent interests in freeholds. Any holdings of Lord Northcliffe of shares in newspaper companies would be personal estate.

The grant is merely a temporary one to enable the business of the estate to be carried on pending settlement of the case. It does not cover the whole of the property.

In this case it may be safely assumed that £2,000,000 does not represent the whole of the personal estate, and it does not of course include the value of any real estate. It is quite possible that the total value of Lord Northcliffe's worldwide interests will be definitely ascertainable when the main grant is issued, in which case the amount will be sworn to so far as at present can be ascertained, leaving the final figure to be adjusted by reswearing the amount later when it has been finally learned.

Kipling Denies Slur on America in War; Repudiates 'Interview' Which Caused Stir

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Rudyard Kipling has sent to The London Times the following message in answer to an inquiry about the statements credited to him by Clare Sheridan in The New York World:

"I did not give Mrs. Clare Sheridan an interview, and did not say the things I have been ascribed to me."

Under the caption "America's Anti-European mood" The Daily Chronicle prints the following editorial:

"As a man of letters Mr. Rudyard Kipling is one of our national glories. As a politician he simply does not count. Americans do not know the latter Kipling so well as we do. They are not used to those periodical ebullitions of his, as unsophisticated as they are ungoverned, and unrepresentative of the sober English manner of thought.

"Consequently, his crude stigmatization of America's part in the war, as reported rightly or wrongly by an American lady journalist, has created resentment across the Atlantic that is natural enough, but out of all proportion to its intrinsic importance.

"When the American War Minister declares emphatically in reply that no good can be served by such utterances and that they are unjustified in spirit and in fact, all responsible British opinion agrees with him. It goes even further. Not only no good but infinite mischief may be done.

"On the other hand, anything that sets America talking once more of her world responsibility is not altogether to the bad. Since 1919 America has gone through an immense revulsion of feeling. Her ancient tradition of aloofness from Europe has been revived and the national tendency has reasserted itself to repudiate this turbulent continent and all its evil works—to fall back into proud, grim isolation. It is very natural and no doubt inevitable, yet the fact, of which America's entry into the war is itself a proof remains that in the modern world isolation in a rigid sense is impossible and that sooner or later—the sooner the better—America must resume her natural function so brusquely dropped two years ago in a mood of intelligible repugnance.

"Apropos of Mr. Kipling's outburst, M. Clemenceau declares his intention of going to the United States to explain how France regards the matter. If he goes, it will be all to the good. In many ways the French view is not ours, yet he is sure to kindle a controversy both within America and without. With controversy comes enlightenment."

The Westminster Gazette says: "The American Government introduces a novel and not particularly desirable procedure in taking notice of what Rudyard Kipling has said in an interview. If there are to be replies of this kind they had better be confined to statesmen who are responsible for policy, otherwise we shall have any amount of bad blood between the countries, for novelists and poets and other people have license in these matters denied to those who are engaged in politics. What Rudyard Kipling has to say may be interesting, but it is the view of a private individual with whom the Governments are not concerned."

BOY DEAD, 2 DYING AFTER GANG BATTLE

POLICE MAKE TWO ARRESTS

Dead Boy's Younger Brother Points Out Man He Says Fired the Pistol.

A boy was killed, two other youths were probably mortally wounded and several others were shot in a pistol battle shortly before 11 o'clock last night between rival bands of young men in the Williamsburgh section of Brooklyn. The dead boy was Goodman Diamond, 16, a messenger employed by a telegraph company, who lived with his parents at 305 Siegel Street. Louis Diamond, 14, his younger brother, told detectives who appeared on the scene before the smoke of the battle had cleared, that Goodman was shot through the heart by Salvatore Piazza, 22, of 177 Boerum Street, who was arrested by a policeman after a citizen had knocked Piazza down with a blow in the face.

Two of those known to have been shot were Leon Klotz, 26, of 220 Cook Street, and Albert Camera, 18, of 215 Varet Street. They were taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, Klotz with a bullet wound in the side and Camera shot through the chest.

The shooting took place at the corner of Bushwick Place and Varet Street and was believed by the police to be the outcome of a quarrel between bootleggers. District Attorney Ruston and Detective Sergeants Ferris and Hemmindinger of Captain Carey's staff said that investigation showed that young Diamond was killed by a stray bullet while he and his brother were passing the corner on the way to their home.

Fugitive Threw Away Pistol.

Detective Hemmindinger said that after Louis Diamond saw his brother fall he pursued Piazza, who, while running, threw away his pistol. The detective said that after a citizen had felled Piazza, just before he was arrested, a crowd of witnesses to the shooting captured Giuseppt Gelso, 35, who lived in the same house with Piazza. Both prisoners were taken to the Stagg Street Station, and questioned by Captain Carey.

The detectives told District Attorney Ruston that they had learned that earlier in the evening there had been a fist fight between two young Italians who were said to be leaders in rival bands of bootleggers in the Williamsburgh and Bushwick section. One of the belligerents was worsted and vowed that he would "get even" on his opponent.

A few minutes before midnight, the detectives learned, members of the bands met on the corner and immediately began shooting. The detectives said that as many as twenty shots were fired before the gunmen fled into neighboring tenements. Several of the men who participated in the shooting were seen to stagger and it is thought that they were shot.

Louis Diamond is a student in the Brooklyn Evening High School in the vicinity. His brother met him at the close of the school last night, and they visited the home of a relative. They had just passed one of the bands of gunmen when the shooting began. Goodman fell dead with the first volley. The police obtained the names of several youths in the vicinity who were believed to have taken part in the shooting and a house-to-house search was being made for them.

COLONY OF JAPANESE IS HELD NO MENACE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The acquisition and holding by a Japanese syndicate of a tract of ten acres of land at White Point, near Fort MacArthur, near San Pedro, on the Southern coast of California, constitutes no danger to the national defense of the United States, according to decision reached today by the War Department.

An opinion to that effect was rendered to Secretary Weeks by the General Staff of the Army after it had given careful consideration to a protest from the Chamber of Commerce of San Pedro, in which it was declared that the presence of a Japanese colony on this ten-acre tract of land recently leased by a group of Japanese would jeopardize the national safety. The decision was reached after the matter had been submitted by the General Staff to its War Plans Division.

BRIDES NO LONGER NEED SAY 'OBEY'

GRAPE JUICE ADVOCATED

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 12.—The House of Bishops of the Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church voted late this afternoon to take the word "obey" out of the marriage ceremony. The Bishops voted to recommit to the Committee on Revision of the Prayer Book a recommendation to take out of the marriage ritual the promise the bridegroom now makes "with all my worldly goods I thee endow." Thirty-six Bishops voted to leave out "obey" and twenty-seven voted to keep it in. The majority also voted to leave out the clause "in the time of man's innocency."

After the announcement of the vote the Right Rev. Charles M. Beckwith of Alabama, said:

"I move something be done to release all the women who have already taken the vow to 'obey.'" Bishop Bratton of Mississippi saw no "reason in the world why we should leave out the word 'obey.' I stand for the solidarity of the family, and every family must have a head," he added. "The Christian family must have a head and yet it must be a partnership."

Bishop Anderson of Chicago held that while the man should be the master of his children, his relation to his wife should be only that of partnership. Bishop Gailor of Tennessee expressed determined opposition to the omission of the word 'obey.'"

Bishop Keator of Olympia, Wash., said it seemed to him that the promise "with all my wordly goods I thee endow" was absurb. Bishop Vincent of Southern Ohio asserted that in nine cases out of ten there was nudging in the congregation when the minister came to that part of the ceremony. Bishop Johnson, of Colorado, wanted a new sentence inserted which would be "liturgical" but which would be a promise of the man that he would support his wife. He contended the worst crime today was the failure of husbands to support their wives.

The revision of the marriage ceremony will be taken up again tomorrow.

A petition was presented at the morning session asking that grape juice be substituted for wine in the communion service or that "its use be permitted by clergymen to whom the subject of prohibition had become a matter of conscience."

The petition came from the diocese of Los Angeles and was presented by Bishop Johnson of Los Angeles. It was referred to the Committee on Constitutional Amendments. The petition is considered a move to aid prohibition, especially since it originated in a grape-growing State.

Bishop Winchester of Arkansas was ready to report on the case of the Right Rev. William Montgomery Brown, retired Bishop of Arkansas, who wrote a book since the last general convention in which he practically denied all the cardinal doctrines of his church, especially that of the divinity of Christ. The report was postponed indefinitely. The rumor is that the committee will recommend asking Bishop Brown voluntarily to relinquish Episcopal orders.

The Bishops showed annoyance this morning at a report in a local paper that they might elect Bishop Paul Jones as Bishop of eastern Oregon to succeed the Right Rev. Robert L. Paddock. No Bishop could be found who thought there was much possibility of such action. It is stated here that Eastern Oregon does not want a Socialist Bishop. The House of Bishops during the war asked Bishop Jones to resign as Bishop of Utah because of his pacifist utterances. Posters have appeared here on trees and doors about the auditorium which read:

"An appeal to the Christian conscience of the Bishops rather than their statesmanship. The Right Rev. Paul Jones, Socialist Bishop, resigned under pressure during war excitement. Is it not time that the Bishops do justice to this godly young man?"

The circular showed a picture of Bishop Jones. It is said that they were sent to the auditoriums from the Labor Temple where the Church Socialist League has headquarters, under the direction of the Rev. Arthur Byron Curtiss of Willard, New York.

At the request of Bishop Matthews of New Jersey, the Bishops appointed a special committee on relations with the Reformed Church of Hungary, congress submitted by the General Synod of

LODGE WINS, 3 TO 1, IN SENATORIAL RACE; COX FOR GOVERNOR

Incumbents Defeat Walker and Allen in Massachusetts Republican Primary.

GASTON AHEAD OF WHIPPLE

Fitzgerald Well in Front for Governor—Pelletier Polls Big Vote for Prosecutor.

SENATOR TOWNSEND LEADS

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Governor Channing H. Cox were renominated by the Republicans of Massachusetts in today's primary, overwhelming their respective opponents by majorities in excess of three to one.

In the Democratic primary Colonel William A. Gaston won the Democratic nomination over Sherman L. Whipple by a comfortable plurality, while John F. Fitzgerald, former Mayor of Boston, was nominated for Governor, receiving more votes than the combined totals of his three opponents.

For second place on the Republican ticket Lieut. Gov. Alvah T. Fuller was renominated over former Speaker Joseph E. Warner by two to one majority. The contest for second place on the Democratic ticket could not be determined by early returns. John F. Doherty has apparently carried Boston, but Michael A. O'Leary, former Chairman of the State Committee, is running ahead outside of the city.

A significant feature of the primary is the endorsement which the Republicans gave the administration of Governor Cox. A Cox sweep was in evidence from the moment the first returns began to report, and it was emphasized late in the evening when Boston's precincts began to come in. His opponent, Attorney General J. Weston Allen, was buried from the start.

Cox Runs Ahead of Lodge.

Governor Cox exceeded the expectations of his supporters by running ahead of Senator Lodge in town after town. This was a surprise to the political experts, who had said that Joseph Walker's vote for the Senatorial nomination would be lost in the shuffle.

Allen and Walker showed their greatest strength in the western counties. Two years ago that section was a League of Nations stronghold, and apparently many Republicans were seizing the first opportunity to disapprove Lodge's action on that issue.

This would explain Walker's vote there, but it does not exactly explain Allen's unusual strength.

The surprising feature of the Democratic primary was the weakness of the Whipple candidacy. It started too late, and had neither the money nor the machinery to meet the efforts of Gaston all through the State. The Colonel's victory is a body blow to Mayor James M. Curley, who had been blasting Gaston on the stump for many weeks.

Fitzgerald's nomination has never been in doubt since he entered the contest.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—The returns for 90 out of 274 Boston precincts were as follows:

FOR REPUBLICAN SENATOR:

Lodge	11,154

FOR REPUBLICAN GOVERNOR:

Cox	10,296
Allen	4,000

FOR DEMOCRATIC SENATOR:

Gaston	9,043
Whipple	7,590

FOR REPUBLICAN SENATOR:

Lodge	26,185

FOR REPUBLICAN GOVERNOR:

Cox	26,026

FOR DEMOCRATIC SENATOR:

Gaston	3,471
Whipple	2,919
Walsh	1,083
Sharp	89

FOR DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR:

Fitzgerald	3,795
Ely	2,004
Foss	470

Joseph C. Pelletier, who was removed a few months ago from the office of District Attorney of Suffolk County, was leading six opponents for the Democratic nomination for that office in the returns from 130 Boston precincts. These gave Pelletier 13,027 to 6,378 for Thomas C. O'Brien, the present District Attorney. O'Brien was running far ahead of three other candidates for the Republican nomination for District Attorney, the same precincts giving him 14,491 votes to 3,083 for William J. Patron, running in second place.

Gillett's Seat Contested.

All of the Republican Congressmen from Massachusetts who sought renomination at the primary today, with the exception of Speaker Frederick H. Gillett, received the honor without contest. Congressman Gillett was opposed by William H. Felker, former Mayor of Northampton.

Congressman Robert S. Maloney did

All-Room Sleeping Cars For California Tourists

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Sleeping cars constructed with seven rooms to each car, each room accommodating five persons, will be placed in the Chicago-California service of the Santa Fe Railway for the Fall and Winter travel. There will be eighteen of the new style cars. Each room will contain a lower and an upper double berth and a day lounge and bed, with full lavatory equipment.

"All drawing rooms in sleeping cars now are being demanded by families on Chicago-California trips," W. J. Black, Passenger Traffic Manager of the Santa Fe, said. "Travel taste is changing. More room and more comfort and luxury are called for by patrons who travel often, particularly on the more extended journeys."

The new all-room sleepers will be a part of $8,000,000 worth of all-steel equipment that will be placed in service on the nine trains required for the regular daily operation of this company between Chicago and the Pacific Coast.

COLLIERY UPKEEP BLAMED

Woodin Is Expected Back From Albany Today for Conference With Local Dealers.

The first anthracite coal to reach the New York district since mining was resumed on Monday, after the settlement of the strike, arrived yesterday. A train of thirty cars reached the Lehigh Valley Railroad's coal terminal at Perth Amboy, N. J., in the morning, and by today the entire shipment, approximately 3,000 tons, will have been distributed in Manhattan.

Considered almost as important as the actual arrival of the anthracite in a market almost entirely destitute of that variety of fuel was the indication as to the price. Twenty-six of the thirty cars were consigned to Weston Dodson & Co. of 233 Broadway, independent mine operators, who have three collieries in the Shamokin district of Pennsylvania. According to W. R. Coyle, Vice President in charge of sales, the company billed the coal at $9.50 at the mines, which is just $1 a ton more than the price at the beginning of the strike, on March 31 last. That was said to indicate a retail price of about $14.50 a ton, somewhat more than a dollar advance.

Loomis Announces Arrival.

Announcement of the arrival of the coal was made by E. E. Loomis, President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, who said:

"The first trainload of anthracite to reach New York Harbor since the resumption of mining on Monday arrived at the Lehigh Valley's New York coal terminals at Perth Amboy shortly after midnight this morning. It consisted of thirty cars.

"The coal was put through the breaker and filled into waiting cars and then rushed to the market. There was no transportation delay of any sort and everything was lined up for prompt movement over the dumpers which have been kept in working order.

"The Lehigh Valley is prepared to handle anthracite as promptly as it is mined. For weeks the management has been devoting its energies toward preparation for a resumption of mining, feeling that because of its position as one of the principal anthracite carriers it had a special duty to perform in this connection."

In explaining the advance of $1 in the price at the mines, Mr. Coyle said that eighty cents of this represented the cost to the company of maintaining its mines during the strike. He said that in one of the company's three collieries, which ordinarily produces 22,000 tons of anthracite a month, the cost of keeping it in good condition and ready for immediate operation had been $66,000. He said the other two collieries had not cost so much to maintain, but that calculations had determined that eighty cents must be added to the price of each ton of coal at the mines to enable the company to get back the maintenance cost.

Explains Extra Expenses.

Mr. Coyle said that fifteen cents of the dollar increase came from the imposition of a tax of 1½ per cent. on the selling price of each ton of coal by the State of Pennsylvania and that the cost of additional safeguards in the mines, which were required by law, had added another ten cents a ton to the cost of production. Mr. Coyle said that the company hoped to realize a profit on the smaller sizes of anthracite, pea, buckwheat and rice, which are used for steam purposes, and, he said, had usually been sold at a loss. He added that he expected the price of these sizes of an-

Republican Leaders Pick State Ticket; Donovan Is Slated to Run With Miller

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Conferences between New York Republican leaders are understood to have resulted in a partial arrangement of the party ticket to be endorsed by the Republican State Convention, which will meet this month. In addition to choosing Governor Miller and Senator Calder for renomination, it seems to be agreed that William J. Donovan of Buffalo, former Colonel of the 165th Regiment and now United States Attorney for the Western District of New York, will be on the ticket for Lieutenant Governor.

County Judge Rogers of Washington County is understood to have been picked as the candidate for Attorney General, contingent upon the refusal of Attorney General Newton to run. It is probable that William J. Mier of Seneca Falls will not be renominated for State Controller, and that Thomas A. Wilson, Mayor of Binghamton, will be named.

The renomination or Secretary of State Lyons is understood to be dependent upon the wishes of the New York City delegation. State Treasurer Marshall probably will be renominated, but Travis A. Williams probably will not be renominated for State Engineer.

VOTE ON RAIL PEACE IN CHICAGO TODAY; SAY PLAN WILL WIN

ARE HAVING A HARD FIGHT

50 TO 75 ROADS MAY AGREE

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—With predictions favoring acceptance, the separate settlement plan for ending the railway shopmen's strike on nearly sixty roads will be voted on tomorrow by the shop crafts' Policy Committee of Ninety, which has been in session at the Masonic Temple here since Monday morning.

While B. M. Jewell, chief strike leader, declined to comment on the prospects, others were slightly less reticent. Forecasts were based on guarded expressions from men who participated in the deliberations behind barred doors.

One persistent report emanating from these sessions is that one agreement only is under consideration, and that this has been submitted by several railways as a group.

The proposal under discussion by the Policy Committee, it was said, disposes of the seniority problem but makes no provision for wage increases. The wage issue, raised when the United States Railroad Labor Board cut nearly $600,000,000 from the shop workers' annual pay, was one of three grievances upon which the strike was voted.

Railway Presidents in Chicago have steadfastly denied that there has been any joint peace move by the carriers, contending that if any agreements resulted from the negotiations instituted by Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, they would be separately consummated and perhaps vary in their provisions on each road.

Although confident of success, shop crafts leaders who are supporting President Jewell in his efforts to induce departure from the policy of holding out for one national agreement taking in all of the 202 Class 1 roads affected by the strike admit that a faction opposed to separate settlements has developed formidable strength in the Masonic Temple meeting.

"I believe we'll muster the votes necessary to sanction the peace proposals submitted to us, and I believe we'll do it tomorrow," said one of Mr. Jewell's conferees tonight.

"But," he added, "we'll know we've been through a fight when we do."

Fight for National Agreement.

According to this informant, the talking point of the insurgent group is that the shopmen have won their strike and that they would be foolish to consider anything short of a national agreement. They also argue that shopmen on the roads which have refused to make any concessions would be left out in the cold under the proposed agreement.

The argument that it would be easy to break what remained of the strike after a few railways settle has been a hard one to meet, another supporter of the Jewell plan agreed. "Some of the men fear that the roads which refuse to deal with us on reasonable terms would be permitted to use shop facilities of the roads with which we may now settle," he said:

In support of their contention that the strike is won—and no division of opinion on this point is evidenced—the union chiefs today were citing facts brought out at the Federal injunction hearing now in progress.

Statements made by counsel for the Government that the number of bad order locomotives had steadily mounted until, on July 15, almost one-third of all the engines in the country were out of commission, they urge, shows conclusively a victory for the shopmen.

The strike leaders also cite the fact that several Eastern roads on Monday laid an embargo on all freight except perishable foodstuffs from connecting lines from the West. They say the explanation given—that there is extreme need for equipment to move coal to the East—is evasive. The Big Four Railroad, according to a press report from Cincinnati, tomorrow will withdraw seventeen trains.

When today's meeting of the Policy Committee terminated President Jewell came out into a corridor to greet newspaper men with the announcement that the session adjourned without action.

President Jewell denied reports that he had been keeping the wires hot between Chicago and Atlantic City, where the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor is in session.

Janitor Ends the Session.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—A janitor put a sudden end to negotiations seeking a basis for settlement of the railway shop crafts strike today when, with a mop and broom in hand, he ordered the union leaders out of the hall in which they were meeting. And they left, adjourning until tomorrow morning.

It was at the most critical period of the two-day session that the janitor, intent on performing his duty of preparing the hall for another meeting, knocked loudly for admittance on the doors behind which the shop crafts Policy Committee of ninety was in session.

The demand was transmitted direct to B. M. Jewell, strike leader, who told just finished an impassioned appeal, and a vote was in immediate prospect. But with the lease on the hall expiring in ten minutes, the proceedings were halted while efforts were made to obtain a few minutes' grace from the landlord, and then from the building authorities. When these efforts failed, the adjournment was ordered.

A meeting of the Executive Council of the shopcrafts was announced for tonight by Mr. Jewell after the council for the first time officially heard the report of the wage grievances of the Canadian shopmen. R. J. Tallon, head of the Canadian workers, told the Executive Council of their strike vote against a reduction in wages. He assured the council, however, that no strike call would be issued until some definite action had been taken by the Policy Committee.

Issuance of the call then, Mr. Tallon later told reporters, would depend almost entirely on the action decided upon by the committee of ninety.

Today's session was marked by an apparent lessening of the tenseness that surrounded the meetings yesterday. The men appeared more jovial today and the leaders seemed more cheerful.

That at least one Eastern railroad executive is interested in the negotiations became known today. S. Davies Warfield, President of the Seaboard Air Line and President of an association said to control $13,000,000 of railroad securities, has been receiving daily reports of the sessions. A personal representative has been advising him.

Say 50 to 75 Roads May Settle.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—Advices received here today by officials in close touch with the rail strike situation said that the basis of settlement under consideration at the meeting in Chicago of the General Policy Committee of shop crafts embodied proposals recently worked out by B. M. Jewell, head of the striking shop workers, and Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The information received by officials was that decision as to acceptance of the proposals depended largely upon the number of roads ready to agree to the proposition.

Officials said it was indicated that between fifty and seventy-five roads were inclined to favor the settlement plan under consideration. The proposals were understood here to involve the return to work of all strikers, men now employed in shops to be retained, and fundamental questions at dispute to be arbitrated by a committee representing the railroads and the unions. Seniority was said not to have been mentioned in the settlement plan.

STRIKERS FIND HOPE IN FREIGHT EMBARGO

Message to Jewell Declares New York Soon Will Face a Famine Crisis.

The embargo upon freight originating beyond their own lines, except foodstuffs and other necessities, by the New York Central, Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley and Erie railroads, was interpreted yesterday as an indication of the breakdown of their equipment, by David Williams, secretary of the Metropolitan District, Central Strike Committee, in a telegram to Bert M. Jewell, head of the striking shopmen in Chicago.

There was no indication yesterday that the embargo would spread at present beyond the four roads. Officials of the Pennsylvania said that they contemplated no general embargo, and that they would have a conference today with receivers of California fruit, on which the Erie has declared an embargo, in an effort to cure for some of this traffic. Officials of the Delaware & Hudson, the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Baltimore & Ohio said they had no present intention of declaring an embargo.

Text of Williams's Message.

"A majority of the striking shopmen in this district are unalterably opposed to a final strike settlement which is not concluded upon a national basis. Our position in the New York metropolitan district is more favorable today than at any time since the strike began, owing to the failure of the railroads to keep their equipment in repair with a small force of unskilled strike-breakers.

"New York is now threatened with both a food and fuel famine within the next four weeks. Seven days ago we informed you of the failure of the roads in this section because of broken-down equipment to move even perishable freight without costly and damaging delay. The embargo on all freight but foodstuffs, declared yesterday by four trunk lines, proves the critical nature of the situation. Freight service here is on the verge of a complete breakdown.

"Coal shipments have nothing to do with this embargo. It will not be until Oct. 15 that even the normal supply of anthracite is mined, and practically none is now in transit. When coal begins to be moved the collapse will be even more disastrous.

"The public is well aware that this condition is due entirely to the ruthless determination of a minority of executives to break the unions. Each day will make it more difficult for these executives to refuse a just settlement. Please place this telegram before the meeting of the Policy Committee at once.

"We don't believe there will be any partial settlement now, but we are confident there will be a national settlement soon," said Mr. Williams after sending the telegram. "The die-hard group of executives who have thrown sand in the settlement gear box from the start all represent anthracite-carrying roads. The coal strike settlement means the end of their obstruction.

"If the Lackawanna, for instance, is compelled to put an embargo on all freight weeks before the hard coal begins to move in any quantity, what will it do when the mines begin to operate full blast? It will be a choice between two necessities, coal and food. But that choice can't be made. The public will insist and will have both and, if it doesn't get both, the public knows well enough who to hold responsible."

Embargo to Aid Coal Shipments.

Officials of the Erie, Lackawanna & Lehigh Valley railroads said that they had placed the embargo solely for the purpose of moving coal. When told that the strikers said that coal had not begun to move, they said that several days were necessary for preparation. It was learned that these roads placed the desirability of declaring an embargo before the Interstate Commerce Commission two weeks ago. When that body failed to act, the roads took action.

Frederick D. Underwood, President of the Erie, said that the railroad was bound to move all California fruit offered for shipment on other roads before the embargo was declared, and that it would be fully two weeks before these shipments were cleared away. He added that the company had offered to lend any other railroad that could move the fruit, piers 20 and 21, Hudson River, where the fruit customs are held free of charge except for labor. Mr. Underwood said that fifty locomotives to be used in hauling coal trains would be released by the embargo.

At the offices of the Lackawanna it was said that the road had been handling about 40 per cent. more business than usual because of strike conditions. Denial was made that the shopmen's strike had anything to do with the embargo.

Pennsylvania officials said they would inform the receivers of California fruit that they would take care of these shipments if they were taken by consignees immediately upon arrival, as the Pennsylvania had no extra storage for fruit.

RAIL VIOLENCE TOLD IN INJUNCTION SUIT

DEFENSE OBJECTION LOSES

But Judge Warns Both Sides Against Making Statements Outside of Court.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Presentation of its "carload of evidence," comprising approximately 20,000 affidavits concerning acts of violence and sabotage, was begun today by Government attorneys in Judge Wilkerson's court in the application of Attorney General Daugherty for a temporary injunction to replace the restraining order issued against striking railway shopmen on Sept. 1.

The Attorney General seeks to show by these affidavits and other exhibits that a conspiracy existed on the part of striking shopmen to paralyze interstate traffic on the railroads.

Judge Wilkerson deferred hearing arguments by labor counsel for a modification of the restraining order until the Government shall have presented more of its evidence, but he warned both sides against making public any statements tending to influence public opinion while proceedings are going on in court. This was in response to an objection raised by Donald Richberg, counsel for B. M. Jewell and John Scott, strike leaders, to a statement printed this morning as coming from Attorney General Daugherty detailing a list of crimes charged against the strikers. Mr. Richberg contended that the statement was criminally libelous.

Once or twice tragedy pecked from behind the great piles of blue-backed affidavits that the lawyers read all day in droning voices. There was a picture of a man out in Slater, Mo., who was tarred and feathered by strikers because he would not quit his job. Clifford Kell was his name. The picture showed the tar and the feathers. He gave the names of the strikers who attacked him.

A bit of comedy was also included when the bulletin issued by strikers' headquarters at Albuquerque, N. M., which contained this item, was read:

"On July 1 President Harding, during his game of golf, was disturbed by some unusual noise and his caddie, being sent to investigate, informed him that 400,000 railroad men had gone on strike. About July 5 the caddie informed him that there was a board called the United States Labor Board and that the railroad men had disobeyed its order."

Affidavits showing many acts of violence, presumably by striking shop workers, were presented. Tabulations of the crippled conditions of the roads were shown, and the exhibits included bulletins at strike headquarters expressing satisfaction as certain "scabs" were sent to hospital and at the breakdown of commerce generally. The fact that fruit could not move out of Roseburg, Cal., was taken as a matter of congratulation. Every time an engine broke down it was considered a matter for congratulation.

The Government is working on the theory that the series of violent occurrences set forth in affidavits show by their own weight a concert of action sufficient to prove conspiracy in the meaning of such term, and in the necessity for such proof under an application for a temporary injunction of this kind.

Judge Wilkerson rejected contentions of the labor counsel that no evidence of conspiracy had been submitted, and said:

"Those who have had much to do with conspiracy know that it is seldom established by direct evidence. All that is necessary to show is a concert of action all looking toward a common purpose. It must be established by a long chain of circumstances. In fact, a circumstantial case."

Early in the proceedings Judge Wilkerson presented the main question in the controversy, which must, he said, be met and solved at some stage of the proceedings.

"The Government, as I read the bill," he said, "charges that the dominant purpose of the conspiracy is to restrain interstate commerce, destroy interstate commerce. In other words, that that is not a mere effect which necessarily flows from certain unlawful acts alleged in the bill, but that the dominant purpose of this conspiracy is to injure interstate commerce and that, therefore, all acts in furtherance of that purpose become unlawful by virtue of the alleged unlawful character of the conspiracy.

"The charge in the sworn bill of the torney General that the dominant purpose is to destroy interstate commerce is properly taken, at least until it is challenged and overcome in some way, as the basis for the establishment of a temporary restraining order."

The Court then suggested that the Attorney General go ahead with evidence before any hearing on Mr. Richberg's motion to modify.

Complains of Ex-Parte Statement.

"I will not file a motion for modification at this time," said Mr. Richberg, "for the reason, which I wish to make clear, that we have charged invasion of our constitutional rights, and we are not wishing to sleep on that charge."

When Assistant Solicitor General Blackstone Esterline arose to present his evidence, Mr. Richberg interrupted with this statement:

"I think I can properly request a statement from the Attorney General or his representative as to whether it is true or not that a statement which I can only describe as a criminal libel, printed this morning as issued by the Attorney General's office, was in fact given out by that office. That is a serious question for the Court to consider at the moment. The rights of the defendants are being infringed here by acts entirely outside the Court, and in contempt of this Court, and no private party would be permitted to take such action as this, and any private party issuing such a statement would be subject to immediate prosecution and indictment and imprisonment for criminal libel, because the acts charged to the knowledge of the parties are not the acts of the defendant to whom they are ascribed. It is deliberate and criminal defamation, and I wish to known whether the Attorney General's office takes the responsibility, which is stated here, for this statement. I call the attention of the Court to this outrageous invasion of our rights and contempt of the Court."

"We have nothing here on which the Court could have any action," said Judge Wilkerson.

"Shall I proceed, your Honor?" asked Mr. Esterline.

"I desire to read this into the record," said Mr. Richberg.

"You addressed your question to the Attorney General and the Attorney General did not see fit to answer it," said the Court. "Now, if you have any other you will have to get before the Court some showing which would justify an order."

"All I ask is that the Court will read the first paragraphs," said Mr. Richberg, passing the article in question to the Judge, who said he would read it later.

The reading of affidavits began, but long before the day was over the attorneys were talking of submitting them in batches, with a digest attached. All that would be necessary would be to glance over the digest. The acts described in the affidavits have been reported in newspapers as they occurred. Strike bulletins caused a little flurry among defense lawyers, as one of the contentions is that the union heads cannot be held responsible for the acts of the men.

Tells of Violence State by State.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The value, as evidence, of the affidavits of persons assaulted by railroad strikers and strike sympathizers, or affidavits of public or railroad officials claiming knowledge of such assaults, was vigorously opposed by Donald R. Richberg of Chicago and Frank Mulholland of Toledo, attorneys for strike leaders in the injunction proceedings here today. They fought their introduction and entered a general objection to all of them that the Government may produce.

The affidavits, they declared, are at the best only secondary evidence, and they fail, they added, to show any connection between their clients and the perpetrators of the acts of violence complained of.

A few isolated acts of violence among 400,000 men on strike are insignificant in themselves, Mr. Richberg declared. "They would occur even in an army under military discipline," he said, "and an army of 400,000 would have to have courts martial to deal with such cases, yet the existence of the army could not be called a conspiracy because of those scattered affairs."

He characterized the Government's evidence as being "may be half true," and denied the inference contained in one of the prosecution's exhibits that trains had ever been abandoned in the southwestern desert by their crews.

Mr. Richberg also challenged the reading of bulletins from various local strike headquarters over the country, presented to the court by J. A. C. Fowler, special assistant attorney general, and pointed out that the bulletins themselves in many cases showed the peaceful intent of the strikers and their desire to avoid violence and cooperate with the peace officials.

Blackburn Esterline, assistant of the Solicitor General, read nearly 200 of the affidavits telling of assaults to the Court today, and announced he would continue the reading tomorrow. Starting with attacks on Santa Fé workers in Chicago and Illinois points, Mr. Esterline worked West over that line, State by State, showing that its employees everywhere had been subjected to violence. From Santa Fe he shifted to the Southern Pacific and other roads operating in the Southwest, then worked north along the Pacific slope, and tomorrow will take up cases in the West and Northwest. Unless an agreement is reached to shorten the presentation, he said, he will read into the record reports of similar occurrences in every State and on every principal railroad line in the country.

Today's exhibits ranged from an affidavit of the tarring and feathering of a railroad employe with photographs attached through bombings, shootings, attempts to run down workers with automobiles, beatings, threats, verbal abuse, rock throwing and even intimidations of their wives and children.

In upholding the Government's right to develop its charge that the paramount purpose of the alleged conspiracy of the strikers is to destroy interstate commerce, before the defense motion for modification of the restraining order is acted on, Judge Wilkerson cited the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Coronado Coal case and similar decisions in the Retail Lumber Dealers' case and the prosecution of James A. Patten, of wheat corner fame, in the cotton corner case years ago.

The Government scored again during the defense attack on the reading of the assault affidavits when Judge Wilkerson cited the decision of the Illinois Supreme Court in the Chicago and Wilmington coal case, pointing out that the Court had held that it was unnecessary for the prosecution to prove any written or spoken word in furtherance of an alleged conspiracy. The mere existence, the Court said, in that case of concerted action leading to a certain chain of unlawful events was sufficient proof that a conspiracy did in fact exist.

"Sorry Spectacle," Says Gompers.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12.—"The proceeding at Chicago is a sorry spectacle," said Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, commenting today on the hearing on the rail shop injunction in Federal Judge Wilkerson's court.

"It avowedly is a part of the open-shop drive to destroy trade unions in order that big business interests may deal with the working individual."

DAUGHERTY ACCUSES KELLER.

He Says Impeachment Move Results From a Grudge.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—Commenting here today upon the impeachment resolution against him offered by Representative Keller of Minnesota, Attorney General Daugherty said Mr. Keller "has a grievance based on the fact that he could not control the Department of Justice in a case he was personally interested in."

WESTERN LINES SEEK POWER TO CUT RATES

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Changes in freight rates amounting in the aggregate to substantial reductions have been proposed by Western lines, the Transcontinental Freight Bureau announced today. The effective date of the changes has not been announced. Changes East of the Illinois-Indiana State line and East of the Mississippi River and South of the Ohio River are subject to concurrence of Eastern and Southern railroads.

An important hearing on the Southern Pacific Railroad's petition to reduce transcontinental rates on nearly 200 standard commodities, making a coast-to-coast joint rail and water rate equal to the present rates from Chicago to the Pacific Coast, was begun here today before F. C. Hillyer, chief examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Southern Pacific's claim that reductions must be made to meet Panama Canal competition is opposed by four other railways, State Commissions of Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio and Michigan, as well as some Chambers of Commerce and the Chicago Shippers' Conference Association.

The opponents of the Southern Pacific assert that should the reduced rates be allowed, the entire existing system of rates would be upset, a possible rate war result and heavy losses would be suffered by many manufacturers.

J. R. Bell, counsel for the Southern Pacific, set forth that the road is compelled by competition through the Panama Canal to reduce its coast-to-coast rates or the canal route soon would absorb most of the transcontinental shipping. The Southern Pacific, by its water route from New York to Galveston, Texas, Mr. Bell said, would be enabled to make the rate reductions sought.

Luther M. Walter, representing some of the opponents, declared that to equalize the New York to Pacific Coast and the Chicago to Pacific Coast rates would be a severe blow to Middle West shippers and manufacturers.

Such cities as Detroit and other Middle Western points virtually would be eliminated from the Pacific Coast trade, Mr. Walter said. The plan to which the Southern Pacific's petition should be granted, Mr. Walter said,

LEADERS SAY COURT INTIMIDATES LABOR

STIRS FEDERATION COUNCIL

Will Announce Plans for Aid to Shopmen in Few Days—Gompers Assails Ruling.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12.—The decision of Federal Judge Jules H. Wilkerson extending the temporary injunction against the striking shop crafts unions for ten days is regarded by organized labor as a "method of endeavoring to intimidate the railroad strikers into a settlement detrimental to the rights and interests of the railroad workers."

This view was expressed tonight by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, following today's meeting in the Ambassador Hotel, at which the Federal injunction proceedings and the shopmen's strike were considered. Samuel Gompers, President of the Federation, declared that "the proceeding in Chicago is a sorry spectacle, avowedly a part of the open shop drive to destroy trade unions in order that business and the financial interests may deal with the workers individually."

The opinion was expressed at the Council that Judge Wilkerson had extended the injunction with the hope that a settlement may be effected within the next ten days and "in that way afford both the Government and Judge Wilkerson a convenient method of getting out of an unwarranted position."

Neither the general strike nor the plan for financial aid to the shopmen was considered at the meeting, it was learned, but the Council's statement said that it expected within the next few days to announce "its general plan in aid of the striking railroad workers for justice and fair dealing." A general appeal to all organized labor in the country to contribute liberally to the financial support of the shopmen, it was learned, probably will be announced by the end of the week.

To Stamp Out Radicalism.

Determination of organized labor to stamp out of its ranks the radicals and "borers from within" was announced by the council, which approved the action of President Gompers in lifting the charter and reorganizing the Bookkeepers, Stenographers and Accountants' Union in New York City and ridding it of the communistic element. This house-cleaning movement, it was stated, will be extended until labor is freed of those "who are trying to break into and fasten themselves upon the labor movement for the purpose of promoting their personal schemes and thereby ruling the trade union organization."

The subject of education was considered, and it was announced that a campaign will be launched immediately to carry the study of the trade union movement into the public schools throughout the country. Through the Federal Educational Bureau, the council plans to organize trade union classes in every city and to interest the professional teaching forces in joining with labor in the movement.

Reports of the injunction proceedings sent to the council room direct from Chicago by telegraph and telephone kept the members of that body busy the greater part of the day. President Gompers made no secret of the fact that he was indignant at the Government for pressing the injunction.

"It would certainly better become the Administration," said the veteran labor leader, "to use its vast array of legal talent to prosecute the war grafters as exposed by Messrs. Woodruff and Johnson, Republican members of the House of Representatives, rather than persecute workingmen for insisting upon a wage sufficient to raise an American family in health and decency."

Calls It Intimidation.

While the meeting was behind closed doors, a statement was issued tonight which said: "Judge Wilkerson's decision to extend the temporary injunction for ten days was informally considered by the Executive Council. This decision of Judge Wilkerson caused no surprise, and the extension of it to ten days is looked upon as embracing a doubt in the mind of Judge Wilkerson as to the legality of his own decree as originally framed, and his hope that a settlement may be effected between the railway shopmen's union and many of the railroads by the time the ten days will have elapsed, and in that way afford both the Government and Judge Wilkerson a convenient method of getting out of an unwarranted position.

"Labor views this decision on the part of Judge Wilkinson as of a most peculiar character, and cannot view the procedure in any other light than as a method of endeavoring to intimidate the railroad strikers into a settlement detrimental to the rights and interests of the railroad workers. It is expected that within the next few days the council will announce its general plan in aid of the striking railroad workers for justice and fair dealing.

Being a wholesale dealer, Mr. Coyle would make no prediction as to the probable retail price. Last March with the price of anthracite $8.10 a ton at the mines, it sold at retail here for $12.10. With the price at the mines $9.50 a ton, it was said that the retail price would be at least $14.10 and might reach $14.50.

Mr. Coyle said his company's three collieries were now producing 60 per cent. of their normal capacity, and would be running at 90 per cent. within two days and "full blast" within a week. He said that practically all the miners had reported for work and that there had been no "drifting," as most of those who had found jobs elsewhere had returned before the reopening of the mines when they learned that the strike was to be settled.

Price Worries Fuel Authorities.

The question of price is admittedly one that will cause much worry to the Federal and State fuel authorities. There are seven large companies mining anthracite, formerly owned by railroads, which produce about 80 per cent. of the entire output. These are expected to set a price little, if any, higher than that which prevailed last March.

Whether the independent operators will be permitted to add 75 cents a ton to the price, as was allowed by Dr. Harry A. Garfield, the Federal Fuel Administrator, during the war, was a question upon which the coal operators were awaiting a decision. Independent operators contended that it cost them that much and more a ton to raise coal than it did the larger companies and that they should be permitted to charge a higher price for that reason.

William H. Woodin, State Fuel Administrator, was in Albany yesterday, but will be back today in time for a conference with members of the local retail coal dealers' [illegible] The plan to [illegible] Administration and to require each consumer to swear to the necessity of his order will be considered. The question of price probably will be discussed. Difficulty in fixing a fair retail price is expected, particularly if the independents are permitted to charge a higher wholesale price than the large companies. In that case, it was said, an average would have to be struck for the retail price.

Soft Coal Production.

Final reports of soft coal production for the week ended Sept. 2 indicated a total of 9,182,000 tons mined. The record was awaited as an indication of the supply to be expected after the general resumption of bituminous mining under the Cleveland agreement. During the week from Sept. 4 to Sept. 9, because of the Labor Day holiday, the output was estimated at about 8,700,000 tons.

The present rate of bituminous production is estimated at about 9,600,000 tons a week, as compared with an average of 11,750,000 tons a week during the corresponding period in 1920 and 11,840,000 tons a week in 1919. The present rate of soft coal movement, even with priority in the use of open top cars, is 18 per cent. below 1920 and 15 per cent. below 1919.

Under the Federal Fuel Distributor's order directing coal to Lake Erie ports shipments during the week ended Sept. 2 increased 70 per cent., and, according to reports from the Ore and Coal Exchange, a total of 463,242 tons was dumped as compared with 259,508 tons during the week preceding. The total quantity of cargo coal forwarded during the present lake season now stands at 5,837,225 tons to destinations not ordinarily taking lake coal. The quantity thus far sent to the regular lake market is only 4,441,043 tons as against 16,216,384 tons in 1921 and 11,346,997 tons in 1920.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters issued a warning yesterday in regard to precautions to be taken in the use of bituminous coal or other fuel as a substitute for anthracite. Users of bituminous coal were urged to take precautions against its spontaneous combustion, to clean furnace flues and pipes and to keep wooden constructions away from the furnace or any of its connections. Instructions to reduce the fire hazard also were given for those who use oil, gas and electricity for heating purposes.

COAL MINERS AIDED BY HARRIMAN BANK

$100,000 FROM INDIANA BANK

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12.—That the Harriman National Bank of New York and the Indiana National Bank of Indianapolis helped to finance the recent nation-wide strike of mine workers was revealed here tonight by William Green, Secretary-Treasurer of the United Mine Workers, upon his arrival here tonight to attend the meeting of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor. He said that each of these banks loaned the union $100,000, accepting as security, with no collateral, the notes of the three international officers.

Mr. Green, who is also a Vice President of the Federation, said that the strike had cost the international organization more than $1,000,000, and in order to meet this heavy expenditure it had been necessary to obtain $200,000 from the two banks, sell $550,000 worth of bonds and securities held by the union and borrow $50,000 from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. The loan from the Harriman banking interests, Mr. Green said, was arranged last July, after the union officials had been introduced to Joseph W. Harriman, President, and H. P. Rosen, Chairman of the Executive Committee, of the bank by Benjamin Schlesinger, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. He said that officials of the bank had offered to make further loans if the money were needed.

Loan a Pleasant Surprise.

"The New York loan," said Mr. Green, "was a pleasant surprise to our union. There was not the slightest difficulty. Mr. Rosen and other officials of the bank showed us every consideration. It was a regular business transaction. The notes signed by President John L. Lewis, Vice President Philip Murray and myself were payable in six months. This is the first instance that I know of where a large banking interest has aided a labor organization. The Indiana National Bank also offered further financial aid."

President Green said that with $1,500,000 of its funds tied up as bonds in the Coronado and the Pennsylvania Mining Company appeal cases in the United States Supreme Court, the union was faced with an unusually difficult task in financing expenses of the international organization in the conduct of the strike.

"During the war we purchased a large number of Government bonds and other securities," he explained. "Of these that were available we started to dispose of as the first step in financing our struggle. In June we arranged for a loan of $50,000 from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen at their headquarters in Cleveland.

Schlesinger Showed the Way.

"We borrowed $100,000 from the Indiana bank and then were called to New York by the offer of financial aid by President Schlesinger of the garment workers. His organization pledged us another $100,000, and Mr. Schlesinger said that he believed that another $100,000 could be obtained from the Harriman Bank and probably as much more. The loan was arranged. We also succeeded in getting released $175,000 held by the court in the Pennsylvania appeal case, and we disposed of considerable numbers of bonds."

Mr. Green said that he had come to Atlantic City from New York, where he had disposed of $75,000 worth of Canadian bonds to banking firms. He said that the organization was "well upon its feet and the financial strain caused by the strike had been greatly relieved." The income of the union from dues and assessments upon the return of the miners to work, he said, would probably amount to $500,000 a month.

"We have not attempted to pay off any of the loans," he added, "but the union will have no difficulty in meeting its financial obligations. The strike is over and the men are at work. Conditions are looking better every day."

When President Lewis and Secretary Green went to New York last July Mr. Lewis was asked if banking interests were considering a loan to the union. He replied:

"What! Do you think that Wall Street or any of its banking crowd are going to help the striking miners? Does that seem probable? It would surprise you if it was so."

Confirmation by Mr. Green of the Harriman Bank loan aroused the interest of the labor chiefs attending the Executive Council meeting, and they indicated that they would ask the union official to make a detailed report at tomorrow's meeting.

The United Mine Workers of America are doing and for some time have done banking business with the Harriman National Bank "in accordance with business principles," said Joseph W. Harriman, President of the Harriman National Bank, yesterday afternoon soon after it became known that the United Mine Workers of America had obtained a $200,000 loan from the bank on the personal notes of union leaders without security.

At the office of Mr. Rosen in the Harriman National Bank, 527 Fifth Avenue, inquiries were referred to Mr. Harriman. At 12 East Forty-fourth Street, where Mr. Rosen conducts an insurance business, it was said that he left town for the afternoon. Mr. Rosen is an insurance solicitor who is credited with having arranged $5,000,000 worth of life insurance for Adolph Zukor, $4,000,000 for Rodman Wanamaker and $2,000,000 for John Mott Bowman. A business associate of Mr. Rosen said that he formerly operated practically all labor leaders as Bolsheviki until he came into contact with John L. Lewis, International President; Philip Murray, Vice President, and William Green, Secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, who were seeking a loan for the relief of the unemployed coal miners. After he became acquainted with the point of view of the workingman Mr. Rosen is said to have considerably altered his views and to have facilitated their plans to do business with the bank of which he is a Director.

When Mr. Harriman was asked for details of the loan said to have been advanced upon the personal notes of Lewis, Murray and Green, acting for the United Mine Workers, he said:

"The Harriman National Bank is a public institution and does business with corporations, individuals and all kinds of organizations, including labor organizations, railroads and coal corporations, also with Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Filipinos and some Americans, red, yellow, brown and white; in other words, without regard to race, creed or color. The United Mine Workers of America do banking business here, and have done so for some time. Their business with us has always been conducted along business lines. The nature of their transactions I am at no more liberty to discuss publicly than the business of others who do business here. They have conducted their business with us in accordance with business principles. It is their business; and it would not be proper for this bank to discuss their affairs. We are financial doctors, and doctors do not discuss the private affairs of their patients."

Note to France Says England Expects Aid to Safeguard Constantinople and Gallipoli.

VENICE PARLEYS PUT OFF

FAMINE MENACE IN SMYRNA

700,000 Will Be Without Food in a Week, Says American Near East Relief Director.

PARIS, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—Baron Hardinge of Penshurst, British Ambassador to France, tonight delivered a note to the French Government in which the British Government declares that it counts upon the support of the Allies to assure the defense of Constantinople and the Gallipoli Peninsula. As regards urgent military measures, the note proposes to leave that question to the Allied High Commissioners in Constantinople.

The communication is different from that sent to the Italian Government in reply to the invitation of Signor Schanzer, the Italian Foreign Minister, to hasten to Venice for the proposed conference on Near Eastern problems.

The French Cabinet at a meeting on Thursday will deliberate on the various notes received lately from the British and Italian Governments, and is expected to decide on the answers to be forwarded. Without anticipating the decisions which the Cabinet may agree upon and the methods it considers necessary in the present situation, it may be asserted that the French Government holds as firmly as does the British Government to the principle of the freedom of the Straits of the Dardanelles.

Conversations are taking place between Great Britain and France and the Turkish Nationalist and Greek Governments over the question of arriving at a basis of peace in the Near East. These conversations were taken up after the British Government had refused to consent to the immediate convening of the proposed conference in Venice to settle Near Eastern problems.

Great Britain notified France that she felt the proposed conference would be valueless until preliminary diplomatic negotiations had developed a general plan for peace upon which the conference could work. It is suggested now that the Venice meeting may be abandoned, giving way to another meeting later at some other place.

Active military and naval preparations are being made at Constantinople for the possible defense of the Strait of the Dardanelles, and it is reported in Paris unofficial quarters that the French, Italian and British forces in the Near East probably will co-operate closely in the event of a Nationalist move on the Sublime Porte in Constantinople.

The French Government is awaiting the receipt of the official Turkish Nationalist peace terms before making a formal declaration regarding its attitude on the disposition of Thrace and the Straits, but meantime the three powers are taking all the necessary military precautions in Constantinople.

Suggestion of Premiers' Meeting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—It is suggested today that Premier Lloyd George will have an interview with Premier Poincaré when he passes through France on his way to or from Geneva. The subject to be discussed between them is presumably the Near Eastern situation, on which, whatever their differences, there is at least this point of agreement, that they are both anxious to have some common minimum program when the Turkish demands are presented.

Here, it must be said, the urgency of the problem is not so insisted upon as it seems to be in London. M. Poincaré is at his country home in Lorraine, and, though the newspapers are filled with more or less complacent articles telling Mr. Lloyd George that his Near Eastern policy has failed, and why it has failed, there seems to be a disposition rather to wait and see what the British Cabinet suggests as an alternative to the Venice conference than to propose anything new. It was stated today that no new troops or naval units would be sent to the Near East, and from that fact the inference may be drawn that the French are prepared to trust Kemal Pasha not to start another war with the Allies or to push his demands further than they can be pushed at the conference table.

Kemal's Demands for Thrace.

It is recalled that at the Foreign Ministers' conference here last March the basis of agreement reached included the full sovereignty of Turkey in Constantinople and over a large part of Eastern Thrace, as well as over all Asia Minor, and the only claims now made by the Turks which will differ from these proposals are those for Smyrna and Adrianople.

Smyrna, it is admitted, must be handed over to the victors, but for Adrianople there is certain to be a stiff diplomatic fight, and it is there that the point of danger lies. In March it was suggested that a separate régime should be devised for this city, of the same sort as that proposed for Smyrna, and that suggestion will probably be made again.

It is also understood that the French will co-operate with the British in opposing any claim by the Turks for reparations from the Greeks. The admission of such a claim would inevitably open the way for a claim for reparations by the Allies on account of war damage done during the World War, and the discussion would become interminable.

On the whole, the situation and possibilities of agreement are regarded as brighter than at any time in the last five months, and should the interview between the Premiers take place it is hoped that it will be fruitful of some definite decision re-establishing peace or at least greatly contributing to its re-establishment.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—France notified the British Government today that she was in accord with Great Britain regarding the freedom of the Dardanelles and the Bosporus and was ready to discuss anything tending to a settlement, provided the legitimate aspirations of the Turks were safeguarded.

Week's Food Supply in Smyrna.

SMYRNA, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The 700,000 persons in Smyrna face famine within a week unless supplies arrive, according to H. C. Jaquith of Darien, Conn., managing director of the Near East Relief, who is superintending relief measures in co-operation with a group of Americans here. The food must come by boat, as the sea is the only route now left open.

The last of the foodstuffs left by the Greek army on its evacuation have been consumed, and the situation is growing more desperate hourly. Already 30,000 refugees are without a crumb of food. The relief organization has established its headquarters with other American agencies in a waterfront theatre, and the distribution system is working smoothly.

The commander of the Turkish troops of occupation is co-operating, and has promised that within two days the city will be adequately patrolled. This will enable resumption of the importation of foodstuffs by sea without the danger of riots. Only those refugees who had engaged passage before the entry of the Turks have been able to leave the city.

ATHENS, Sept. 11 (Associated Press).—General headquarters of the Greek Army for the Asia Minor district has been temporarily established on the Island of Chios, in the Aegean Sea, it is announced.

Up to Sunday 40,000 Greek troops had embarked from Smyrna, 33,000 from Mudania and 30,000 from Cheme. There remained 60,000, the embarkation of whom was to be effected Sunday. The landing of Greek troops at the home port of Piraeus is continuing to be carried out in an orderly manner.

It is expected the Greek Chamber of Deputies will be convened immediately, and that it will be decided to hold general elections in October.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—Brusa, which was occupied last week by irregular cavalry, was occupied formally last evening by the Turkish Fourth Army.

The greater part of the Greek army at Mudania was evacuated, withdrawing to Rodosto. There was no destruction, the town being handed over to the Turks peacefully by the Allied Military Commission. Two French companies and American Marines supervised the evacuation. The Foreign Minister, Ismet Pasha, called on the Spanish and Rumanian Ministers and made apologies for the damage done to their legations by irresponsible demonstrators on Sunday.

The Greek Government having ignored the demand of the Angora Government that Turkish prisoners interned in an unhealthy camp near Larissa be transferred to healthier quarters, the Turkish Red Crescent, it is announced, has notified the Hellenic Red Cross that unless within a fortnight such transfer is carried out, identical treatment will be applied to all Greek prisoners, including generals and other superior officers.

Explaining the Greek Debacle.

How the Greek army came to experience its disastrous defeat in Asia Minor is being variously explained in Greek quarters here. One report widely circulated is that a plan for the evacuation of the Greek army and material had been worked out before the Turkish offensive began, and that it was approved by the Athens Cabinet when General Hadjanestis submitted it, but that the Turkish offensive surprised the general while he was putting the plan into effect. When the Turks entered Smyrna, it is declared, they found the base depots thoroughly cleared out.

Another reason ascribed for the Greek defeat was the alleged unpopularity of Hadjanestis at the front. Large numbers of officers and men are said to have refused to obey orders from headquarters, and one report declared a general mutiny had been planned. When General Hadjanestis applied disciplinary measures and ordered some battalions to move from Afiun Karahissar they refused to start for Thrace as directed.

The Greek Patriarch of Constantinople, the Most Rev. Meletios Metaxakis, has telegraphed to the League of Nations Assembly, now sitting at Geneva, a stirring appeal for the relief of the refugees in Smyrna.

BRINDISI, Italy, Sept. 12.—Every steamer arriving here from the Near East is bringing hundreds of Italian refugees who left Asia Minor fearing complications under the new conditions created by the Turkish victory. They report the Greek army in such a state of complete demoralization that it would be difficult to rally it in the near future should the necessity arise to employ it in Thrace.

Greek bitterness over the defeat is alleged by some of the refugees to have taken the form of incendiarism, looting and destruction, with massacres in some villages, while Mustapha Kemal Pasha is asserted to be inexorably punishing any attempt to transgress his stern orders to respect life and property.

ROME, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The Stefani Agency says that at the request of the British Government the proposed conference in Venice has been postponed until an armistice between the Turks and the Greeks has been concluded and the situation stabilized.

The population of Saloniki, fearing disorders on account of the tension between the antagonistic elements caused by the Turkish victories, is said by the Tribuna to have asked that the city be occupied by Serbian troops.

MALTA, Sept. 12.—The British military transport Homuli, bound for India, has been diverted to Malta to take a British battalion to Constantinople.

GENEVA, Sept. 12.—The Turkish, through the Chargé d'Affaires of the Turkish delegation at Berne, has sent another letter to the League of Nations, in which it is again charged that the Greek Army in its retreat committed enormous excesses. The Angora Government, it is explained, desired to refer the matter to the League officials, but was somewhat puzzled as to whether to refer it to the Council or the Assembly, as both were in session and both were competent under the covenant to handle such matters.

The Government finally concluded to send the letter to the Steering Committee of the Assembly as the higher body.

Near East Crisis Alarms Germans.

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The Near Eastern situation today dominates the German press. The Frankfurter Zeitung says:

"England cannot yield on the Eastern question. Her prestige as a world power is too deeply involved. The Entente will be subjected to a hard test in the settlement of the question.

"The situation can be contemplated only with profound anxiety. We cannot assume a spirit of joy at the fire which has been kindled, for there is danger that the flames again will set Europe ablaze, or some day, at least, seriously burn our German skins."

INDIAN MOSLEMS CALL FOR RESTORED TURKEY

Cable Lloyd George That Sultan Must Be Supreme in Asia Minor and Thrace.

SIMLA, British India, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—A meeting of the Mussulman members of the Council of State and Legislative Assembly has sent a message to Premier Lloyd George declaring that it is vitally necessary that Great Britain observe strict neutrality as between the Turks and Greeks in the present conflict and earnestly appealing to the Government "to avail of this opportunity to restore Anglo-Turkish friendship, thereby effecting a reunion between the British and the Moslem world."

A message was also sent to the Viceroy, asserting in behalf of "seventy millions of his Majesty's Indian Moslem subjects" that it is essential to peace in the Near and Middle East and mutual co-operation and good-will that an honorable peace be concluded whereby the Turkish Empire retains Asia Minor and Thrace, including Adrianople, with guarantees for protection of the minorities, and whereby international control of Constantinople and the Strait shall be removed, with guarantees of freedom for the latter, and whereby the religious position of the Sultan as Caliph of Islam shall be duly recognized.

LLOYD GEORGE NOT TO QUIT.

Downing Street Denies Report Premier Again Offered to Resign.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Sept. 13.—The Manchester Daily Dispatch yesterday published a report that Mr. Lloyd George had renewed the offer he made to the Conservative wing of the Coalition to retire from the Premiership. It was added that the Prime Minister's health was none too good and that he insisted upon the necessity of a prolonged rest.

The Daily Telegraph made inquiries at 10 Downing Street and was informed "there is no foundation for the rumor that the Prime Minister intends to resign."

BELGIUM DEMANDS GOLD OF GERMANY

GERMANS PLEAD FOR TIME

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Once more the reparations crisis is looming up as the result of the failure of the direct negotiations between Brussels and Berlin for application of the Reparation Commission's decision of Aug. 31, and on Friday the situation arising from that failure is to be dismissed formally and a decision reached by the commission.

Today there arrived here, "to furnish necessary information on the situation," the usual German delegates, Bergen, Fischer and Bergmann, whose task it always is to explain just why Germany cannot at every particular time meet the demands of the commission. As usual, their explanations are being made privately and separately to members of the commission, but their tenor is just the same as it always has been—"The German Government is most anxious to pay and would desire nothing better than to pay, but at this time it is impossible because of the low rate of the mark, etc."

The task of the Germans is to try and persuade the commission to grant the extension of six months over and above its demand of Aug. 31 for the redemption of German Treasury bills with which they are asked to discharge this year's obligations to Belgium. That was the point on which the direct negotiations between the two Governments broke down. The German Government, acting with the Reichsbank, declared its willingness to furnish the bills and guarantees demanded if the time limit for redemption were extended by six months, but the Belgians, adhering strictly to the terms of the Reparation Commission's decision, which they felt they could not overstep, insisted that the bills be made payable in six months.

Plea Now Made to Commission.

The German delegates are now seeking to obtain this time extension from the commission, while the Belgians, still adhering to the terms of the decision of Aug. 31, are asking that 100,000,000 marks gold be transferred to the National Bank of Belgium as a guarantee for the 270,000,000 gold marks due before the end of the year and in agreement with the second clause of the Reparation Commission's decision.

That clause read that in the event of the Governments of Berlin and Brussels failing to come to an agreement as to guarantees for the six-month bills, gold should be deposited in a foreign bank approved by Belgium.

This alternative course of forcing the German Government to make a gold deposit abroad was at the time it was incorporated in the decision regarded as highly undesirable, as likely to have a bad effect on mark exchange, and its inclusion was more in the nature of a threat than of a practical proposal. It is now, however, almost the only alternative left to the commission in case the French and Belgians refuse to extend the time limit for redemption of the German bills.

The Germans are certain to point out that the Government cannot force the Reichsbank to deplete its gold reserve even to the extent of the 100,000,000 marks demanded by Belgium, and there will then recommence the old struggle within the commission as to whether or not "voluntary failure" of Germany to pay must be reported to the Governments and they invited to take whatever measures they individually or collectively think fit for enforcing payment.

In brief, the three courses open are:

First—The Reparation Commission may extend the time limit for redemption for the German bills offered in payment of this year's dues from six months to one year.

Second—The Reparation Commission may demand the deposit in a foreign bank of the 100,000,000 gold marks asked by Belgium as security for this year's payment.

Third—If the first course is refused by a majority of the Commission, and second, is refused by Germany, then all the Commission can do is report "voluntary failure" of Germany to meet her obligations, and so a new situation will be opened in which M. Poincaré may be expected to play the predominant role.

Formal Demand by Belgium.

PARIS, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—Formal demand was made on Germany tonight by the Belgian Government for the deposit of 100,000,000 gold marks in the National Bank of Brussels, but the demand is so worded as to permit a reply by Germany and further negotiations. Although Sept. 15 is the date fixed for the delivery of the gold, it is highly improbable that a definite decision in the new reparations tangle will be reached before next week. In the meantime the members of the commission are working for the inevitable compromise.

France is firmly behind the Brussels Government in demanding strict enforcement of the terms of the recent reparations decision, and strong representations from the French Premier, M. Poincaré, are believed to have been largely responsible for the withdrawal of the Belgian delegation from Berlin and tonight's request for gold.

Great Britain favors acceptance of the German proposals for the extension of the six months moratorium to eighteen months. Under this scheme Germany, with the Reichsbank's guarantee, would pay the 270,000,000 gold marks due this year in three instalments, in six, twelve and eighteen months. The compromise called for the payment of this amount in six months.

Much emphasis is placed by reparations circles on the effect the Stinnes-Lubersac agreement will probably have on M. Poincaré's decision. Final failure of the commission to carry out the terms of the recent compromise, it is believed by many observers, would be followed by French occupation of the Ruhr. This would mean the breaking up of the Stinnes-Lubersac accord, which is generally regarded in France as the first real sign of Germany's willingness to pay for the devastation of the war.

To Balk at Putting Up Gold.

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—While no official confirmation is forthcoming respecting the Paris report that Belgium had requested Germany to execute two treasury certificates of 50,000,000 gold marks each to cover the August and September reparations instalments, it is indirectly admitted that Herr Landsberg, the German Minister at Brussels, received a proposal from M. Jaspar, the Belgian Foreign Minister, Monday and forwarded it to Chancellor Wirth. The certificates were to be covered by a gold equivalent, which was to be deposited in a bank designated by Belgium.

TURKS' SUCCESS STIRS ARABS TO EMULATION

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 11.—The Turkish successes have tremendously excited the whole Arabian peninsula. Apart from the effect which the news must have on the populations of Syria, Palestine and Mesopotamia, who are already struggling against the various mandates held by Great Britain and France, it fires the imagination of Arabs, who dream of an Islamic empire in Arabia in the form of a confederation of eleven States, a commonwealth Government. This aspiration has been entertained for years, but has never been regarded seriously, and it is not necessary to regard it seriously today. The idea is impossible of realization for domestic reasons; its real significance lies in the evidence it affords of the strong renaissance of Arab nationalism.

Look up Arabia on the map. You see an irregular, oblong district, bounded on the north by Anatolia, on the east by Persia, on the south by the Arabian Sea and on the west by the Red and Mediterranean Seas, Sinai and Egypt. The centre of the peninsula is an unhabitable desert, but portions of the border, such as Syria and Palestine, are fertile. The eleven States within the peninsula are Syria, Palestine, Transjordania, the Hedjaz, Assir, Yemen, Hadramut, Bahrein, Oman, Nejd and Mesopotamia. The first three and the last are mandated territories; the others are spheres of British influence. The Arabs' idea is to form a union of the eleven States, with autonomy for each under a federal administration charged with dealing with matters affecting the common interest.

Palestine Arab officials attached to the Arab executive informed me that preparations for a joint movement of the interested States were now proceeding. They said that the project had been discussed by the Nationalist Arab organizations in Syria, Palestine, Transjordania, Hedjaz, Yemen, Hadramut and Mesopotamia, which had formally approved the scheme in principle. Replies have not yet been received from other States.

Apparently the project has hung fire lately owing to the dispute between Hussein, King of the Hedjaz, and Ibn Saud, the Sultan of Nejd, who, possessing the largest and finest Arab forces in the peninsula, is able to make the idea a temporary menace or kill it altogether for the present.

Ibn Saud receives an annual subsidy of $300,000 from the British Government, which would be forfeited if he took an unfriendly attitude toward British interests. Nevertheless, the French have been flirting with Saud, and the Turkish victories, which have been magnified by French propagandists in the Near East as due to French support of the Turks against Great Britain and Greece, have raised French prestige among the Near Eastern Moslems. The French are anxious to play off Saud against Hussein, as the latter, being the Sherif of Mecca and an Anglophile, is able to influence the considerable section of the Moslem world which, if not definitely pro-British, is at least not actively anti-British.

It is not unlikely, however, that the Hussein-Saud dispute will be settled in this generation, which implies that the Arabs' vision of a regenerated, united and independent Arabia will not be realized within any period which can be foreseen today. But it is certain that the spirit animating the Arabs' plan for an empire of their own, if it cannot find an outlet in an endeavor to make their dream come true, will be manifested in other ways. If the Kemalists are able to restore the Ottoman Empire, that fact will seriously impair Occidental prestige in Arabia.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE ACCEPT PEACE PLAN

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

over by a Chilean. League leaders face another nasty situation in a threat by Spain to quit the League if deprived of a place in the Council. Spain has been one of four non-permanent members of the Council since the organization of the League and in the rotation of places it had been tentatively decided to give her place to another country, perhaps Czechoslovakia.

In view of the Spanish threats the League leaders are now considering adding two to the number of permanent members, which would enable Spain to remain and also provide a place for a country of the Little Entente while keeping Belgium on.

England, France, Italy and Japan are permanent members of the Council. Brazil, Spain, China and Belgium this year are non-permanent members.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Sept. 12.—It was confirmed at Downing Street yesterday that Premier Lloyd George has definitely determined to go to Geneva, barring unexpected developments, and that he will leave London Tuesday or Wednesday next.

His address, it is understood, will deal with certain aspects of the European economic problem, but that the main point which Mr. Lloyd George will stress is disarmament in Europe following the example set by the Washington conference in regard to the Pacific.

The Daily Chronicle says:

"We start the Geneva conference with a certain amount of ground already cleared. A committee of the League has examined projects of disarmament and drafted one of its own. It cannot be said of them as it was said of the proposals of Lloyd George at Genoa that they represent the interests or prejudices of one nation and still less of one statesman, and yet there is an exceedingly strong likeness between the project recommended by the League and that which Lloyd George has had in mind.

"There is little political sympathy between Lord Robert Cecil and the Prime Minister, but what are called Lord Robert Cecil's proposals embody the central ideas that Lloyd George had advocated since the beginning of the year.

"When the League Committee urges that no scheme for disarmament can be successful that is not universal, that the basis of disarmament must be in a system of guarantee and amity and that this guarantee must penalize an aggressor as such irrespective of the general merits of his case, it is only saying in a bass voice what all Europe has heard over and over again in the Prime Minister's tenor.

"It matters not whether the voice is tenor or bass or on what instrument the tune is played so long as it is harmony."

CLEMENCEAU FEARS WAR.

Thinks Closer American-Allied Union Needed to Prevent It.

PARIS, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—M. Clemenceau believes that a closer union of America and the Allies and absolute co-operation between France and Great Britain are necessary to avoid a general conflict, with inevitable widespread ruin. He has sent a message to The London Times to this effect in reply to an inquiry prompted by the former Premier's forthcoming visit to the United States.

In a telegram which the Echo National will publish tomorrow M. Clemenceau says:

"I have received from The London Times the following:

"'Your communications to America have keenly interested the English public. Do you not believe that there is need not only of greater solidarity between America and the Allies, but that the most cordial entente and absolute co-operation between France and England are essential conditions of real peace and prosperity in Europe? Your reply will be greatly appreciated.'

"I have replied as follows:

"'I am completely in accord with you on all points and am happy to recognize that it is the policy you have always supported. The whole thing today is to determine the conditions. Otherwise the German war will be replaced by a general conflict, with inevitable ruin for every one.'"

GIFT OF LAND TO LEAGUE.

Switzerland Offers Site in Geneva for New Buildings.

GENEVA, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The League of Nations has been offered by Switzerland 40,000 square yards of ground here upon which to build a new home for the International Labor Bureau and an additional hall for meetings of the Assembly of the League and International conferences.

The offer was made today by Paul Usler, member of the Swiss National Council and Swiss delegate to the League, in the name of his nation.

Judging Style and Quality

Judge Webb of the Superior Court issued an injunction to safeguard my new $100,000 Style, and I issued specifications to safeguard the Quality.

I wish I could get the Judge to say as much about my Quality as he did about my Style, but the only trouble is the Judge himself couldn't tell the difference between the Quality of my $2.85 and any $5 hat in town—because there isn't any.

I sell more $5 hats for $2.85 than all the Exclusive High-Price Hatters in this city combined, sell for $5 and up.

My largest store sells more hats than any other men's hat store in this country, and my smallest store sells more hats per square foot of selling space than any hat store in the U. S. A.

There's a Reason for a Reputation for Quality that is not influenced by Price—and that reason is VOLUME, and I think you will agree that these statements speak VOLUMES.

The preference of a million is more eloquent than any statement I could make, and don't forget that that preference is based on Quality, because the Style speaks for itself.

It's a lot of fun to sell a Quality product at a popular Price, but it's not any trick at all to sell a cheap hat for less.

If you don't have your hat made to order, come in and look at the Styl-Judge first and then make your selection from any other shape or color that you think looks best on you.

MAINE VOTE A TEXT FOR RIVAL CLAIMS

HULL CALLS IT A PROTEST

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The results of yesterday's election in Maine were used as a text by politicians of both major political parties today to show, in the one case, that the outcome is propitious for Republican success in this years' Congressional contests, and, in the other, that, while the Republicans won in a steadfast Republican State, their losses were conspicuous enough to point to dissatisfaction with the Republican Administration. Statements were issued by leading Republicans and Democrats, each statement construing the Maine elections as favorabl to the political party whose cause was set forth.

These statements are usual after every Congressional election in Maine. The fact that in that State elections of Senators and Representatives in Congress are held two months in advance of the regular elections in all the other States has given the Maine contests a considerable importance, based on the contention that they indicate the trend of public opinion. If there is a falling off in the Republican vote the Democrats claim that this indicates widespread Democratic sentiment in the United States.

Maine elected a Republican Governor and re-elected Senator Frederick Hale. The Democrats made gains in the State Legislature. Senator Hale's vote was slightly behind that received by the Republican candidate for Governor, but Mr. Hale got about three times the majority he received when he ran for Senator six years ago and he pointed to this as assurance of increased Republican popularity.

Republican Slump Is Cited.

At the same time Democratic politicians found cause for rejoicing—in the statements they issued—over the falling off in the Republican vote and gains made by the Democrats. By comparison with the vote cast in the Presidential and Congressional elections of 1920, when Harding swept the State by the heavy majority—for Maine—of 77,394, yesterday's vote for the Republican candidates for Governor and Senator showed a heavy falling off, with majorities of something less than 30,000. But it is contended by Republicans that 1920 was an abnormal year, with a tremendous trend to the Republican ticket, and that the comparison is not fair.

It is apparent, however, that the Maine Republicans yesterday failed to poll about 30,000 votes that they had in the elections two years ago. In the face of this falling off, the Democrats gained about 3,000 votes. Impartial observers construe this to mean that while some 30,000 Republicans refused to vote their party ticket this year, only about 3,000 of them were dissatisfied enough with their party to vote for Democratic candidates. And all the Republican candidates for Congress were elected by substantial majorities, although not as high as those received in 1920.

In the circumstances, neither party is finding any great amount of satisfaction over the Maine outcome as a forerunner of what may be expected in the general elections in November. It is believed that to a certain extent the result indicates the prevailing trend of dissatisfaction with the Republican Party, but the Democratic gains in the volume of votes cast were not sufficient to make it appear that this dissatisfaction is of a sweeping character.

"I am naturally very much pleased with the result of the election in Maine," said Senator Hale. "The great majority for out ticket indicates, I believe, that the people of Maine are well satisfied with the present State Administration, with the Administration in Washington and with the work of the Republican Congress."

Walsh Sees Encouragement.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, Chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, which manages the contests of Democratic candidates for the Senate, made this comment:

"The result of the Maine election, on the whole, is encouraging to the Democrats. The Democratic Party made the fight in that State without funds and without speakers of national prominence because most prominent Democrats have been in Washington in the performance of their public duties. So the Democrats of Maine had practically no outside help of any kind. The national organization was not sufficiently organized to be of any assistance in the campaign.

"Considering all these circumstances the increased vote given to the Democratic candidates indicates that when the campaign gets into full swing for the November elections Democratic victories in the North and West are assured."

Senator McCormick of Illinois, Chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, answered Senator Walsh in the following statement:

"I invite my friend, Senator David Walsh, and his quondam candidate, Governor Cox, to analyze and consider the vote cast in the Maine election. A review of each biennial election since 1912 shows, with the single exception of the landslide of two years ago, the Republican victory over the Democrats yesterday was the greatest in ten years. Governor Cox was in Geneva, I think, when returns from the Missouri primary were published. Now that he is in the United States, candor and honesty will forbid him to remain silent about American, the League of Nations and the elections. We are eager to hear him speak and hope that he may unlock the lips of the Democratic candidates for re-election to the Senate—Messrs. Ashurst, Gerry, Hitchcock, Jones, Kendrick, McKellar, Pittman, Pomerene, Swanson, Trammell and King. Are they for going into the League or not? Have they repudiated Wilsonism as well as Bryanism or not?

"The Democratic leaders have been full of caustic condemnation of Republican efforts to restore the economic life of the country, but they have put forward no alternative program of their own, unless it be Governor Cox's proposal to go into the League. They are not frank enough to contrast the prosperous condition of America today with its depressed condition when Wilson left office, or to compare American recovery with the threatening bankruptcy of other countries; to contrast American wages and employment with the now terribly shrunken wages and the unemployment abroad. They may be as silent on these issues as they would have Governor Cox be silent on the League, but the facts speak and the voters will answer again as they have already answered in Maine.

"America knows how the elections are going. Europe knows now that Governor Cox was a vigorous and vehement but uninformed and uninfluential traveler."

Hull Analyses Results.

Cordell Hull, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, confined his comment to a comparison of the Republican majorities in Maine in 1920 and yesterday, with a few remarks to point out the significance of these figures. He said:

"1. That a Republican majority of 77,000 for Harding and 65,000 for Governor in 1920, have been reduced to 26,000 for Senator and 28,000 for Governor in 1922, or about 60 per cent.

"2. That the great slump in the total Republican vote shows there is a large element of Maine Republicans who are dissatisfied with this Administration and this Congress and stayed at home rather than vote their party ticket. Maine's psychology in this respect is not applicable to the disgruntled Republican voters in other sections of the country. Their protest will be registered at the polls.

"3. That while the Republican vote enormously decreased, the Democratic vote showed an increase of more than 20 per cent. over 1920.

"4. That the Republican majorities for Congressmen were cut down from 15,000 and 20,000 in 1920 to 4,000 and 10,000 or less in 1922. Locally the Democrats scored notable victories with big gains in the State Legislature and county offices.

"If Republicans can get any encouragement from these figures, their optimism is greater than their discernment of the trend of events.

The views of Senator Moses of New Hampshire were sought because he participated in the Maine pre-election campaign.

"The percentage shows up satisfactorily," he said. "The Republicans get 59 per cent. of the total vote this year as against 62 per cent. in 1920. For the ten-year period prior to the 1920 election, however, the Republican vote ranged between 51 and 54 per cent. of the total.

"The outcome goes to show that Maine, as usual, is a Republican State. I think it also shows that other Republican States are going to remain Republican. It certainly shows that however much the electorate may dislike us for our sins of omission and commission, they are not yet ready to throw themselves back into the arms of Democracy."

The victory of Senator France in the Maryland primaries is regarded as encouraging to the Democratic chances of electing a Senator to succeed him. A very general opinion exists among those who know political conditions in Maryland that with a strong Democratic trend there the Democratic prospects are greatly increased by having Senator France as the Republican candidate. His attitude in the Senate has estranged Republicans and the anti-France feeling is so pronounced that it is expected to be manifest through Republicans remaining away from the polls in November or voting the Democratic ticket. His espousal of the Soviet Government of Russia and his action in voting against the Four-Power Treaty negotiated during the Conference on Limitation of Armament have made him unpopular with large numbers of Republicans. Of all the States in which the Democrats are believed to have a chance of electing their candidates to fill places in the Senate now held by Republicans, Maryland is looked upon as being in the certain Democratic column with France as the Republican contender.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 12.—Revised figures on the election in Maine yesterday, with forty-four small towns missing, give Senator Frederick Hale, Republican, re-election over his Democratic opponent, former Governor Oakley C. Curtis, by a majority of 26,392 votes. The same precincts give Governor Percival P. Baxter, Republican, a margin of 28,671 over William R. Pattangall, Democrat, former Attorney General. The vote of these 501 precincts out of 635 in the State, representing 476 out of 520 cities and towns, was: For Senator—Hale, Republican, 99,183; Curtis, Democrat, 72,791. For Governor—Baxter, Republican, 102,094; Pattangall, Democrat, 73,423.

The same precincts in 1920, when the vote was the heaviest on record because of the interest in the Presidential election and the fact that women were voting for the first time, gave for Governor: Parkhurst, Republican, 133,313; McIntire, Democrat, 69,235.

The missing precincts cast less than 3,000 votes in 1920, when the Republican plurality for Governor was 66,346.

Latest returns on the Congressional vote show majorities for the four present Representatives from Maine, all Republicans, ranging from 4,206 to 10,000, as compared with Republican margins ranging from 14,000 to 19,000 in 1920. The vote was:

Second District (three precincts missing)—Wallace H. White Jr., Republican, 26,120; Bertrand G. McIntire, Democrat, 21,883.

Third District (twenty-one precincts missing)—John E. Nelson, Republican, 30,236; Leon O. Tebbetts, Democrat, 21,376.

Fourth District (forty-three precincts missing)—Ira G. Hersey, Republican, 15,144; James W. Sewall, Democrat, 9,443.

Governor Baxter said that the majorities given the Republican candidates were "entirely satisfactory and about what conservative political observers expected." Mr. Pattangall asserted that the campaign had "put the Democratic Party in good shape to make the fight in 1924," and said that returns which he had compiled showed that the Democrats had increased their membership in the Legislature from fifteen to forty or fifty in the House and from no Senators to three.

Miss Morgan, Mrs. Dora B. Pinkham of Fort Kent, was elected to the State House of Representatives. She is a Republican. Miss Nettie C. Burleigh, Republican, of Winslow, was defeated for Representative by a margin of only sixteen votes.

The women went to the polls in large numbers, but the vote of the men fell far behind that of 1920. The total vote was about 30,000 less than that of two years ago, the Republicans losing about 33,000 and the Democrats gaining 3,000.

The Republicans carried sixteen of the twenty cities, including Portland and every county. In Saco the Republicans won by one vote, and in Westbrook by fourteen votes. Old Town, which returned a Republican margin in 1920, shifted to the Democratic column yesterday, and Biddeford, Lewiston and Waterville largely increased their Democratic pluralities.

A canvass of unofficial returns from members of the Legislature indicates that the Democrats had elected three of the thirty-one Senators and thirty-five of the 151 Representatives of the House. They had sixteen Representatives and no Senators at the last session.

PLAN FUSION TO BEAT KLAN.

Texas Republicans Consider Joining Independent Democrats.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 12.—Texas Republicans are "seriously considering fusion" with independent Democrats, R. B. C. Creager of Brownsville, Chairman of the State Republican Committee announced here today. He came here to spend the week conferring with Democrats opposed to the Ku Klux Klan who have called a State-wide meeting for Saturday to consider nomination of a candidate to oppose Earle B. Mayfield, regular Democratic nominee for United States Senator.

Mayfield has been credited with Klan support. Mr. Creager said Republicans felt a Klansman should not be sent to the Senate and "we are approaching the promised fusion movement on that plane."

HUGHES STARTS BACK FROM RIO JANEIRO

VISIT HIGHLY OPPORTUNE

Copyright, 1922, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 12.—Secretary Hughes sailed for New York aboard the United States battleship Maryland a little before dark today, after a week's sojourn in the Brazilian capital which was marked by one of the most spontaneous and enthusiastic receptions ever given to a foreign visitor.

Mr. Hughes's landing from the Maryland on Sept. 5 was one of the most dignified and impressive ceremonies ever seen in Rio and was the subject of widespread comment. From that day until his departure the Brazilians met him with open arms wherever he went, not only because of his official position as Secretary of State of the United States and President Harding's personal representative at the Brazilian centennial celebration, but also because of his personality.

Mr. Hughes's visit was highly opportune, as it did more than anything else could have done to correct the mistaken impressions held by South Americans in regard to North Americans since the end of the war. The sincerity of his expressions of friendship opened the eyes of many South Americans.

Mr. Hughes's declarations at the American monument site dedication when he stated that the United States had no imperialistic outlook toward South America, coming from the American Secretary of State, could not but make an excellent impression in the country where supposedly the alleged imperialistic intentions of the United States are the principal stock in trade of professional politicians.

The Government's action in lodging Mr. Hughes and his party in Guanabara Palace was a courtesy which placed him in a distinct class as compared with other diplomatic visitors, but perhaps the best indication of the Brazilian appreciation of his mission was a visit to him on Monday by a joint committee of the Brazilian Senate and Chamber of Deputies. This was a spontaneous action on the part of Congress. The committee expressed in the most cordial terms its appreciation of Mr. Hughes and what he represented as an ambassador from the American Government and people.

The statement is made that the Brazilian Congress does not intend to send a similar committee to visit any other visitor, even the President of Portugal, who will arrive on Sept. 15.

Mr. Hughes's visit to the sickbed of Ruy Barbosa on Sunday afternoon will be remembered by Brazilians long after they forget his official actions and statements. Ruy Barbosa is the "grand old man" of Brazil and undoubtedly the first among Brazilian statesmen. He has long been a friend of the United States and is a close student of the American form of government. He was greatly moved by the visit from Mr. Hughes. His condition was such that Mr. Hughes was allowed to remain only a few minutes.

The rush of entertainment caused almost hourly changes in Mr. Hughes's plans for departure. After the American Legion was held for four days to take him to New York he finally decided late last night to go home on the Maryland to make the trip quicker. The Maryland, he said, had orders to steam eighteen knots an hour until three days from New York and then to make twenty-one knots an hour until she arrived.

Mr. Hughes's last day in Rio was a busy one. He was the guest of the Brazilian Bar at luncheon and met distinguished lawyers from other South American republics who are here for the centennial celebration. At 2:30 he called at the Foreign Office and said good-bye to the Foreign Minister. At 4:15 Mr. and Mrs. Hughes called at the Presidential palace and bade farewell to President and Mrs. Pessoa, who had been unusually cordial during his visit. Just before dusk he embarked in a cutter from the Maryland at the Admiralty dock, after bidding farewell to the American Ambassador and many other distinguished personages.

With Mr. and Mrs. Hughes aboard the Maryland are Admiral Jones and Justice and Mrs. Finch. General and Miss Bullard will depart at Sao Paulo, whence they will proceed to Buenos Aires incognito.

The last thing Mr. Hughes did before saying farewell to President Pessoa was to inspect the American Government building at the exposition, accompanied by contractors, architects and members of the United States Exposition Commission. As a result it was decided that no attempt would be made to install any American exhibits until the building was completed and equipped for use as the embassy building.

NEW NOW SNUBS BEVERIDGE

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 12.—The Republicans of Indiana are "up in the air," with the Fall campaign ready to open, because of the decision of Senator New to keep out of the State campaign this Fall.

In the bitter primary campaign last May Albert J. Beveridge won a sweeping victory over New. The latter has not only rejected the invitation of Republicans to come here and speak for Beveridge, but he has flung back at the friends of the latter the snub Beveridge passed to him in 1916, when the present candidate campaigned in sixteen States and left out Indiana, where New was a candidate.

Clarence R. Martin, campaign manager for Beveridge in the primary and now Chairman of the Republican headquarters bureau, wrote to Senator New asking him concerning his itinerary in Indiana during the coming campaign. Here is what the Senator replied:

"My itinerary will be easy to arrange, since I will follow the same route as that of Beveridge in 1916."

Republican leaders admitted today that they were worried "about the way New is acting." They said they had hoped the feeling created by the primary would not crop up and that New would "be good."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. — Senator New of Indiana tonight denied reports from Indianapolis that he would desert A. J. Beveridge, who defeated him for renomination in the Republican primaries, in the November election.

"There is not a thing in the report," said Mr. New. "I am not going to make any speeches in the campaign. I have not said a word about not supporting Beveridge, and all I care to say now is that I have supported every Republican ticket except in my first vote."

LODGE WINS, 3 TO 1; COX FOR GOVERNOR

not run for another term in the Seventh District, where Frederick Butler of Lawrence was unopposed for the Republican nomination. In the Sixteenth District, where Congressman Joseph Walsh retired some time ago to become a Superior Court Justice, there were four candidates for the Republican nomination.

Of the two Democratic Congressmen, both from Boston districts, Peter F. Tague had five opponents in the Tenth District and James A. Gallivan one in the Twelfth.

The name of one dead man appeared on the Republican primary ballot. Representative Mial W. Chase of Lynn, seeking renomination to the Legislature, died early this month after the ballots had been printed.

Count of Vote Delayed.

Count of the vote in this city was delayed as a result of the exhaustion of Democratic ballots in polling places in six wards. At a conference between the Mayor, the Board of Election Commissioners and other officials, it was decided to have emergency ballots printed and to reopen the polling places affected.

It was well into the evening before the freshly printed ballots could be delivered, and the count that was to have begun at 4 o'clock was necessarily deferred. The precincts involved were largely in the Tenth and Twelfth Congressional Districts, respectively on the north and south sides of the city.

The vote came out well in the early hours of the day, but heavy thunder showers in the afternoon cut down the attendance at the polls in many instances.

The only woman candidate on either o fthe State tickets was Alice E. Cram of Boston, who was nominated for State Auditor by the Democrats without opposition. Several woemn were candidates for legislative nomination in both parties.

WESTFIELD, Mass., Sept. 12.—Conceding to John F. Fitzgerald the Democratic gubernatorial nomination on the face of returns received at midnight, Joseph B. Ely, in a statement made at his home here tonight, said:

"I am deeply grateful to all my friends who worked so loyally in an effort to obtain my nomination."

Mr. Ely also sent the following telegram to John F. Fitzgerald:

"Please accept my congratulations upon your nomination."

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 13.—With more than one-fourth of the total number of 2,836 voting precincts reporting at 1 o'clock this morning, Senator Charles E. Townsend is leading his three opponents in the Republican Senatorial primaries held today by approximately 10,000 votes. State Senator Herbert F. Baker of Cheboygan, Farmer-Labor candidate, is the runner-up. Congressman Patrick H. Kelley of Lansing is third, with Major John G. Emery of Grand Rapids, former Commander of the American Legion, bringing up the rear.

Carl B. Pritsche, Senator Townsend's campaign manager, declares his candidate will win by 50,000.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—Michigan voters today gave their verdict on Senator Charles E. Townsend's support of Senator Truman H. Newberry, his colleague, while the latter was under fire in the upper house of Congress. The Newberry case, an issue in a score or more of State-wide primaries throughout the country this year, proved the one big issue in Michigan's primary.

The Newberry issue crowded all others into the background. Senator Townsend, however, in addition to declaring he believed no money had been spent illegally in the Newberry campaigns, asked renomination because of his support of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project. Baker opposed the Esch-Cummins railroad act and urged legislation favorable to farmers and working men. Kelley made a plea for greater economy in Government. Emery, in addition to voicing support for soldier bonus legislation, asserted he believed the time had come when "younger blood" should be injected into the Senate.

Only a normal vote was cast. This was in spite of ideal weather conditions and a larger women's vote than had been expected.

"The 'wet' and 'dry' issue found its way into several contests for Republican Congressional nominations, largely through efforts of the Michigan Division of the National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, whose officials put up a determined fight during the closing days of the campaign.

The "wets" carried their battle into six of the thirteen Congressional districts but concentrated their attack in the Sixth, where they opposed Grant W. Hudson of East Lansing, for many years identified with the Michigan Anti-Saloon League. The anti-prohibition forces backed William W. Blackney, of Flint.

In the First District, comprising part of the city of Detroit, five of the eight candidates for Congress were endorsed by the association. In the Thirteenth, located entirely within this city, Clarence J. McLeod, who served a short term in Congress, received support from the "wets." Samuel E. Crawford, of Ypsilanti, was the association's choice in the Second District; James McCarren, of Port Huron, in the Seventh, in opposition to Congressman Louis C. Cramton, and Martin S. McDonough of Iron River in the Twelfth, in opposition to Congressman W. Frank James.

BRUCE WINS IN MARYLAND.

Will Be Democratic Candidate Against Senator France in November

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 12.—Virtually complete returns from yesterday's Senatorial and Congressional primary show the nomination of William Cabell Bruce of Baltimore as the Democratic candidate to contest the re-election of Joseph Irwin France to the United States Senate at the November election. Senator France won a decisive victory over John W. Garrett, Secretary of the Washington Armament Conference, while Mr. Bruce is assured of victory in the three-cornered Democratic fight. Each will have about ninety delegates to their respective nominating conventions. Sixty-seven are necessary to a choice.

All the incumbent Representatives were renominated, five of the six being unopposed. The Congressional ticket follows:

First District—T. Alan Goldsborough, Democrat; no Republican candidate named as yet. Mr. Goldsborough, a dry, easily defeated Alexander M. Jackson, listed as wet, and Albert W. Sisk, who favors Governmental control of the liquor business.

Sixth District—Frank Mish, Democrat, wet; Frederick Zihlman, Republican incumbent, classed as dry by Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

SWEET AHEAD IN COLORADO.

He Leads in Democratic Race and Griffith in Republican.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 12.—William E. Sweet of Denver was leading in the first twenty-five precincts reporting in the first twenty-five precincts reporting in the Democratic contest for the nomination for Governor. These precincts were scattered throughout the State and included only one from Denver. The totals were: Sweet, 378; Fred Sabin, La Junta, 453; B. L. Jefferson, Steamboat Springs, 169.

In the Republican contest for Governor, Benjamin Griffith of Denver was leading Lieut. Gov. Earl Cooley of Trinidad on returns from fifteen scattered precincts. The totals were: Griffith, 230; Cooley, 91.

McLEOD DEFEATS BLEASE.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 12.—Thomas G. McLeod was indicated to have defeated Cole L. Blease today for the Democratic nomination for Governor on the basis of incomplete returns from all the forty-six counties. A tabulation of 155,451 votes by the State showed McLeod leading by 16,487 votes, and his nomination was assured beyond any doubt, according to that paper.

PROCTOR LEADS IN VERMONT

Apparently the Victor Over Foote in Governorship Race.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 12.—With returns from 64 of the State's 247 districts missing, Redfield Proctor, of Proctor, and son of the late Senator Proctor, was apparently certain of victory over Lieutenant Governor Abram W. Foote of Cornwall in the contest for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination at today's primaries.

The vote ror 233 towns and cities stood: Foote, 13,826; Proctor, 16,567.

Poindexter in the Lead.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 12.—Senator Miles Poindexter had a lead of 2,013 votes over his nearest opponent, George B. Lamping, in his fight for the Republican nomination at today's primary, according to the tabulation of 198 precincts out of 2,466 in the State. The vote was: Poindexter 6,502, Lamping 4,489, Austin E. Griffiths was third with 1,661, while Mrs. Frances C. Axtell had 1,469.

BRANDEGEE IN DEFENSE OF TARIFF AND BONUS

In Keynote Address to Connecticut Republicans He Calls Harding 'the Master Mechanic.'

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 12.—"President Harding is the master mechanic," United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee told the 600 delegates to the Republican State Convention at the Hyperion Theatre in making his keynote speech to the convention which tomorrow will renominate United States Senator George P. McLean of Simsbury, and will nominate for Governor, Charles A. Templeton, a Waterbury manufacturer. The keynote speech stressed strongly the advantages of the proposed high tariff to Connecticut, an industrial State.

Other probable nominations are: For Lieutenant Governor, Professor Hiram Bingham of Yale University; for Secretary of State, Donald J. Warner of Salisbury (renomination); for Treasurer, G. Harold Gilpatrick of Putnam (renomination); for Controller, Frederick J. Salmon of Westport; for Attorney General (four years), Frank E. Healy of Windsorlocks (renomination).

State Senator Arthur E. Bowers of Manchester is mentioned for Lieutenant Governor, and so is John Buckley of Union for Attorney General, but their selections are unlikely.

Governor Everett J. Lake's Executive Secretary, Harry W. Reynolds, arrived here tonight, but promptly announced his presence meant no change in the Governor's declaration that he would not actively seek a second term. Little is said of the proposed platform, although a justification of the high tariff is probable and omission of reference to light wines and beer, soldiers' bonus and lower trolley fares seems certain.

Interest in the ticket and platform is eclipsed by the furious scramble of the thirty-five State Central Committeemen, who meet after the convention tomorrow afternoon, to elect a State Chairman. For the first time in twelve years a real drive is on against Chairman F. Henry Roraback, who is also National Committeeman, and this tonight his supporters and his opponents, led by Attorney General Healy, former National Committeeman John T. King of Bridgeport and Colonel Isaac Ullman of this city, are claiming victory. Mayor Charles A. Gates of Willimantic, Sheriff of Windham County, and a veteran member of the committee, is the choice of the Healy-Ullman-King insurgents.

"If the Washington Senatorial influence and pressure keeps off and does not interfere in a State situation, we will win and will supplant Roraback," declared the spokesman of the insurgents tonight, "and if the Senators who voted for the bonus while the five Connecticut Congressmen voted against it persist in actively supporting Roraback, it means disaster for the whole Republican ticket from Senator McLean down in the November election."

Senator Brandegee in his speech defended the Tariff bill and his vote for the Bonus bill. He declared the country could stand whatever financial burden the bonus put on it. In commenting on the coal and railway strikes, he said:

"Some civilized method must be devised by which laboring men who belong to unions may have their differences with their employers adjusted by a peaceful method, as the differences of other people are adjusted.

"The country will not permit, and ought not to permit, any labor union or any other combination of men to throttle its activities by decline to submit their differences to arbitration, or to refuse any judicial and orderly settlement of their disagreement."

SUM TWICE EARLIER OFFER

Shipping Board Sale Does Not Include Equipment—Buyer Must Dismantle Them All.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Government's fleet of 226 war-built wooden ships was sold today at private competitive sale by the United States Shipping Emergency Fleet Corporation to George D. Perry, member of the law firm of Lent & Humphrey, Mills Building, San Francisco, for $750,000. As it cost close to $700,000 to build each of these vessels, the fleet was sold for virtually the cost of one ship.

Most of these ships have been riding at anchor for months in the James River and comprise practically the entire wooden fleet owned by the Shipping Board. The deal will net the Government a little more than $3,318 a vessel, or nearly twice what the Government would have received had it carried out the deal of last August when it contemplated selling 205 of the wooden ships to the Ship Construction and Trading Company of 11 Broadway, New York, for about $430,500. At that time it was proposed to sell the vessels for $2,100 each and the equipment was to go with them. The value of the equipment is estimated to be $600 a vessel.

The sale authorized today does not include the equipment, so that by not going through with the deal formerly proposed and waiting a year longer the board obtains practically twice the earlier figure.

Long a White Elephant.

These wooden ships have long been a white elephant on the hands of the Federal Government. While members of the Shipping Board recognize that they are disposing of the wooden fleet for a very low figure, then are convinced, they say, that this is the best deal that could have been made in the interest of the Government. Present and former Shipping Boards had advertised three times before the sale of the vessels and received only one prior bid for the sale of the entire fleet—that of the Ship Construction and Trading Company of New York on July 30, 1921. For some time it cost the Government nearly $50,000 a month to take care of the ships, and two tugs in the James River have been used in pumping water from them to keep units of the fleet from sinking. It also cost the Government something to employ a force of men on board the ships to keep them from sinking.

Today's sale of the wooden fleet was conducted by the Shipping Board, with Chairman Lasker presiding. There were approximately ten bidders present, many of whom had come prepared to bid upon the fleet in lots rather than as a whole; but Sidney Henry, director of sales of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, who conducted the preliminaries, stated that the board would offer for sale the whole number of ships as a unit.

Chairman Lasker then took charge. The opening bid was $406,800, made by the Dravo Contracting Company of Pittsburgh, represented by F. R. Dravo and former Representative James F. Burke of Pennsylvania. William F. Humphrey of Lent & Humphrey, San Francisco, represented Mr. Perry, the successful bidder.

When the bids reached $625,000 Mr. Lasker called the board into executive session to ascertain whether he should continue the sale on the unit basis or offer the vessels for sale in lots. At the conclusion of the conference it was decided by the board to continue the sale, which was accordingly done. From this point onward the bidding was exceedingly spirited between the Pittsburgh and San Francisco bidders, the Dravo Contracting Company finally stopping at $749,000. Mr. Humphrey, in the name of Mr. Perry, then offered $750,000 for the fleet, and the vessels were sold to him at that price.

Two hundred and seventeen of the vessels sold are of wood construction, the other nine being composite wood and steel.

Terms of the Purchase.

Mr. Humphrey, who is also President of the Olympic Club of San Francisco, announced that in addition to Mr. Perry, J. J. Tyson, of Charles Nelson & Co., San Francisco, is also interested in the purchase.

Mr. Humphrey signed the following agreement with the Fleet Corporation:

"Confirming my verbal bid at the sale today, I hereby offer the sum of $750,000 for the 226 wooden and composite ships, 211 of which are located at Claremont, Va., thirteen at Orange, Texas, and two at Beaumont, Texas. This offer is made with the understanding that there will be incorporated in the bills of sale the condition that the ships shall not be operated as steamships and will be promptly dismantled as such.

"I have examined and inspected the above mentioned vessels and agree to purchase them 'as is and where is' without warranty or guarantee as to their condition, capacity, equipment, tonnage, correctness of their description or otherwise.

"There has been deposited with you a certified check or equivalent for $75,000, representing approximately 10 per cent. of my offer. I agree that within thirty days from the date of notification by the Emergency Fleet Corporation that the bills of sale are ready for delivery I will accept delivery, and within ten days of the date of this notice I will pay by certified check or equivalent an amount sufficient to increase the deposit to 25 per cent. of the purchase price, and I will also deposit with you an irrevocable domestic letter of credit satisfactory to you covering the balance of 75 per cent. of the purchase price and calling for three equal payments against clean drafts within thirty, sixty and ninety days of the date of the letter of credit.

"In the event that I fail to accept the delivery of these vessels or to pay the balance of the purchase price within the time specified I agree that the sale shall be considered null and void and that the payment of $75,000, already made, shall be retained by you as liquidated damages."

KING SAYS LASKER AIDS SHIP SUBSIDY

Senator Attacks Shipping Board for Alleged Financing of Propaganda.

HE DEMANDS A REPORT

Wants to Know If Board Intends to Provide $25,000,000 for Private Corporation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—A severe attack on the Shipping Board in the Senate today, made by Senator King of Utah, preceded his action in offering a resolution calling on Chairman Lasker to inform the Senate whether the board "intends to finance the construction of additional ships by private parties." The resolution was due to statements attributed to Chairman Lasker that if the pending Administration ship subsidy bill was enacted the Shipping Board would furnish a shipbuilding company with $25,000,000 to enable it to construct a steamship of 70,000 tons. Mr. Lasker, according to the preamble of Senator King's resolution, was responsible also for a statement that the board desired to expend at least $400,000,000 for new shipbuilding by private firms.

Senator King's resolution also sought to ascertain whether the Shipping Board was engaged in propaganda to help the passage of the Ship Subsidy bill and was spending public money for this purpose. The resolution was not taken up for consideration. In his remarks preliminary to offering the resolution Senator King charged that the board showed no improvement in its administrative activities and predicted that its policies would culminate in "overwhelming, humiliating financial disaster."

Mr. King said it appeared that some officials of the Shipping Board were spending more time on propaganda for ship subsidy than in executing their duties. The Board was pursuing a course which would end in compelling nearly every person who had purchased a ship from the Government to surrender it voluntarily or by force. Mr. Lasker's policy seemed to be "to despoil those who had made contracts and, ultimately, to put into the hands of a few individuals or corporations upon the Pacific Coast and a few corporations upon the Atlantic Coast all the ships now owned by the Government."

"We will have an Atlantic syndicate and a Pacific syndicate," said Senator King, "who will be the beneficiaries of the funds which it is hoped by certain persons will be taken out of the Treasury under the guise of a ship subsidy."

The resolution offered by Senator King read as follows:

"Whereas, it is alleged the Chairman of the Shipping Board has announced in the newspapers that the board intends, in the event that the impending Ship Subsidy bill be enacted into law, to advance to private parties $25,000,000 to finance the construction of a ship of 70,000 tons burden, and that the board desired to expend at least $400,000,000 of public moneys to finance the construction of additional ships by private parties; and, whereas,

"It is reported that officials, agents and employes of the Shipping Board, under the guise of hearings and otherwise, are carrying on a propaganda in favor of the Ship Subsidy bill, and are spending large amounts of public money in various ways in the furtherance of such propaganda; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Chairman of the Shipping Board be required and directed to report to the Senate whether or not the board intends to finance the construction of additional ships by private parties, and if so to report to the Senate the details of such plan and the money it intends to advance for such purpose, and further to report the amount of any and all moneys that have been or are being expended for newspaper articles, in advertising, traveling expenses, hearings, lectures, addresses or other means of propaganda to promote the passage of said Ship Subsidy bill, together with a statement of the activities of the officials, agents and employes of the Shipping Board with respect thereto."

BIG MACMILLAN WELCOME.

Explorer Tells Home Folk Baffin Land Is a Peninsula.

WISCASSET, Me., Sept. 12.—The most important discovery made by Donald B. MacMillan in his fourteen months exploration in the Arctic was that Baffin Land is a narrow peninsula and not a great land as mapped, the explorer stated in responding to the welcome accorded him on his home-coming today.

The exploration schooner Bowdoin, with MacMillan and his companions aboard, was escorted to the town from her overnight anchorage in Boothbay Harbor by a fleet of small craft. A committee of welcome awaited the schoner's arrival in the harbor and received MacMillan, while the crew of the Bowdoin was transferred to a launch. All then proceeded to the dock.

The welcoming exercises were held before 3,000 people on the green in front of a church, where Samuel J. Sewall extended to the explorer the greetings of the people of Wiscasset. Governor Percival P. Baxter welcomed him in the name of the State, and President Kenneth C. M. Sills of Bowdoin College on behalf of MacMillan's alma mater.

After responding to the welcome, MacMillan left with a party of friends for his home in Freeport, where he spent the night. Tomorrow he will return here to supervise the removal from the schooner of specimens which he has brought back. After the Bowdoin has been in dry dock for overhauling the explorer will sail for Provincetown, Mass., to attend the international fishermen's race at Gloucester in October.

While MacMillan is not yet in a position to discuss plans for his next trip, he expects to return to the Arctic in July, sailing from Wiscasset in the Bowdoin.

It became known tonight that MacMillan, through the courtesy of officials at Monhigan Island, was able to cast his ballot for his college classmate, Governor Baxter, who was re-elected yesterday. This step was taken under an old law permitting a sailor to vote in whatever port he happened to be on election day.

WIFE SUES R. R. RICKETTS.

Seeks Divorce Because of Chicago Art Dealer's 'Artistic Temperament.'

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Rob Roy Ricketts, art connoisseur and member of the local Bohemian colony, was sued for divorce today by his second wife, Mrs. Gertrude C. Ricketts.

Habitual drunkenness and violent displays of "artistic temperament," which caused his first wife, Mrs. Jennie Bowmer Ricketts, to seek her freedom in 1918 were charged in today's bill.

Little more than a year elapsed from his divorce, when Mr. Ricketts, formerly a member of the firm of Moulton & Ricketts, art dealers, now bankrupt, married the present Mrs. Ricketts.

In the bankruptcy hearing which involved the $1,000,000 failure of Moulton & Ricketts, Mr. Ricketts revealed himself as the "guardian angel" of seventy-five inebriates whom he maintained in the Washingtonian home.

Windows of Ice

Nanook, the famous Eskimo, thrills moving picture audiences with his many accomplishments. Many apartment-hunting New Yorkers envy his building skill—a "house" cut out of snow and ready for occupancy within the twinkling of an eye. For a window, Nanook cuts a big, clear block of ice, and sets it in even to a "shutter" of ice to insure the best reflection of light inside the igloo.

Knickerbocker Ice is so crystal clear, so clean and shining, there is little doubt that it could be sold to the Eskimos if New York did not need the entire output of Knickerbocker's 21 plants to minister to comfort and health.

DAIL VOTE SUSTAINS FREE STATE LEADERS

BACKED ON POSTAL STRIKE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Sept. 12 (By Courier to Belfast).—At the close of the general debate today, the Dail Eireann passed by a large majority a resolution of confidence in the Government.

Late last evening the Government secured a conclusive victory in the Dail on the question of the right of civil servants to strike, which the postal crisis involves. Labor raised the issue on a motion to suspend the standing orders.

Tom Johnson argued that if the men had committed a crime they should be prosecuted and declared that the Government policy, if pursued, would cause every organized worker in Ireland to be against them.

Kevin O'Higgins, the Minister responsible for the proclamation against the strikers, contended that the postal workers carried on a national executive function and were servants of the State. No State with any regard for its own safety could admit the right of servants of the executive to withdraw their labor at pleasure. They had a right to resign but not to strike.

On a division the Government secured a majority of twenty-seven.

Apart from the arrest and dispersal of pickets, the strike has passed off with little disorder. The only exception occurred at night, when shots were fired at the central telegraph office and a civilian was wounded. Some of the workers remained on duty and the Government was able to maintain a service essential to its own needs.

In the Dail this evening General Mulcahy, Minister for Defence, disclosed that the reason for the opening of the attack on the irregulars at the Four Courts was that the latter contemplated a coup against the British troops remaining in the country. This fact was announced at the time, but until today chapter and verse were not given. Mulcahy quoted a document in the handwriting of one of the irregular executive officers. This contained a resolution for "giving the English two hours' notice to evacuate the country." A sub report provided for attacks on the positions held by British troops and "embroilment of the Free State troops against the English, clearing out of the English Government from Dublin Casele, a resumpion of the war in England, with attacks against Cabinet Ministers and in Ulster."

"We cannot be squeamish with people who jeopardize the life of every single person in the country," said General Mulcahy. "We cannot have any soft feelings in our hearts when we have to oppose a force which threatens the whole life and safety of our nation."

He made his statement in the debate arising on the question of a vote of confidence in the Government.

Cosgrave, replying later to critics of the Cabinet's decision to attack the Republican in the Four Courts, said:

"If I have ever done a wise thing in my life I bank on that as the wisest I have ever done. I only wish that all the events in my life were as well justified as that was."

BAKER ON BRITISH ATTACK.

Has No Interest in Distribution of Praise or Blame in War.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 12.—Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, in a formal statement today, said he had no interest in "distributions of individual praise or blame" concerning the conduct of the World War, as the only answer he would make to the biography accorded him in the Encliopaedia Britannica. The biography detailed numerous criticisms of him.

"The American Army won the war," Mr. Baker said. "The American people, by their sacrifices and ideals sustained the army and ennobled the cause. The glory of it is a common possession and is of the great national tradition.

"I am deeply interested in gathering the fruits of this victory, as justice and peace for men everywhere, but I have little interest in distributions of individual praise or blame. Upon a comment purely personal to me, I have nothing to say."

ANARCHY THREATENS IN UPPER SILESIA

CURRENCY FAMINE A FACTOR

One Riot Caused by Payment of Wages in Polish Instead of German Paper Marks.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—The political and economic volcano of Upper Silesia is showing such signs of activity that the eruption, long felt by specialists to be inevitable, may be expected in the near future, according to confidential information which I have received.

The recent Jew-baitings in Kattowitz, assuming the character of pogroms and stopping just short of murder, were the first faint warning signals of coming trouble. The motive back of these pogroms was not anti-Semitism as such, but a mad, riotous protest of the masses against the high cost of living, which was blamed on resident and visiting Jewish merchants. The high cost of the necessaries of life and the money shortage, which Germany, too, has suffered for the last three weeks, have aggravated the unrest in Upper Silesia among the factory workers and miners to a feverish pitch. The main streets of Kattowitz, the capital of Upper Silesia, has been closed by the police. Stores and houses have been wrecked and looted. Polish Upper Silesia is on the verge of anarchy, and the German side of the border is being infected. Food riots involving bloodshed and heavy damage to property have taken place in Kattowitz and Bismarckhütte, and trouble is reported tonight from Königshütte.

The movement in Polish Upper Silesia is neither pro-Polish, nor pro-German, but is essentially Red, even Bolshevistic in Kattowitz relative order has been temporarily restored by the proclamation of martial law and the threat of death sentences for plundering.

In the Kattowitz riots, which caused more than 100,000,000 marks damage, the demonstrating thousands raised the cry: "We want bread! We want bacon! We want money!" leaving no doubt what was the occasion of the outbreak. In Bismarck Hutte the workers were told that they would be paid in Polish money on pay-day. Under the convention covering the partition of Upper Silesia, German currency continues to be the only legal tender in Polish Upper Silesia. In view of grave shortage of German paper money, many millions of Polish marks were rushed into Polish Upper Silesia by express trains. The workers, regardless of nationality or political creed, refused to accept their wages in Polish paper marks, which are even more worthless than German paper marks.

In Bismarck Hutte 8,000 workers marched to the home of the managing director, Herr Kallenborn, took him from his villa, dragged him through the streets, first to the City Hall and then to the Bismarck Iron Works, where the workmen beat him until he collapsed from loss of blood. A police detachment which intervened was disarmed by the enraged workers and the weapons of the police were smashed. The rioters dispersed only when a detachment of Polish infantry arrived and opened fire with rifles and machine guns. Nine are dead and many wounded.

Draconic ordinances have just been promulgated by the German Government to assure the masses that everything possible is being done to conserve the food supply and keep living costs down. The brewing of so-called "strong beer," to wit, stronger than 13 per cent., has been absolutely forbidden, and only one-quarter of the entire annual output of a brewery may in future consist of so-called "full beer," from 9 to 13 per cent. strong.

Liquors may no longer be manufactured from fruits suitable for human consumption, and last year's restrictions on the manufacture of alcoholic spirits from potatoes by Junkers and agrarians will be re-imposed, despite this year's bumper potato crop. Lastly, domestic sugar may not be used in the manufacture of chocolate candies, alcoholic liquors, liqueurs and champagne.

gations of which in this country are already, by a temporary concordat, being cared for by Episcopal Bishops in the Jurisdiction where these congregations are located.

At the request of Bishop Colmore of Porto Rico a special committee was appointed to consider closer relations between the Episcopal Church in that island and "other Christian congregations."

Bishop Nichols of California presented the report of the Joint Commission on Women's Work, of which he is Chairman. If it is adopted woman can become members of the vestry in every Diocese and sit as members of the House of Deputies. Where the word "layman" now occurs "lay communicant of this Church" will be substituted, making the provision read: "The Church in each Diocese which has been admitted to union with the General Convention shall be entitled to representation in the House of Deputies by not more than four presbyters canonically resident in the Diocese and not more than four lay communicants of this church having domicile in the church."

The report was referred to the Committee on Constitutional Amendments. Bishop Nichols is reported to have stated that only ten Bishops had stated they were in favor of a national house of church women. Sixty were opposed and eighteen were indefinite. The report further stated that only twenty-five Bishops had stated that they favored the removal of any bar to the eligibility of women in the House of Deputies, forty were opposed and twenty-three were indefinite. The report ended:

"The commission believes that in the near future the sentiment will be strong throughout the church that women should be admitted to membership in the House of Deputies."

On motion of Bishop Manning of New York, who led the devotions today, the Bishops this afternoon rescinded the action of yesterday in asking for a reopening of the question of giving to Suffragan Bishops a vote in the House of Bishops. The motion also asked that the House of Deputies review their official message of yesterday, which was that a committee on conference from the two houses be appointed. It is believed this will be the death knell in this convention of the move to get the vote for Suffragans. Bishop Anderson of Chicago and Bishop Guerry of South Carolina spoke against the recall.

Bishop Manning asserted that the House of Bishops, in asking for a committee on conference, had done a most unparliamentary thing in the view of the best known legal authorities at the convention.

There are two Suffragans in New York. One is the Right Rev. Arthur S. Lloyd and the other is the Right Rev. Herbert Shipman. The diocese of Arkansas is the only other with two Suffragans. One is white and one a negro.

In the House of Deputies another attempt was made to sidetrack any revision of the prayer book. Judge George F. Henry, of Des Moines, presented a resolution to appoint a "sifting committee," but it was lost by a large majority.

The House of Deputies this afternoon passed a resolution to create the House of Bishops concurring, a special committee of one bishop, one clergyman and one layman to wait on Secretary Hughes and ask him to take such action as is possible against the growing use of opium in this country. The Rev. W. H. Bliss of Olympia, Wash., said there were about 2,000,000 opium addicts in the United States and that many girls and boys were being led to immorality through its use.

After a session behind closed doors which lasted two hours the House of Bishops late this afternoon accepted the resignation of the Right Rev. Robert L. Paddock as Bishop of Eastern Oregon. Bishop Paddock is in New York, where some months ago he suffered a nervous breakdown. The report of the Special Committee on Bishop Paddock's case was presented by Bishop Winchester of Arkansas, and was as follows:

"Your committee respectively reports:

"That as Bishop Paddock's medical specialists have agreed that an invalid's chair or something worse will be ahead of him if he continues his work in Eastern Oregon, there is no course open to this house but to accept his resignation. Moreover, we believe that in kindness to him it is desirable that his resignation be accepted at once, in order that his condition be not further aggravated by any suspense in this matter.

"Your committee knows, however, that Bishop Paddock's resignation will be received with profound regret. We shall lose from the missionary field a leader whose work has been of a peculiarly apostolic character. His life in the episcopate has been conspicuous for its selfdenial and saintliness. The whole Church has been watching with the deepest interest an experiment in self-support unique in the missionary history of the American Church. It is a cause of sorrow to us all that Bishop Paddock is not able to go on with his attempt which has produced results beneficial to this Church. We pray that his recovery may be speedy, and that he may soon be able to continue his work for the Church."

Cupid Grand

Established 1872

THE Cupid Grand is the final expression of thirty-eight years of effort toward the production of a diminutive Grand that should possess every quality of tone and touch that makes the Grand the artist's piano.

The Cupid is the most beautifully encased of miniature Grands but the attainment of external beauty has been but a subordinate aim of its makers. It is the possession of true Sohmer tone—superb in quality, astonishing in volume—that has lifted the Cupid Grand to a high place among Sohmer accomplishments and insures life-long pride and pleasure in its ownership.

The visitor to the Sohmer Galleries finds a place where Sohmer Pianos may be inspected, tried and compared in an agreeable environment.

Sohmer Pianos may be purchased with a ten percent deposit and balance in monthly payments. Liberal allowance made for your piano.

Catalog mailed on request

SCENES OF HORROR IN HAMMONIA WRECK

MANY SURVIVORS COMPLAIN

Second and Third Class Passengers Say First Class Were Warned Well in Time.

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—Thirty women and children drowned when two small boats capsized, are believed here to represent the total loss of life among the passengers of the ill-fated Hammonia, which sank on Saturday off Vigo, Spain.

The steamship Soldier Prince, which carries some of the survivors of the disaster, reported today that the two boats, carrying the thirty women and children and manned by crews from the Hammonia, turned over immediately after leaving the sinking vessel. All were lost. These are believed to be the only casualties.

Scenes of Horror in Wreck.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The loss of life in the foundering of the German steamship Hammonia off Vigo, Spain, last Saturday, will probably never be definitely known. The passenger list was not saved, and the total of those on board can only be approximated.

Captain Alfred Hoefer, commander of the Hammonia, asserts that only fifteen persons are missing out of a total of 557. The crew, he believes, numbered 192 and the passengers 365.

Captain Day, commanding the steamship Kinfauns Castle, which brought 385 survivors here, says he saw possibly eighty drowning, while others place the death list as high as 150. One reason why the number lost will probably never be known is that most of the passengers were Spanish or Cuban workmen, whom it will be impossible to trace.

During his fifty years at sea, in which he has saved four ships and their crews, Captain Day told The Associated Press he never witnessed scenes of horror equal to those of Saturday's.

"When we received the S. O. S. on Saturday morning," he said, "we hurried to the scene and stood by for several hours until told we were not needed. Then, when resetting our course late in the afternoon, we got a second call and hurried back in a heavy sea. We saw the Hammonia on her side sinking, with the ocean full of lifecrafts and overturned boats, to which drowning men, women and children were clinging. We got out eight boats and there was a great rush among the sailors to be the first to the rescue.

"They brought on board 385 persons. One of our boats delivered seven to the City of Valencia; another 88 were rescued by the Euclid and possibly 60 by the Tudor Prince. If there were any more they were lost."

Captain Had Commanded Imperator.

Captain Hoefer of the Hammonia, who formerly commanded the liner Imperator, said he had been going to sea for sixteen years, in which time he had never suffered an accident. Then, with lips quivering:

"I lost my ship, and cannot even say why. It will remain one of the mysteries of the sea. When we left Vigo," he continued, "strong cross winds began to blow, and we slowed down. Then we found the ship leaking and put her head to the storm, but the water kept creeping upward. I sounded vainly to ascertain the whereabouts of the leak, and set the pumps working at 3,000 tons to the hour.

"I did not dream that such a stout ship could be in danger, but the water kept climbing, and when the ship was listing I sent out the S. O. S. Then, hoping against hope, I refused aid until the very last. I quieted the passengers and assured them they would be saved. When a number of Spaniards became unruly I permitted them to put off in two boats, which quickly overturned.

"It was then that the rest of the boats began putting off. They were met by those from the Kinfauns Castle and picked up. I refused to leave the ship, and nineteen of my engineers and officers declared they would remain. Even Fritz, the ship's cook, and Johann, 12-year-old cadet, stayed when the waters were sweeping the lower decks.

"We finally shoved off, but the waters were so powerful that, with two men on each oar, it was difficult to go more than a few yards, and we were almost caught by the sinking vessel. As she went down by the stern there was a big explosion, shooting the green seas a hundred feet into the air."

Bitter Against Cabin Passengers.

More than 300 passengers slid feet first into the sea when the ill-fated steamer reached a 70 per cent. list. This was just half an hour before it took its fatal plunge. The passengers and crew, who had been waiting since noon for the heavy seas to abate so as to give them the chance to take to the boats, found themselves at this critical moment a wild and scrambling heap of humanity struggling among the violent waves, amid pieces of wreckage, boat gear and deck equipment.

"It was like skidding into eternity," declared Baroness Krumfelder, a merry little passenger, but whose gayety was darkened since the wreck, especially after she was notified that her husband had not yet reached here. She was comforted, however, when she later learned that he was aboard another vessel which had reached Vigo.

After the listing movement of the vessel, the struggling multitude in the water kept afloat about the ship and its boats until they were picked up by the life craft of the Kinfauns Castle.

The hero of this scene was W. H. Judd of Gravesend, England, the only Englishman aboard, who was returning to Mexico on business. He threw off his outer garments and leaped into the waves and immediately proceeded to pick up those who were sinking. He personally saved seven women and children and helped the German officers to enforce the rule of women and children first. He did not leave the scene of the disaster until the German Captain and his faithful nineteen volunteers, who stayed behind in a desperate effort to keep the ship afloat by manning the pumps, departed.

Many of those rescued declared that a great outcry arose when the bedraggled passengers finally reached the decks of the Kinfauns Castle. It was said by some that the first-class passengers, besides saving their lives, had also carried with them their clothing, money and jewels. The second and third class lost all their belongings. Dr. Paul Kleefeld, a German returning to Mexico on business, was especially bitter against the accused first-class passengers.

Dr. Kleefeld led an angry crowd who hurled epithets at the first cabin passengers and called them war profiteers and charged that they had been warned in advance by the ship's officers that the ship would be deserted. This gave them time to collect their valuables and slip off with life preservers to safer craft, the revolting second and third class passengers contended.

It was only by the threat of force that Captain Day prevented a group of despairing widows, who had lost their husbands in the raging seas, from casting the "profiteers" into the maddened, violent ocean.

Captain Day received and sent out hundreds of wireless messages to friends and relatives of the passengers concerning their safety.

The second and third class passengers are being temporarily cared for at the passenger rest house of the Union Castle Mail Steamship Company. Messages were received from the Hamburg-American Line offering the payment of lodgings and passage by another ship fifteen days hence, with the alternative of a cash payment of £20 to buy a new passage. The first-class passengers received an offer of an immediate passage to Hamburg to take the next outgoing ship.

The cause of the sinking of the Hammonia is still the subject of much discussion. Some aboard declared today that it was due to the springing of some of the exterior plates. Others said that some of the doors of the coal bunkers were left open.

Report Vessel Hit a Rock.

CORUNNA, Spain, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—When the ill-fated steamship Hammonia left this port for Vigo on Friday there were on board 554 persons, of whom 353 were passengers, it is learned.

One hundred and eight passengers and considerable cargo were taken on here, the ship, it is stated, being unable to accept more. The Hammonia is reported to have struck a rock while leaving the harbor.

Conflicting stories are told by the survivors reaching here. Some declare that sixty-three lives were lost, while others believe that all the crew and passengers were saved.

STILL HOPE TO SAVE ENTOMBED MINERS

JACKSON, Cal., Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—"Forty-eight hours more and the miners will be released," was the cry in Jackson tonight, when word came that the last barrier to the Argonaut mine will be broken through late Thursday night or early Friday morning.

Although no signals have been heard from the forty-seven men since the first forty-five minutes of their imprisonment on Aug. 27, veteran miners believe that a few of the stronger and more experienced men are still alive. They state, however, that the number will be easily counted on the fingers of one hand.

The fire in the Argonaut has just burned itself out, according to Fred L. Lowell, safety engineer of the California Industrial Accident Commission.

"We will break through into the mine Friday, possibly Thursday, and will find some of the forty-seven imprisoned miners alive," said Clarence E. Jarvis, a member of the State Board of Control, today after he had made a preliminary survey of the conditions surrounding the Argonaut disaster.

Digging and drilling toward the miners walled in in the Argonaut gold mine continued today, after 10 feet had been gained during the night at the 3,600-foot level and 6 feet at the 3,900-foot level.

As the day began a total of 32 feet had been cleared in the last twenty-four hours by the rescue gangs on the 3,600-foot level. This left them 79 feet more to dig through timbers and muck before reaching the final 75 feet of solid rock.

Those working at the 3,900-foot stage had made 16 feet in twenty-four hours, and had 126 feet of solid rock to penetrate before they could hope to reach any of the entombed men, who have been held in their vault for two weeks.

Word came from Seattle that J. W. Bullock, owner of another mine near the Argonaut workings, had begun raising a fund with which to reward the first crew to break through into the Argonaut. It was expected this would reach $5,000. The mine's officials already have offered one reward of $5,000 for this.

BIG GERMAN NITRATE YIELD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The enormously increased output of nitrates by German firms was noted by Dr. J. A. Harker in a lecture before the British Association today.

"In 1913," he said, "Germany consumed about 200,000 tons of nitrates, of which about 120,000 tons were imported in the form of Chile nitrate. I am told that from May 1, 1921, to April 30 this year the smaller Germany of today used 290,000 tons, or 45 per cent. more than in 1913, without the demand of her agriculturists being entirely met. Furthermore, the whole of this increased total was produced within the country from her fixation and by-products industry. This would place her in a pre-eminent position in the event of war.

"At the end of the present year Germany will have at her disposal an internal capacity for the production of about 500,000 tons of fixed nitrogen annually, a total so colossal that she will be entirely independent of all importation. In case of another war she will be assured of the basic materials for the gigantic production of ammunition, together with enough fertilizer to enable her to grow a very large share of her food.

"Though the German Government pleads bankruptcy, the Badische Company appears to have had little difficulty in finding money to repair the enormous damage caused by the explosion at Oppau last September."

Krassin or Tchitcherin, It Is Intimated, Could Be Relied Upon to Eschew Propaganda Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Sept. 12.—Despite a statement in the Paris edition of The New York Herald that the Washington authorities have dropped the project of an American investigation committee in Russia, there is hope in Government circles here that it will still be possible to arrange the matter on terms satisfactory to Washington, yet not derogatory to the Russian Government or humiliating to national pride.

From the highest source THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns that while the Soviets feel unable to withdraw from the conditions given in the interview by Acting Foreign Minister Karahan, they think it is possible, first, to find a formula mutually acceptable for the coming of an American commission here without reciprocity—such as "a commission to investigate economic conditions in Russia with a view to the possibility of a trade agreement"; or, second, a name for a "reciprocal" commission to visit America, made up of men whom the American Government could trust not to monkey with "propaganda."

In the first case it is pointed out that the Russian leaders quite understand, first, that the American commission would be in no way bound to advocate a trade agreement if it judged the conditions favorable, and second, that unrestricted facilities must be given to it. On the other hand, they claim that if, as they believe to be the case, the commission's report is favorable, it would in any event be necessary to conclude a trade agreement between the two countries before any business could be done, and that therefore the insistence on a prior understanding that the commission come "to investigate with a view to the possibility of a trade agreement" is little more than a form.

But it is a highly important form from the standpoint of the Russian Government, which precisely on account of its somewhat abnormal status as an unrecognized power is inclined to take an ultra-rigid attitude on matters of international etiquette and points affecting national pride.

Regarding the reciprocal commission to visit America, it is thought here that Washington would agree that such men as Krassin or Tchitcherin could be trusted to play fair, if for no other reason than that they have already done so at Genoa, The Hague, London, &c.

By virtue of their positions neither has much more than a platonic connection with the "Comminterm," which is an organization of foreign communist propaganda. Either would visit America rather as the representative of Russia's national Government than as a communist, and would have enough to do in this capacity without meddling in American politics—any more than the American commission here would bother about internal Russian politics.

One favorable sign for the future is that a highly influential Russian leader has been willing in private conversation to disavow the suggestion recently made by Trotsky in a general interview with the American press to the effect that the American Relief Association itself was "an instrument of investigation."

The leader in question admitted readily, first, that with the exception of some transport and port workers none of the 200 young Americans here could be regarded as an expert save in famine relief, and second, that even should they be "investigating," which he is willing to concede they were not, their names did not carry enough weight to determine the action of big financial, industrial and business interests in America, who would naturally want reports from fully accredited and competent experts before entering the Russian field.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Leslie Urquhart, in a further interview today on the agreement he concluded with the Soviet Government for the Russo-Asiatic Consolidated, said:

"One good augury for success of the agreement is that the Russian Government seems just as pleased on its side as I am on my side with the terms of the contract. I am confident we shall receive every assistance and that everything will be done to make our enterprise a complete success.

"It means a very great deal to Russia, and as Krassin himself has said, it is bringing Russia and the rest of the world nearer to each other and restarting industry. I think contracts of this nature might be entered into with other nationals.

"The difficulty is that those who previously had interests in Russia are practically ruined today and they have no means to restart. On the other hand, the Russian Government has not the means to assist in restarting industries, so it is up to the other Governments to see what they can do for their nationals."

SEES IDLENESS CONQUERED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Director General Jones of the United States Employment Service, in addressing the tenth annual meeting of the International Association of Public Employment Services of the United States and Canada today declared that contrary to the belief of "some pessimists that the country had been consigned to the bowwows," the nation today "is making steady and sure progress toward prosperity." Unemployment has been conquered, he added, and industry was well on the road to normalcy following the period of depression immediately after the World War."

C. W. E. Leath, City Superintendent of the Employment Service of Toronto, Canada, and Miss Marion C. Findley of the Industrial Division of the Employment Service of Toronto, explained conditions confronting labor and the progress being made in meeting the unemployment situation in Canada.

DR. THWING ELECTED PHI BETA KAPPA HEAD

'About to Be Overrun by Women,' Exclaims Delegate at National Council Meeting.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 12.—Dr. Charles F. Thwing, President emeritus of Western Reserve University, today was elected President of the United Chapter Phi Beta Kappa at the fourteenth national council of the society here.

The honor, conferred unanimously, comes to Dr. Thwing partly in recognition of the seventy-fifth anniversary of Alpha Chapter of Ohio, established at Western Reserve when the university was a somewhat obscure institution. Alpha Chapter was the eighth established in the United States and the first west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Dr. Edward A. Berg, President of the University of Wisconsin and of the united chapters, declined re-election and was made a life member of the society's Senate. Other Senators elected were Virginia C. Gildersleeve, Dean of Barnard College; Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University; Professor Clark S. Northup of Cornell University, Ellen F. Pendleton, President of Wellsley College; Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews; Talcott Williams, professor emeritus of Columbia University; Frederick Carlos Ferry, President of Hamilton College; Alexandeia R. Hatfield, Dean of the University of California; Charles Evans Hughes, Secretary of State, and John D. Rockefeller Jr.

The National Council conferred charters in behalf of the University of Oregon, the University of Maine, Cornell College at Mount Vernon, Iowa; Davidson College at Davidson, N. C., and Drake University of Des Moines. It granted permission for the separation of Delta Chapter of Virginia into two sections, one of which is to accommodate the Randolph Macon Men's College at Ashland, Va.

Determining the fate of Delta of Virginia proved a complicated problem and the convention devoted most of the afternoon to it. Delta Chapter now exists at Randolph Macon Men's College at Ashland and the women's college at Lynchburg. The two institutions are under one financial management, although each has its own Faculty and the institutions are a hundred miles or more apart.

No opposition to admitting Randolph Macon men to benefits of Phi Beta Kappa was apparent, but whether the council could extend one charter to cover two institutions so widely separated involved an interpretation of the constitution. This despairing cry went up from one of the delegates:

"For God's sake let's do something to get more men into the society. We are about to be overrun by the women."

The interesting Big Tree Contest in which prizes were offered by the Brooklyn Botanic Garden for records sent in of the biggest trees on Long Island, the measurements being carefully verified, has come to a close, and the following prizes have been awarded:

First prize for a sycamore tree 24 feet in circumference on the property of James N. Hill at Wheatley Hills, awarded to Herbert Simonson, Glen Head.

Second prize for a white oak tree 19 feet, 7 inches in circumference on the farm of Paul Costermale, Stony Brook, divided among C. P. Miller of Stony Brook, C. C. Gregson of Setauket and Harold Smith of Setauket; all of whom measured the same tree on March 11.

Third prize for a sycamore tree 18 feet 4 inches in circumference on the E. J. Brennan place, St. James, awarded to Miss Julia Woodhull Otto, of Sayville.

The material accumulated in the contest will be used for scientific work, a study of the climatic and soil conditions, &c., producing the trees of extraordinary size which will form a chapter in a book on the "Vegetation of Long Island," by Norman Taylor, in charge of the contest, to be brought out by the Brooklyn Botanic Garden.

ARMY ORDERS 6 AIR YACHTS.

Craft, Similar to Vincent Astor's, to Be Used for Speedy Work.

Six air yachts similar in design and construction to those built for Vincent Astor and Harold Vanderbilt have been ordered by the Army Air Service from the Loening Aeronautical Engineering Corporation, 420 East Thirty-first Street, it was announced yesterday. They are to be used by the army for the speedy transportation of staff officers and for general communication in economically speeding up the work of the Air Service organizations.

The airplanes when completed will be shipped to the Philippines, Hawaii, Panama and Air Service fields in this country which have near-by water facilities for landing. Equipped with 400-horse power Liberty motors, they will have accommodations for five passengers.

Grover C. Loening, President of the corporation, announced also that plans for a New York to Newport air line had so far progressed that an air port had been picked out here at East Thirty-first Street and the East River.

JAPAN ORDERS 2 CRUISERS.

First Warcraft to Be Started by Her Under Washington Agreement.

TOKIO, Aug. 20 (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The Japanese Navy Department has issued orders for the construction of two new cruisers. One of them, with a displacement of 7,500 tons, will be built in the Yokosuka Navy Yard and be named the Kinukasa. The other, of similar displacement, will be built in the Kure Navy Yard and named the Furutaka.

These are the first war craft to be started by the Japanese Navy since the abandonment of the 8-8 scheme as a result of the Washington agreement.

ORDERS FOR BRITISH IRON.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Orders for 300,000 tons of foundry iron have been received in Great Britain recently, as a result, it is believed, of the labor disputes in the United States and Canada. Scottish ironmasters, whose stocks had been cleared out, are preparing to light their furnaces in consequence of the orders.

NEW K. OF C. UNIVERSITY.

Incorporated in Washington, Chiefly for Ex-Service Men and Women.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 12.—The incorporation of the first Knights of Columbus University in Washington, was announced today at national headquarters here by Supreme Secretary William J. McGinty, the new university, which is believed to be the first of its kind in the country, will be known as Columbus University.

It will specialize in law and the Arts and Sciences and will operate chiefly for the benefit of ex-service men and women. Its courses will be conducted in the evenings.

The Art of Putting Cold Cream in a Face Powder

THE idea of combining cold cream with a face powder was original with Armand. This idea was slowly and carefully worked out by expert chemists. The result was Armand Cold Cream Powder—a dry powder, not a cake or paste.

So inherently good and unusual has this powder proved itself to be that thousands of women have welcomed it as the finest powder they have ever used.

Inspired by Armand's remarkable success, imitations have begun to appear. There are other so-called "Cold Cream Powders" on the market to-day. These imitations are sold in varying qualities and prices. But there is only one way to get the original quality which has won the friendship of women everywhere—ask for Armand by name.

One trial will show you the difference! Armand Cold Cream Powder contains neither white lead, chalk, rice nor zinc stearate. It is $1, always, in its little pink-and-white hat-box. If it doesn't please you perfectly, take it back and your money will be returned.

Send 25c for the Armand Week-end Package. It contains generous boxes of Armand Cold Cream Powder, Armand Bouquet, Armand Rouge, Cold Cream, Vanishing Cream, Talcum and Soap—and the Armand "Creed of Beauty." Address

POLICE HEADS DECRY FEDERAL GUN SALES

Enright Urges Sale Only for Legitimate Protective Purpose—Conference Members Entertained.

Following the lead of the American Bar Association in favoring legislation to curtail the sale of firearms to all but military and police officials, the National Police Conference, assembled at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel yesterday, listened to police officials who declared that the United States Government was a great offender in the sale of firearms. It was asserted that the Government flooded the newspapers throughout the Middle West with advertisements offering for sale at army and navy stores revolvers for as low as $5 each, as well as trench knives and bayonets.

Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, chairman of the conference, introduced the question of limiting firearms to those with a legitimate protective function. He described the efforts of the American Bar Association to limit by legislation the use of firearms and said that weapons of this character ought to be permitted only in the hands of police and military officers and persons protecting banks and organizations of a fiduciary character.

Chief of Police French of Columbus, Ohio, seconded a resolution which embodied the sense of Commissioner Enright's suggestion and declared that the Government ought to be petitioned to stop the sale of firearms direct to the people. He asserted that the Government was flooding the Middle West with advertisements of cheap prices for army service revolvers that had been in use up to the beginning of the World War.

Another delegate said that there was an extensive use of sawed-off shotguns in the Middle West, and hoped that the Government would limit the sale of weapons. Chief of Police French added that the convention ought to express its disapproval of the sales of revolvers to the public by the Government.

The visiting police officials from various cities of the United States, Canada and Europe listened last night to a paper on "Criminal Narcotic Drug Addiction—A World-wide Police Problem," read by Special Deputy Police Commissioner Carleton Simon. At the conclusion of the discussion Commissioner Simon said that detectives were outside with several drug addicts.

At a signal six addicts were led into the Grand Ballroom. They were unkempt and roughly dressed and several were handcuffed. On the platform they were questioned by Dr. Simon.

"Dago Pete" denied having drugs in his possession when arrested at the Grand Central station. "The dick only got the needle," he exclaimed, pointing to his captor, who said that he found a package of drugs at the addict's feet when arrested.

"Red" Egan, a crumpled-up little man, wearing an army chair and torn trousers, began whining and complaining that he was being hounded from city to city, but admitted he had been a drug user for four years.

After the prisoners had given their pedigrees Dr. Simon informed the visiting police chiefs that the so-called addicts were detectives of the Narcotic Division.

The first day of the convention was opened by an assembly of the members at the Waldorf-Astoria. They left by automobile for the New York State Chamber of Commerce, 165 Liberty Street, where the address of welcome was made by President Irving T. Bush. Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes delivered the invocation and the convention remained as guests of the chamber for luncheon. A meeting was held in the Great Hall of the Chamber of Commerce in the afternoon. United States Senator Augustus O. Stanley of Kentucky spoke on "Industrial Conflicts"; Chief Magistrate William McAdoo spoke on "Crime and the Law" and District Attorney Joab A. Banton described the workings of his office. In the evening the visitors were guests at dinner of the White Star Line on board the steamship Adriatic.

LONG TERMS FOR HOLD-UP.

Severe sentences were imposed yesterday in General Sessions on three hold-up men when they and two women were arraigned before Judge Johnstone for the theft of a nickel-plated watch and two 1,000-kronen Austrian notes, valued at four cents, from Max Freeman of 221 West Twenty-fifth Street in a saloon at 1,357 Second Avenue on the night of July 23 last.

Charles Robinson, 26 years old, who said he was a longshoreman and lived at 214 East Eighty-fifth Street, received a sentence of from seven to fourteen years in Sing Sing. Peter LaGuardia, 25 years old, a chauffeur, of 707 Adams Street, Hoboken, and Fred W. Maurer, 26 years old, a chauffeur, of 445 East Seventy-eighth Street, got from four and a half to nine years in the same prison. Sentence was suspended by the Court on Mrs. Laura Pelessa, 23 years old, of 2,280 Arthur Avenue, the Bronx, and Mary Novak, 19, who said she was a stenographer and lived at 422 East Eighty-first Street.

Robinson was convicted by a jury and the other four pleaded guilty. The three men were alleged to have pointed pistols at Freeman while a dance was being held in the saloon. Freeman was badly beaten in the hold-up. Judge Johnstone said that he was imposing the heavy sentences as a warning to criminals of their type that crimes of violence would not be tolerated in this city.

AUTOS KILL GIRLS PLAYING IN STREET

Two girls were killed by automobiles yesterday and a mail truck knocked down a young man and a young woman when they were walking on the sidewalk.

Fannie Miller was playing near her home at 71 East Third Street when she was run over by an automobile driven by Samuel Cohen of 65 Ludlow Street. Cohen was arrested.

Angelina Pappas, 5 years old, of 63 Grand Street, Brooklyn, was killed in front of her home. Salvatire Chalewits, 30 years old, the chauffeur, of 225 North Eighth Street, was arrested.

Frederick Beyenheim, 27 years old, of 252 Broome Street, and Miss Sophie Zeisel, 22 years old, of 121 Broome Street, were passing through Delancey Street at Suffolk Street when a mail truck, driven by George Redding of 495 East 188th Street, the Bronx, skidded on the wet pavement, jumped the curb and knocked them down.

A general alarm was sent out by the police last night for a black touring car which ran over and seriously injured Philimena Salvie, 3 years old, of 2,424 Hoffman Street, the Bronx, while she was playing with other children in front of her home. The driver sped away after the accident.

Edmund O'Neill, 11 years old, of 2,464 Washington Avenue, the Bronx, was taken to Fordham Hospital, dying from injuries suffered when he was run over by an automobile at 180th Street and Park Avenue.

GETS 6 MONTHS IN PEN TO COMPLETE 25 YEARS

Charles Farrell, 71, otherwise known as "Red" Farrell, who has spent most of his time since 1883 in prison, was again arrested yesterday, charged with jostling. Farrell, according to the police, is one of the oldest pickpockets operating in New York.

Farrell told the police he wanted to go straight after his latest term in Sing Sing, which ended in 1920, but couldn't. He got a job on a street cleaning department scow. He tried it, but, according to his story, he was too old to learn a new business, temptation overcame him, and his resolve to go straight was shattered.

Yesterday Detectives Coy and Walsh of the Pickpocket Squad were at the South Ferry subway station. They saw Farrell, his red hair turned white, but still clean shaven and erect. He was jostling, the detectives said, and so they arrested him. This is his ninth arrest.

In Night Court last night Magistrate Peter A. Hatting sentenced Farrell to six months in the penitentiary, with the remark that Farrell previously had served twenty-four years and six months in jail, and now might round out twenty-five years behind bars. Asked if he wished to say anything, Farrell said he had "gone straight" since his latest release, adding that the offense charged was his first since he last was convicted. "I guess I'm guilty," the aged man concluded.

ANXIOUS ABOUT AMUNDSEN.

Norwegian Government Is Planning to Send a Relief Expedition.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—It is generally believed here that Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, has already undertaken his daring flight across the North Pole from Northern Alaska. This belief is further strengthened by the fact that the Norwegian Government has asked the well-known Danish explorer, Captain Gottfried Hansen, to undertake a relief expedition.

Captain Hansen, who is busy working out a scheme for the exploration of Western Greenland next Spring, is unable to accede to the request, but in an interview emphasizes the necessity of sending a relief expedition to pick up Amundsen, whose airplane crossing, in his opinion, is extraordinarily dangerous, it being virtually impossible to land anywhere on the rough polar ice without serious accident.

He believes that Amundsen is likely to land in the vicinity of one of the food depots which Hansen established in Grant's Land and northernmost Greenland, but nevertheless fears he will be unable to reach Thule—the northernmost colony in Greenland—should he meet with the least accident.

It is reported that a relief expedition, under the leadership of a friend of Captain Hansen, will leave this port on Oct. 1 on the steamship Hans Egede.

Advices from Nome, Alaska, on Aug. 29, to The Associated Press were to the effect that Amundsen had definitely abandoned for this year his plan to fly over the pole, believing that the season was too far advanced to permit of success. He was said to have landed his plane and equipment at Wainwright, 100 miles southwest of Point Barrow, intending to make that place the base for his flight.

WON'T HOLD COUNT ZICHY.

Said He Would Pay $1,009.76 Hotel Bill as Soon as Possible.

The complaint against Count Edward Zichy for leaving the Warrington Hotel, 161 Madison Avenue, without paying a bill of $1,009.76, was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate Thomas J. Nolan in the Yorkville Court.

F. Van Houghton, 54 Wall Street, counsel for Count Zichy, stated that the Hungarian nobleman had no intention of not paying the bill and would settle it as soon as funds were available. The Count offered to turn over to the hotel a handmade lace bedspread, said to be an heirloom and valued in excess of the bill, as well as a fur coat belonging to his wife.

Thomas R. Hagen, manager of the hotel, testified that he had given the Count and his wife permission to remove two handbags but not a suitcase. He charged that taking the suitcase without permission constituted an attempt to leave the hotel without paying the bill. Hagen testified that the Count owed $544 for lodgings, $245.59 for food; cash advanced, $134; telegrams and special deliveries, $37.10, and the remainder incidentals.

cheerful and followed every suggestion made by those in attendance. President Harding, too, was under a terrific strain, but he held up in a magnificent way."

Once Mrs. Harding recovers, an operation may be considered necessary to prevent a return of the hydro-nephrosis that appears now to be gradually subsiding. Such a course, however, depends upon Mrs. Harding's decision. Owing to the fact that her heart is not strong, an operation would be dangerous, and for this reason it is not contemplated unless there appears to be a certainty of a return of her ailment.

Had a Narrow Escape.

Only by the barest thread did Mrs. Harding pull through her present attack. Last Saturday her condition was so desperate that there seemed little or no hope. Her temperature rose to 104.5, her respiration was nearly two and a half times normal, and she was suffering such intense pain that even opiates were of little effect. Uremic poisoning appeared to be a certainty.

The attending physicians were confronted with a situation where the right kidney had "buckled," completely shut off the passage and ceased to function. Such a strain was placed upon the left kidney that it became inflamed and temporarily useless. Sweating was employed to throw off the poisons through the pores and for a time there appeared to be no other alternative but to make an incision and drain off one of the kidneys.

Physicians were agreed that this measure was a forlorn hope in itself, and that the chances of surviving an operation were slim. The change for the better came early Sunday morning, when the left kidney became less inflamed. Yesterday the crisis, so far as an immediate operation was concerned, was passed.

Hundreds from all walks of life gathered at Keith's Theatre at noon today for a prayer service for Mrs. Harding's recovery, conducted by the Christian Endeavor Society of the District of Columbia. Prayers were offered by the Rev. William S. Abernethy, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, which is attended by President and Mrs. Harding, the Rev. Wallace Radcliffe, pastor emeritus of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church and acting chaplain of the Senate; the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives; William Knowles Cooper, general secretary of the Washington Y. M. C. A., and other ministers and laymen of various denominations.

PRESIDENT IS THE LEADER

Coronado Coal Decision Attacked and Modification or Annulment Sought.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12.—The Progressives, suffering three successive defeats at the hands of the conservative faction in the sixty-seventh annual convention of the International Typographical Union, attempted today to stage a come-back by advocating further steps to bring about the shorter work-day and work-week in the industry.

The shorter work-day proposal was brought before the convention by John McParland, President of the union and leader of the Progressives, in a report on the declarations of the Shorter Work-Day Committee, which said that the shorter work-day was the "one solution for many of our industrial and economic ills."

Several resolutions have been placed before the convention by the Progressives that would shorten the work-week on daily newspapers and prohibit contracts that would provide for more than forty-eight hours' work in a week. The forty-four-hour work-week in all weekly newspapers and commercial establishment would also be made compulsory. The Progressive leaders have made it clear that they hope to establish the forty-four-hour week throughout the industry.

When the convention opened its second day's session, the Progressives immediately went to a clinch with the conservatives led by James Lynch, former President, but failed to make a showing on their proposition that would give the local unions power to make provisions in their scales governing the reinstatement of discharged members. It was defeated by a show of hands.

The conservatives by a vote of 172 to 93 defeated another move by the Progressives to amend the constitution making it mandatory that the convention be held on the second Monday in August.

In declaring that the shorter workday was imperative President McParland said: "It is becoming more and more the conviction of thinking men and women that herein is to be found the one solution for many of our industrial and economic ills.

"Only by the establishment of a scientifically calculated shorter workday can we build a continuing and enduring condition of nation and world prosperity. By thus balancing production and consumption, and in that way only, can we solve the problem of unemployment and all its attendant social, political and economic ills, which threaten the perpetuity of American standards and American institutions."

The recent decision by Chief Justice William H. Taft of the United States Supreme Court in the Coronado coal case, nullifying existing laws protecting funds of unincorporated bodies, has caused the International Typographical Union to consider the adoption of a resolution which would protect the funds of the organization and similar labor organizations. The resolution, which has been referred to the Committee on Resolutions, reads: "Resolved, That the Executive Council is requested to proceed immediately to get in touch with any movement and lend its financial and moral support thereby looking toward the submission of a constitutional amendment empowering a majority vote of Congress to annul or amend the Supreme Court decision."

The convention may go on record in favor of restricting immigration, a resolution to that effect having been introduced.

CONEY ISLAND NYMPHS SHIVER IN THEIR GAUZE

More than 225,000 attended the second night of the Coney Island Mardi Gras last night, a much larger crowd than witnessed the festivities Monday. The feature of the parade last night was the marching of 3,500 members of the Improved Order of Redmen in Indian costume, and of a large representation of women from the Degree of Pocahontas, also in Indian garb. Surf Avenue resounded with war whoops from spectators and marchers.

King Joseph and Queen Ethelyn were loudly cheered, though spectators thought that on account of the northwest wind which blew after sunset the gauze-clad nymphs on the float would have enjoyed something more stimulating than cheers. After the parade the King and Queen held court in Feltman's restaurant. A hundred members of the Iceberg Athletic Club, who go into the surf the year round, marched with the parade in bathing suits.

Two men arrested Monday night charged with picking pockets were each sentenced to six months in the workhouse by Magistrate A. H. Geismar yesterday morning in the Coney Island Court. They gave their names as Edward Oxhandler, 19, of Railroad Avenue and West Twenty-fourth Street, Coney Island, and Joseph Stein, 22, of 2,949 West Thirty-first Street, Coney Island.

Jabez E. Dunningham, secretary of the City Parliament of Community Councils, and James B. Emerick, an attorney, yesterday served notice upon the officials of the Jamaica branch of the bank of the Manhattan Company that they would institute court action if the bank started payment of the Newtown Gas Company of any part of a fund of more than $400,000 impounded there by order of the courts since 1916, as part payment of the bills of gas consumers of the Newtown company.

Chairman William A. Pendergast of the Public Service Commission, in the Second District, on Aug. 30, affirmed the right of the gas company to charge the present rate and directed the Bank of the Manhattan Company to pay the Newtown company the amount collected as the result of a rise in the price of gas.

Held as Brother-in-Law's Slayer.

Joseph McDermott of 713 President Street, Brooklyn, was held without bail yesterday by Magistrate Brown in the Fifth Avenue Court, charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, Michael Mulroy. It was alleged that McDermott shot and killed Mulroy at the latter's home at 240 Seventh Street, Brooklyn, following ill-feeling between the two after McDermott's wife, Mulroy's sister, had left McDermott and gone to live with her family.

SULGRAVE VISITORS AT ROOSEVELT TOMB

RECEIVED AT CITY HALL

Members of the British branch of the Sulgrave Institution yesterday afternoon laid wreaths upon the grave of Theodore Roosevelt. Sir Charles Wakefield, former Lord Mayor of London, and spokesman for the visiting delegation, seeking further to cement the friendly relations between Great Britain and the United States, at the graveside paid a tribute to Colonel Roosevelt. In a short speech he dwelt particularly upon "the heroic qualities of the great ex-President of the United States."

From the grave in Young's Memorial Cemetery at Oyster Bay the party went to the Roosevelt home at Sagamore Hill, where they were welcomed by Mrs. Roosevelt, who showed the visitors first the trophies of the hunt collected from all parts of the world by her husband. In turn she chatted with each member of the delegation, and showed them the house and grounds.

From there the British delegation motored back to New York City, and last night at 10:30 o'clock they departed for Pittsburgh, where today they will present to that city the first of the statues—that of William Pitt—which they have brought as gifts to this country.

The visitors went to City Hall yesterday morning to pay their respects to the Mayor. In the absence of Mayor Hylan and Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert they were welcomed by Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures and Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Reception to Distinguished Guests. They were introduced to city officials by John A. Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Governors of Sulgrave Institution in America.

In response to the welcome Sir Charles Wakefield emphasized the part taken by the City of London in behalf of the American colonies in the War of Independence, and read minutes from the record of the City of London expressing sympathy for the American Government.

"I bring this morning the greetings of the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor of London and the members of the corporation of that ancient city to you, Mr. Acting Mayor, as the representative of the civic government of this great city," he said. "There has always been a close affinity between the corporations of the two cities."

The Police Department Band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "God Save the King." The ceremonies were brief, and were held in the Mayor's reception chamber. Later the delegation went by motor to Cold Spring Harbor to the home of Walter Jennings, Vice President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, where they were entertained at luncheon.

WOOD APPEALS FOR LEPERS.

General Asks for Funds to Aid Culion Island Colony.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Governor General of the Philippines, has issued an appeal, in his capacity as Honorary President of the Philippines Anti-Leprosy Society, for American assistance in the work of caring for and curing the lepers of Culion Island in the Philippines, the largest leper colony in the world. General Wood tells of the great work being done in providing comforts and necessities for the 5,100 lepers at Culion, and says that the study and research work being done there will be of benefit to lepers throughout the world.

General financial contributions are needed for further equipping and maintaining the establishment at Culion, General Wood says, if methods of treatment are to be perfectd. The Equitable Trust Company of New York, the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago, the First National Bank of Boston, the Whitney Central National Bank of New Orleans and the Wells Fargo Nevada National Bank of San Francisco have agreed to accept funds for transmission to the Treasurer of the Anti-Leper Society.

A letter from Treasurer William T. Nolting of the Anti-Leprosy Society accompanies the appeal of General Wood. Nolting's letter throws light upon the use of the new leprosy remedy, chaulmoogra oil. It reads in part:

"It is probably not generally known that recently marked progress has been made in working out a treatment which is greatly relieving many sufferers from leprosy, and is actually curing an encouraging percentage of cases. This is known as the 'ethyl ester' treatment and consists of intramuscular injections of suitable quantities of an emulsion of chaulmoogra oil. This oil is not available in large quantities, however, and is consequently an expensive product. Funds are therefore required to purchase larger quantities, increase the facilities for its more extensive applications, and, if possible, develop further sources of supply."

MURPHY MUST SERVE TERM.

Court of Appeals Upholds Six-Year Sentence on "Big Tim."

CHICAGO Sept. 12.—Timothy ("Big Time") Murphy, local union leader, must serve six years in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for complicity in the $350,000 Dearborn Station mail robbery more than a year ago, by decision today of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Murphy, convicted with three other men, was sentenced to prison by former District Judge K. M. Landis. He appealed the case to the Circuit Court, which today affirmed the finding in the District Court.

The Dearborn Station robbery was one of the most sensational of a long series of mail robberies throughout the country. It occurred on the afternoon of April 6, 1921, at the busy passenger terminal of a dozen or more rail lines. The robbers escaped in an automobile.

Later, according to postal agents and police, approximately $150,000 of the stolen securities and other valuables taken by the bandits was alleged to have been found in the home of a relative of Murphy. Murphy denied the charges and waived trial by jury.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 12.—A confession that he had killed his two daughters and thrown their bodies into the Missouri River was made today by Tony Dinello of Kansas City, Kan., to Harry T. Zimmer, Chief of Police, and several detectives, the Police Chief announced today.

Dinello was arrested yesterday after the second of the bodies had been taken from a sandspit near Napoleon, thirty miles downstream, by a fisherman. The girls were 11 and 13 years old. Dinello's relatives became suspicious some days ago when they visited him and he gave them conflicting explanations of the girls' absence. About the same time a body was found in a sack and, although it was not then identified, it was established that the girl had been hit on the head. The second body showed the same kind of a fracture.

Both girls were dressed in cheap wrappers and wore no shoes or stockings. Both sacks into which their bodies were placed were similarly tied at the top and by strings around the necks.

WHAT IS HAND TAILORING?

The frequent use—and misuse—of the term "hand-tailored" in the advertising pages of magazines and newspapers, while it emphasizes the importance attached to this feature of ready-tailored clothing, has created confusion in the minds of both retailer and consumer as to just what constitutes "hand-tailoring."

The traditional standard of quality in clothing has long been represented by custom tailoring. Today successful retailers, who believe in quality, specify certain operations of hand-tailoring as essential in their garments that they may possess the merit of custom tailoring.

Catering to a critical trade, including some of the largest and most particular merchants in the country, we have incorporated in our merchandise over fifty hand operations which we feel are necessary to a well tailored garment. The 23 hand operations listed are the essential or key operations, other hand operations are contributory.

1 The canvas front is hand padded to secure not only softness but flexibility; one of the most important essentials to produce style and balance in the garment.

2 Canvas fronts are carefully hand pressed so that the proper effect may be developed in the front of the garment, and that the shoulder may lie smoothly.

5 The front darts are hand tacked with linen to hold the forepart correctly on the canvas.

6 The top and front edge of the lower pockets are fastened to canvas by hand to give strength to pocket and insure the front being held in perfect position.

7 Pocket welts are hand felled on all plain edge coats. Welts on all coats are tacked by hand to canvas with linen, to prevent sagging.

8 The bridle is basted and padded by hand to the forepart and tacked on the collar so that the front may hang evenly.

9 All flap pockets are bar tacked by hand with silk twist to give strength and durability to the pocket.

10 Tape is hand felled to the canvas in the front of the coat that the edge may remain in a smooth condition.

15 The front and back arm syces are drawn in by hand with linen thread with chain stitch, to insure a well-fitting armhole and to give ease and flexibility without allowing the armhole to stretch.

20 The neck gorge is hand felled. The facing and top collar are drawn together by hand not only where lapel meets collar but the entire length of the facing, so that at no point does the top collar overlap the facing.

23 The bottom facing of coat is tacked and felled by hand to the forepart and linings are hand felled to the bottom facing.

The same super-custom tailoring embodied in our coats is applied to vests and trousers.

Tops of trousers are hand felled—pockets are hand turned. Trousers are carefully shaped and shrunk by hand, and satisfactory wear is insured by the special reinforcement feature in the crotch.

New Tariff Rates Compared With Those of Two Previous Laws

"There will be no tariff law enacted for many years to come if this new plan of modifying rates is successful," said Representative Fordney. "It may be so successful as to take the tariff out of politics and place it on an absolute scientific basis. Of course, the rates devised under this system would either be of a protective or revenue tariff basis, according to the political party in power."

Another new proposal of the tariff makers—the creation of free zone ports—was eliminated from the bill as coming in conflict with the Constitution.

The duty on wool is 31 cents a pound and on wheat 30 cents a bushel, while the rate on sugar imported from Cuba is 1.76 cents a pound and from other countries 2.20 cents a pound. Cotton is on the free list.

In the opinion of critics of a protective tariff these rates and the similarly high ones on all articles of food and the necessaries of life will have the effect of increasing the present high living costs. The effect of the tariff, the Democrats assert—and they will attempt to prove it in the coming campaign—will be to add to the householder's expenses without benefit to him.

The duties on vegetable oils are reduced slightly. The duty on cocoanut oil is 2 cents a pound on soya bean oil, 2½ cents a pound on cottonseed oil 3 cents a pound and on peanut oil 4 cents a pound.

The duty on perfumery is 40 cents a pound and 75 per cent. ad valorem. The duty on potash is 1¼ cents a pound, or $30 a net ton.

Building Materials on Free List.

Ordinary brick is placed on the free list, with the proviso that if a country places a duty on brick imported from the United States an equal duty shall be placed on such brick coming to the United States. Brick and most building materials, including nearly all kinds of lumber, shingles, &c., are on the free list to encourage building. The duty on magnesite brick is 10 per cent. ad valorem, while the duty on chrome brick, bathbrick and firebrick is three-fourths of a cent a pound.

Roman, Portland and other hydraulic cements are placed on the free list, while there is a duty of 20 per cent. on cement not specifically provided for.

The duty on incandescent electric light bulbs and lamps is fixed at 20 per cent. The duty on slate is 35 per cent. The duty on watch crystals is 60 per cent.

Duties on iron products are generally reduced in the conference report.

A new schedule of rates was agreed to on all cutlery. The duty on table knives with pearl handles is 16 cents each and 45 per cent.; on those with handles of hard rubber, 8 cents each and 45 per cent.

The duty on steel scissors blades at not more than 50 cents a dozen is 3½ cents each and 45 per cent. The duty on razors also is very heavy. On razors valued at not more than $2 per dozen the duty is 10 cents each and 30 per cent. On safety razors and handles and frames valued at less than $2 a dozen the duty is 10 cents each and 30 per cent.

The duty on breech-loading shotguns and rifles is 45 per cent. and on pistols and revolvers 55 per cent.

Timber, hewn, sided or squared other than by sawing, is placed on the free list, as well as wood pulps, which under the House bill were dutiable at 25 per cent. American value.

Paving posts, railroad ties, telephone and electric light poles are also on the free list, as are shingles, which were the subject of a very heated debate in the last session of the conferees.

The duty on sheep is $2 a head, while the duty on fresh mutton is 2½ cents a pound, and on fresh lamb 4 cents a pound.

Farm Products Rates Higher.

All the farm products obtained higher rates in the Senate bill and the conference report agreements generally accepted the Senate rates. The schedule dealing with agricultural products increases the rates in nearly every respect beyond the Payne-Aldrich rates. For instance, the House rate on bacon, ham and pork shoulders was 1¼ cents a pound as against the Senate rate of 2 cents a pound. The Senate rate was accepted.

The duty on fresh milk is 2½ cents a gallon, as against 1 cent a gallon in the House bill.

The duty on cheese and substitutes is 5 cents a pound, on live poultry 3 cents a pound, on dead poultry 6 cents a pound, on frozen fish 1 cent a pound, and on dried fish 1¼ cents a pound.

The House bill placed cotton on the free list, while in the Senate measure it carried a duty of 7 cents a pound on cotton having a staple of 1⅛ inches. The conference held this cotton on the free list.

The duty on fabric gloves is 50 per cent. and on leather gloves 50 per cent.

"The rates agreed in this bill," said Representative Fordney, "are on the average below those in the Payne-Aldrich tariff, although in respect to many farm products they are higher."

Mr. Fordney predicted that the Tariff bill would become a law before Oct. 1, and the effect upon business would be felt almost instantly. He denied that higher prices would come into effect as the result of the new tariff law, but said the Democrats would try to charge trade conditions upon the tariff.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The more important rates in the Administration tariff bill as finally agreed upon in conference are:

Agricultural Products.

Cattle, from 1½ to 2 cents a pound; Payne-Aldrich, from 2 cents a head to 27 per cent. ad valorem; Underwood, free.

Why are there 85 successful retailers in New York City who sell more "G.G.G." Clothes than all their competitors put together sell of any other make?

Why are there more New York men, men of discriminating dress-taste, who wear "G.G.G." Clothes than wear any other four makes combined—and this includes every nationally advertised brand?

Why, at the Madison Square Garden this week, where close to 3,000 retail clothiers are in convention assembled, have the "G.G.G." booths (numbers 46 and 47), become a bee-hive of action and "G.G.G." Clothes a center of keen interest for these famous clothing merchants from all over the U. S. A.?

And, why are these practical business men, in greater numbers every year, bringing "G.G.G." Clothes to their stores and to the smart dressers in their home towns?

When you buy your Fall suit or overcoat, specify "G.G.G." If your clothier hasn't it, we will put you in touch with one of the 85 New York City dealers—in your vicinity—who have.

FOREMAN IS SHOT IN LEATHER STRIKE

INTENDED VICTIM IS HELD

Led Attacking Party on First Day of Walkout, Say Police—Report 1,500 Out.

The beginning of a strike yesterday morning of leather goods workers in non-union shops was marked by the shooting of one of the workers, Elias Werner, 30 years old, of Coney Island, fancy leather goods factory foreman. Werner was shot through the right knee joint as he reached his place of employment, the Shenfeld Leather Goods Company, 101 Crosby Street, and was sent to St. Vincent's Hospital for treatment.

Ossip Wolinsky, manager of the Fancy Leather Goods Workers' Union, who is directing the strike, said that Werner got the bullet intended for Morris Edelstein, 28, of 449 East 185th Street, the Bronx, an organizer for the union, who had gone to the plant to distribute circulars containing the official strike call. He said that Edelstein was attacked by "gunmen" as soon as he arrived and that one of the assailants whipped out a revolver and fired. Edelstein dodged, he said, and Werner, coming up at the time, was hit.

Attracted to the scene by the shot, Sergeant Richard V. McCauley and Patrolman Elmer J. Kelly, of the Mercer street station, arrested Edelstein on suspicion of felonious assault. He was released in $1,000 bail for hearing on Sept. 19th, when arraigned before Magistrate Ryttenberg in Essex Market Court.

The police were informed that Edelstein was leading the attacking party of nine and that all sprung at Werner when he reported for work yesterday morning. Wolinsky asserted that Edelstein was the one attacked and that the assailants were not connected with the union.

The circulars which Edelstein had to distribute were printed in red ink in English on one side and Yiddish on the other, stating that "the hour of liberation has struck," and urging workers in the fancy leather goods trade to assemble yesterday morning at a mass meeting at Astoria Hall, 63 East Fourth Street. The circulars were signed "Joint Executive Board and Stoppage Committee."

The strike is against shops which have not recognized the union, representing only about 15 per cent. in the industry. The Association of Leather Goods Manufacturers, Inc., has signed an agreement with the union which does not expire until May 1, 1924. This organization represents about 85 per cent. of the plants in the industry, which employ 5,000 workers.

The purpose of the strike is to force the non-union shops to grant the same terms as given by the association, including the forty-four-hour week, pay for three legal holidays—Fourth of July, Labor Day and Christmas—and an increase in wages, so as to bring the standard pay to $13 and $15 a week. Wolinsky said that a survey had disclosed that most of the workers in these shops were girls, and that some of them work seventy-two hours a week for $8 or $9.

Wolinsky estimated that 1,500 workers went out yesterday, and said he expected the number to be increased today.

MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRL AVOIDS ALL COSMETICS

"I don't use cosmetics."

Those were almost the first words of Mary Katharine Campbell of Columbus, the new Miss America, adjudged at the pageant in Atlantic City as the most beautiful girl in the United States, when interviewed at the Waldorf.

Mary Katharine, or M. K., as she is known in her home circle, was standing well a more serious test for beauty than any she had undergone at Atlantic City. She had contracted a cold, and while her mother told how her daughter had come to enter the beauty contest, M. K. was holding a thermometer between her lips with a doctor beside her.

"No," said Miss America, taking up the conversation again when she was given the use of her tongue, "I don't use cosmetics. I never have, and I don't need them."

And she doesn't. Her complexion is of a most delicate type of peaches and cream. She has a small, straight nose, eyes not very large and of a soft brown, with rather straight, brown eyebrows of the same warm tint as her naturally curling hair.

"She is only 16," said her mother, "and she does at home what other girls of her age do. She graduated from high school last February, but she stayed on until June for her French and for the senior play. She was Bianca in the "Taming of the Shrew." She writes and draws, plays tennis and golf, and likes to go fishing with her granddad. Oh, yes, the young men like her—too much, but she is sensible; she doesn't have much to do with them. She isn't spoiled."

It was one of these young men, however, who thought Mary Katharine was so charming in a photograph that he entered it in the contest and really started her on the path to become Queen of Beauty.

"Of course," Mary Katharine's mother continued, "I am pleased that my daughter is considered the most beautiful girl, and her father is pleased. Yes, the movie people are going to see how she films. We never would have planned anything like this. We are just plain people who belong to an old American family, but now Mary Katharine has become a national beauty things go on and we can't seem to stop them."

Jail Would-Be Chauffeur for Trick.

Meyer Gold, 36 years old, a metal worker, of 985 Alabama Avenue, Brooklyn, was sentenced to ten days in the workhouse and to pay a fine of $50 or to serve ten days additional, by Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb in the Traffic Court yesterday. Gold was found guilty of letting Morris Stern, 24, 201 West Seventy-eighth Street, appear for him in an examination of chauffeurs conducted by William Kehoe, examiner, Sept. 11. Stern was sentenced to twenty days in the workhouse. Both were arrested on complaint of Kehoe.

SISLER MAY BE OUT FOR REST OF YEAR

Injury Likely to Prevent Browns' Star From Playing Again This Season.

ST. LOUIS BEATS DETROIT

Now Within a Game of Yankees by Virtue of Victory Over Tigers, 8 to 6.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—George Sisler of the St. Louis Browns, star all-around player of the major leagues, was not in today's game, which the Browns won from Detroit by 8 to 6, because of sprained ligament in his right arm, suffered while reaching for a wide throw in yesterday's game. The local first baseman failed to inform officials of the club of the serious condition of his arm, and quite a bit of excitement was caused when he failed to report for the beginning of the game today.

Sisler showed up in the second inning, however, and after jocosely remarking his tardiness was caused by his presence at a banquet, explained that he was unable to sleep last night because of the pain, and that visits to several specialists today had failed to afford him any relief. He is unable to raise his arm above his shoulder.

He probably will be out of the game at least several days, and perhaps for the remainder of the season. His absence will be a severe blow to the pennant hopes of the Browns.

Dr. Robert Hyland, club physician, diagnosed the injury as a severe sprain of the deltoid or shoulder muscle, and stated he doubted whether Sisler would be able to play any more this season. If Sisler had been in today's game and had hit safely he would have tied the modern major league record of forty consecutive games for safe hits. This record was made by Ty Cobb of Detroit in 1911.

Browns Come From Behind.

For the second time in two days the Browns came from behind in the tail-end of the game to defeat the Tigers. The locals took today's game after trailing the Tigers up to the seventh inning, and by virtue of their victory and New York's idleness, advance to within one game of first place.

Both teams scored in the second inning. For the Tigers Fothergill and Cutshaw singled and Bassler filed to Shorten, Fothergill scoring after the catch. A home run by Severeid accounted for the locals' tally.

Detroit added three more in the third, while St. Louis annexed only one. Blue was safe on Jacobson's high throw, went to second on Haney's sacrifice and home on Cobb's single. Cobb took second on the throw home and scored on Veach's double. At this point Van Gilder replaced Koip, who had started on the mound for the Browns. Veach went to third when Fothergill grounded out, and home when Cutshaw was safe on Foster's error.

The Tigers tallied again in the fourth, while the Browns were blanked. Dauss singled. Blue hit to Jacobson, who stepped on the base and threw over Gerber's head trying to double Dauss. Dauss got to third on the error and went home on Haney's single.

The Browns got Gerber as far as third. McManus flied out. Severeid singled and was forced by Gerber. Van Gilder singled, sending Gerber to third, but Tobin grounded out.

St. Louis Scores Again.

The Browns blanked the Tigers in the fifth and scored one themselves. Veach popped out. Fothergill, who had singled, was out attempting to steal second. McManus threw out Cutshaw. In the latter half of the inning Foster singled. Williams walked. Jacobson singled, McManus forced Jacobson, Rigney to Cutshaw, Foster scoring.

The sixth was scoreless. Rigney was thrown out. Bassler walked. Dauss fouled out and Blue flied out. For the Browns, Gerber singled, went to second when Van Gilder was thrown out and to third when Tobin was thrown out, but was left there.

The Browns tied it up in the seventh with two runs, after blanking the visitors. Haney was the only Tiger to hit, the next three batters going out in order. In the home half of the inning Jacobson walked and scored on McManus's triple. McManus scored on Severeid's sacrifice fly to Veach.

The pennant chasers took the lead in the eighth, executing three tallies after blanking Detroit in short order. Van Gilder singled. It was his third hit. Tobin bunted, but forced Van Gilder, Bassler to Higney. Foster singled, sending Tobin to third and Van Gilder second. Shorten singled, scoring Tobin, but Foster was out at the plate. Shorten took second on the throw-in. Williams singled, Shorten taking third, and Williams taking second on the throw-in. Shorten and Williams scored on Jacobson's single.

Pruett Strikes Out Cobb.

Detroit could add only one more in the ninth. Blue and Haney singled and when Foster threw over Jacobson's head Blue scored. After pitching three balls to Cobb, Van Gilder was replaced by Pruett, who struck out the Tiger's manager. Veach also struck out and Fothergill lined out.

Ban Johnson, President of the American League, viewed the game from a box. He said his presence here had no significance beyond a desire to see in action one of the teams which may represent the league in the world's series.

TO OPEN IN BALTIMORE.

Orioles and St. Paul Will Begin Little League Series Oct. 6.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12.—With St. Paul club of the American Association enjoying a substantial lead and the Baltimore Orioles well in front in the International League, and as there is a practical certainty that the clubs will clash, dates of games to be played here were announced as Oct. 6, 7, 8 and 9.

Efforts have been made by the St. Paul management to start the series in Minneapolis, it being reported that an emissary of the Saints is on his way to this city prepared to guarantee Jack Dunn 12,000 paid admissions on each of four days for games in St. Paul.

To Hold Athletic Field Day.

A card of nine track events, seven swimming events, a water polo game and a baseball game between industrial teams is scheduled for the Brighton Beach Baths Saturday afternoon, on the occasion of the athletic field day of the New York Telephone Society.

READING TROUNCES JERSEY CITY AGAIN

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., Sept. 12.—For the second time in successive days the Skeeters were humbled by the Reading Aces here today, the final score being 7 to 2.

The visitors were effectively mastered by the tight flinging of Ollie Eyrich, a Reading sand lotter, who yielded but five hits, three of which were of the scratch infield variety. Bobby Carruthers, a southpaw, held his own with Eyrich until the fifth inning, when the Jersey City infield cracked, and costly errors figured largely in the five runs that were piled up by the tribesmen in that session. Manager Bender used three recruits from the Waynesboro Blue Ridge League club in the line-up in addition to the rookie hurler.

Otto Freitag, Jersey City catcher, was ejected from the park in the fourth inning by Umpire McDevitt. When McDevitt called a Reading runner safe at the plate, Freitag rushed at the official and pushed him around violently until fined and banished.

BEARS DIVIDE HONORS.

Drop Early Game to Orioles, 12 to 1, but Rally and Win Final, 5 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 12.—Newark engaged in a fifty-fifty division of the honors in the twin attraction against Baltimore here today. After being defeated in the initial encounter by the score of 12 to 1, the Bears played fine ball in the closing game and administered a 5 to 2 defeat to the Orioles.

Harry Frank opposed the Bears in the first game and the visitors could do little against his offerings, finding him for only five hits. Kneisch, on the other hand, was hit hard in the pinches by the locals. Newark's lone tally came in the first inning, after Altenberg and Devine had been put out. Wigglesworth singled to right, Walsh then dropped Webb's short fly and followed with a poor peg to second, allowing Wigglesworth to score.

It was an altogether different story in the second battle. The Bears hit Reid, the Oriole flinger, hard and frequently, while Baldwin was effective when the mounds were occupied.

CHAMPIONS NEED 15 GAMES TO WIN FLAG

Pirates Then Could Not Take Pennant by Capturing Their 19 Remaining Contests.

Following a day of rest, due to an open date in the schedule yesterday, the Giants will resume their campaign for the National League pennant at the Polo Grounds this afternoon. Today's game will mark the opening of the world's champions' final home stand for the season against the Western clubs. McGraw's players will begin a three-game series with the Chicago Cubs today and will then open a four-game series with the Cincinnati Reds, beginning with a double-header on Saturday. The Pittsburgh Pirates will visit the Polo Grounds a week from today to start a three-game series, and then will follow four contests with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Despite the fact that McGraw's staff of pitchers is in terrible shape, the Giants practically assured themselves of the National League championship by defeating the Braves in both ends of a double-header at the Polo Grounds on Monday. The double victory gave the Giants a lead of five games and a half over the Pirates, who are in second place. The champions still have twenty more games to play before the season comes to a close two weeks from next Sunday and all of these are scheduled to be staged at the Polo Grounds. Of these twenty contests, fourteen are with the Western clubs, two with the Phillies and the other four with the Braves.

If the champions win only half of their remaining games they will finish the season with 91 victories and 63 defeats for a percentage of .591. Then in order to win the pennant the Pirates would have to be victorious in sixteen of their remaining nineteen contests. Fifteen victories and four defeats for the Pirates while the Giants are winning only half of their remaining games would put the two contenders in a tie for first place at the close of the campaign. In the event that the champions capture only eight of their twenty remaining games the Pirates then would have to win fourteen games to take the pennant and thirteen to tie the Giants.

Pirates Face Hard Task.

Should the world's champions be successful in fourteen of their twenty contests, the Pirates would then have to win all of their nineteen games to finish the season in a tie with McGraw's team. The Giants can make the pennant a mathematical certainty by winning fifteen more victories before the end of the season. In that event the Pirates would finish the season a full game behind the New York club even if they went through the rest of the season undefeated.

There are six clubs in the National League that still have a mathematical chance to win the pennant. These clubs are New York, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago and Brooklyn. If the Giants win five of their remaining games they will be certain of finishing ahead of the Robins; if they win twelve games they will be certain of finishing ahead of the Cubs; if they win thirteen games they will be certain of finishing ahead of the Cardinals and the Reds, and if they win fifteen games they will be assured of the pennant. All of the above provisos are made on the assumption that the rival club in each instance wins all of its remaining contests.

While the Giants are fighting to clinch the National League pennant at the Polo Grounds, the Yankees will open their battle to capture the American League flag in a double-header with the White Sox in Chicago this afternoon. The Hugmen still have seventeen games to play, while the Browns are scheduled for only fifteen. As both clubs have gained the same number of victories thus far and as the Yanks are leading by a full game due to the fact that they have lost two less games than their St. Louis rivals, the New Yorkers can finish the campaign in a tie for first place even if they lose two more games than the Browns for the remainder of the season.

Yanks in Advantageous Position.

Much will depend on what the Yankees do in their four-game series in Chicago and the three-game series in St. Louis which will open on Saturday. If the Hugmen secure only an even break against the White Sox, the Browns would then have to sweep their three-game series with the Red Sox in order to be in first place when the most important series of the season starts with the Yankees at the end of this week. If the Yanks win three out of the four games with the Chicago club they are sure of having a lead of at least half a game over the Browns when the St. Louis series opens. In that event the Browns would have to score two victories over the Yanks to wrest the lead from the Hugmen.

If the Yankees win only nine of their remaining seventeen games, they would finish the season with ninety-three victories and sixty-one defeats, for a percentage of .604, and the Browns would then have to capture nine of their remaining fifteen contests to tie the Hugmen for first place or ten of their remaining games to win the pennant by the margin of one game. If the Yanks are victorious in ten of their seventeen games, which is not unlikely, judging from their recent performances, the Browns would then have to win eleven of their fifteen games to land the pennant. Furthermore, should the Hugmen capture eleven of the seventeen games, the Browns then could afford to lose only three of their remaining games to finish the campaign at the head of the pack.

According to the position of the rival teams at the present time the Yankees can be mathematically certain of the flag by winning fifteen of the seventeen contests. One of these victories would necessarily have to be won over the Browns as the Yanks have three more games to play with the St. Louis club, and in that event the Browns could not finish first even if they lost only one game.

If the Yankees sweep their series with the White Sox and the Browns, they would then have to win only six of their remaining ten games to be certain of the pennant.

Detroit is the only other team in the American League that still has a chance for the championship, but the Tigers would have to win all of their remaining sixteen games while the Yanks and Browns each win only three more contests.

WILL TRY FOR RECORDS.

Miss Ederle to Attempt to Lower Swim Marks Next Week.

An attempt to lower the existing world's swimming records for 200 yards and 220 yards will mark the last outdoor appearance of the season of Miss Gertrude Ederle, spectacular star of the Women's Swimming Association. Miss Ederle has consented to make her record attempts in the pool of Brighton Beach Baths next Tuesday or Wednesday. It is planned to conduct a handicap race in order to provide appropriate pace for the record seeker. The fifteen-year-old swimmer has broken eight world's records, at distances from 220 yards to 500 meters, in the past six weeks, making the majority of her marks in competition at Brighton Beach.

RODDY AND KELII IN SWIM.

Edward U. Roddy of the New York A. C., regarded as one of the most promising swimmers developed this year, will engage John Kelii, Hawaiian, in a special 100-yard race in the Olympic Lagoon of the Manhattan Beach Baths, as one of the features of the aquatic carnival scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. Another race will witness the return to competition of Ted Cann, New York A. C. veteran, who will swim against Jim Hall, national schoolboy champion, who has held the men's long distance title.

DEMPSEY-WILLS GO STILL LACKS HOME

O'Connor Confers With Kearns, but Commission's Ruling Is Stumbling Block.

A conference between Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, and John M. O'Connor, President of the Republic A. C., which is licensed to conduct bouts at the Polo Grounds, failed yesterday to shed any more light on the situation at present existing with regard to a world's heavyweight championship battle between Dempsey and Harry Wills, negro challenger for the title. O'Connor visited Kearns at the latter's offices, following the return here of the champion and his manager from Syracuse. After the conference Kearns said he had discussed the proposed Dempsey-Willis bout but not to an extensive degree.

"O'Connor still has confidence in his ability to hold a Dempsey-Willis bout," said Kearns. "He has a proposition he wants to submit, but before he got that far in our conference I reminded him of the conditions announced by Chairman Muldoon of the State Athletic Commission. The Polo Grounds cannot accommodate a crowd of 100,000, nor can the officials of the club agree to set aside 40,000 of their seats at an admission price of $3 or less for a Dempsey-Wills bout. It is idle, therefore, for me to waste Mr. O'Connor's time and my own time talking about something that cannot be accomplished under the conditions. We did not talk terms. The Polo Grounds does not measure up to the conditions outlined by Mr. Muldoon. Until some promoter comes along with a suitable place and an offer which I think fair, the situation will remain at a standstill."

Kearns and Dempsey were elated with their reception at the State Fair in Syracuse, where the champion and his manager were guests last Monday. Dempsey will engage in an exhibition at Boston later in the week and then will return here prepared for whatever Manager Kearns arranges for him. Kearns said yesterday he plans to confer with Jimmy Coffroth, Tia Juana promoter, today on the latter's proposition for a Dempsey-Jack Johnson bout in Mexico City.

WHITE SOX DEFEATED DESPITE TRIPLE PLAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Cleveland closed its Chicago season today with an 8 to 2 victory over the White Sox. The Indians hit Manager Gleason's young twirlers, Bowles and Duff, and took a commanding lead. H. Blankenship checked the hitting until the ninth, when the visitors again cut loose. Chicago was unable to do much with the offerings of Uhle, who tightened up in the pinches.

The feature of the game was a triple play by Chicago in the first inning. With the bases filled, Gardner grounded to Collins, whose toss to Johnson forced McNulty at second. Johnson's throw to Sheely doubled Gardner, and when Wambsganss tried to score Sheely's throw to Yaryan retired Wambsganss for the third out. Jamieson, who was on third when Gardner hit, scored.

BUFF-VILLA BOUT POSTPONED BY RAIN

Ebbets Field Program Put Off Until Tomorrow Night Because of Weather.

The elements stepped in yesterday and spoiled what promised to be a slashing scrap at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, between Johnny Buff, American flyweight champion, and Pancho Villa, champion of the Orient. The lads were scheduled for a fifteen-round tilt but the heavy rain of the morning and afternoon forced the Ebbets Field officials to postpone the bout until tomorrow night. It was announced that the card of bouts will be conducted without change.

The situation surrounding the Willie Jackson-Sid Marks bout, which was postponed last Wednesday and last Friday night, is undetermined. This contest awaits upon the convenience of the two boxers, and will be scheduled for Ebbets Field just as soon as the respective ring rivals notify the club management of their readiness for the mill.

AMATEURS IN BOUTS.

Open Tourney Will Be Held at the Velodrome Tonight.

Amateur boxers will hold the spotlight this evening at the New York Velodrome, on the occasion of the preliminary contests in the open tournament which will be conducted under the auspices of the Metropolitan A. A. U. More than eighty entries have been received for the various classes in which bouts will be conducted. The weights range from the bantamweight division to the light-heavyweight class. Among the entries are some of the district's leading amateur boxers.

Willie Singer, Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A. southpaw who holds the State featherweight championship, will attempt to continue his knockout record in the featherweight class. Singer has scored fourteen straight knockout victories and is in superb shape. His rivals will include Joe Scoppettone, winner of the featherweight class in the last Velodrome tournament, Sid Goldie, Brooklyn, Mike O'Brien, Hollywood Inn Club, Ben Nabers, Glencoe A. C., Charles Sinkovitch, Bayonne, N. J., and Harry Lewis, Bronx Y. M. C. A.

Martin J. Smith, Congress Own Council, Knights of Columbus, Ben Bostein, Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A., Ed Kelly, Paulist A. C., Burkhardt Hufnagel of Brooklyn and Nick Clausen, Newark Y. M. C. A., are some of the leaders in the lightweight class. Louis Aldrin, Norwegian Turn Society boxer, will seek the premier prize in the welterweight division in which a representative field of boxers will compete. Bunny Feeney, St. Jerome's Catholic Club, and Harry Estridge, St. Christopher Club, are scheduled for a return battle at 150 pounds.

BOXERS RESUME TRAINING.

Lew Tendler, Philadelphia lightweight, and Pal Moran of New Orleans resumed training yesterday for their fifteen-round bout, which will be held at the New York Velodrome Monday night. The boxers each engaged in battles in Philadelphia last Monday night and were successful. Tendler, by way of getting some competitive preparation for the meeting with Moran, scored a victory over the rugged Ever Hammer of Chicago.

Moran trounced Joe Tiplitz, stablemate of Tendler, in another bout. Moran now has scored victories over Harry (Kid) Brown and Tiplitz, who are under the management of Phil Glassman, Tendler's manager. The Crescent City boxer is confident he will continue his success against Glassman's boxers when he engages Tendler.

Bobby Michaels and Andy Thomas, hard-hitting lightweights, will clash in the semi-final bout of twelve rounds. Thomas is the Brooklyn boxer who recently gained an even break in points with Pete Hartley after a hair-raising scrap. This bout has been signed at 138 pounds at 2 o'clock. A six-round bout and a four-round encounter will be arranged tomorrow according to present plans.

POLO ASSOCIATION REVISES HANDICAP

Handicaps for the seven teams entered in the international polo tournament which opens today at the Philadelphia Country Club, Bala, Pa., have been revised, according to announcement yesterday afternoon by the Polo Association in this city. The revision was made as a result of the play for the Herbert Memorial Trophy and the Open Championship Cups at the tournament of the Rumson Country Club. Meadow Brook won the former, while the Argentine four defeated the Westbury players decisively in the final of the title contest.

In view of the fact that the open championship was played on the flat without handicap, the Argentine players naturally would be expected to give away goals to all other teams in the Philadelphia event. The injury to David B. Miles, the star No. 3 on the South American four, has entirely changed the situation, however, and it is not expected that he will be able to line up with his team during the Philadelphia series. His place will be taken by Luis Nelson, the team's substitute, who played in several matches in England and in scratch events here. He is not the player that his team-mate is and for that reason Argentine will play at scratch during the series at Bala.

Also on scratch will be the Meadow

AMERICAN YACHTS RETAIN THEIR LEAD

Defeat British Six-Meters in Third Cup Race at Oyster Bay by 22 to 14 Points.

JEAN FIRST TO FINISH

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Although the British six-meter yacht Jean today led across the finish line the international fleets racing off here for the British-American Cup, the Americans took second, third, fourth and fifth places, thereby defeating the Britons in the point score column, 22 to 14. The race today was the third of the six-race series in which the visitors are defending in United States waters the trophy they won last year in the Solent. As the point score last night stood 42 to 30 in the Americans' favor, today's accumulation made the total score in points 64 for the Americans to 44 for the British.

The first of the American yachts to finish was L'Esprit, owned by W. H. Childs, and sailed by Butler Whiting. She was three minutes and thirty-four seconds astern of Jean, sailed by Sir Ralph Gore. Jean was three hours and thirty-five minutes logging the twelve miles of today's windward-leeward course, and did not break the tape until 5:45. The race was sailed in fluky winds, very light at all times, and at moments conspicuously absent.

Following L'Esprit was Grebe, which is owned and sailed by deB. Boardman and E. Townsend Irvin. Then came H. B. Plant's Clytie, with the owner at the tiller, and J. F. Bermingham's Lea, sailed by C. Sherman Hoyt. F. J. Stephens's Colia III., Norman Clark Neill's Reg, and Caryl, owned by W. F. Robertson, the remaining British contenders, trailed in that order.

Won and Lost on First Leg.

The race was won and lost on the first leg, when luck played an important part in the game. Three American boats followed Jean around the weather mark, and although the order of these three changed on subsequent legs the Britons were never able to climb into that tier of places in the scoring column. Lea was next to the last yacht to weather the outward mark on the first round, and although her working up to finish fifth increased the Americans' margin of victory, the home fleet would have outscored the visitors had Lea finished next to last.

Lea stood to the westward, as did Caryl, on the first leg, and both were becalmed. The other six boats stood to the east, and although they ran into soft spots they picked up a streak of airs which wafted them slowly, but eventually, to the stake boat well in the lead of Lea and Caryl.

The course to the weather stake was north-northwest, but the skippers got windward work only on the first trip out. The wind hauled to the north-northeast just as Jean rounded the corner, with the result that the second trip out was a close reach.

The yachts were all closely bunched at the weather end of the line when the gun for the start boomed on the committee boat. All crossed on the starboard tack with Clytie up to weather. Berthed next to Clytie was Grebe. Then came Reg, Caryl, L'Esprit, Colia III., Jean and Lea.

The order of the boats going over the starting line really counted for little, except that Lea, being the leeward boat, naturally stood to the westward. Perhaps, also, Hoyt counted on the wind backing to the west and southwest if it shifted. If so, he was badly fooled.

Wind Sets to the East.

It was high water at 2:40 off Center Island, and before the yachts reached the weather mark it was setting to the east. This did not materially aid any one. Shortly after 3 o'clock a breath or two came in from east of north and most of the skippers went about on the port tack in an effort to pick up the breeze.

At 3:30 the wind had hauled very nearly to the northeast and had freshened to about five knots. All of the yachts which had gone to the eastward made a close reach down to the weather mark, and Jean, the crack light-weather boat of the visiting team, showed the way very prettily, going around at 3:45 P. M.

Clytie was the first of the Americans to round the stake boat, but she was more than four minutes astern of Sir John Ward's black-hulled vessel. Grebe led L'Esprit at this mark, coming about at 3:50:10, with L'Esprit nearly two minutes in her wake. Colia III. and Reg followed in order, the latter filling away on the first leg to the home mark at 3:55:10.

Sherman Hoyt had difficulty in getting his canary-colored Lea around the mark boat. The wind flattened just as he was about to jibe and the tide carried him to leeward of the stake boat. He got around, however, at 4:04:17. Caryl made the turn in last place at 4:12:55.

Thus nearly a half hour intervened between the first boat and the last, showing how the fluky wind played hob with the race. The two yachts which had stood to the west, Lea and Caryl, did worst of all.

Reach of Second Leg.

The hauling of the wind toward the east made a reach of the second leg. Some of the skippers tried out spinnakers, but the wind was too far forward on the quarter and they soon took them in again. Three of the visiting boats, Jean, Reg and Caryl, set large, loose-footed reaching jibs. None of the Americans changed sails.

On this second leg the positions of several of the yachts was changed. Jean still led at the second mark, but L'Esprit moved up into second place and Clytie dropped into fourth place, astern of Grebe. Lea also bettered her position, overhauling Reg, although the latter luffed out in an effort to prevent the Bermingham boat from getting by. This placed Lea in sixth position.

The third leg, from the committee boat out to what had been the weather mark, was turned into a close reach by the shift of wind. The breeze also had freshened, so that quick time was made.

Jean, as before, maintained her place at the head of the field, with L'Esprit, Grebe and Clytie astern of her in that order. The sensation of this pace on this leg was Lea, which proved that she is a speed demon on a reach. Lea overhauled Colia about a mile from the stake boat, to snatch fourth place. As Lea was not headed on the last leg she scored four of the American points.

Will Have a Day's Rest.

The yachts will haul out tomorrow, as there will be no race. On Thursday the contest will be over a triangular course, two miles to the leg, sailed twice around. The course will be so laid out as to give a beat, a reach and a run.

CHAMPAGNE STAKES TAKEN BY NASSAU

MISS SMITH IS SECOND

Southern Cross Wins Great Neck Handicap Over Sloppy Course at Belmont Park.

The brown colt Nassau, showing a nice turn of speed in sloppy going, carried the racing banner of Frederick Johnson to victory yesterday afternoon at Belmont Park in the fifty-first renewal of that ancient fixture for two-year-olds, the Champagne Stakes, and thereby inscribed his name at the bottom of a list of notable thoroughbreds. Last season Surf Rider, conqueror of Morvich at Saratoga, won the Champagne, and in 1920 the now famous Grey Lag was the victor. Cleopatra captured the 1919 running and War Pennant that of 1918, while such names as Colin, Stalwart, Garry Herrmann, Plaudit and Ben Brush are found further back on the scroll.

Nassau disposed without much difficulty of seven other youngsters, some of them rated pretty well up among the season's two-year-old racers. W. M. Jeffords's Miss Smith came nearer to giving him trouble than any of the rest, being well up for the whole of the trying test of seven furlongs. The filly was not fleet enough to hold the colt level in the final stages, however, and Nassau won handily by a length and a half, Miss Smith taking the place with ease from the Rancocas Stable's Coeur de Lion, which chased with a rush down the stretch to rob H. C. Proctor's Daniel of the small end of the money.

Nassau, running in front from barrier to wire, covered the route in 1:26 2-5, the slowest time recorded for the fixture since 1904, when Oiseau plowed through the mud at Morris Park in 1:32. The bad going yesterday is all the excuse needed by Nassau, which gave a nice exhibition and might have clipped his mark a bit if he had been pressed. The victory was worth $4,850 to Mr. Johnson.

Nassau Is Post Favorite.

Nassau went to the post favorite, being played from an opening price of threes to close at 2 to 1, while Daniel, which was quoted at 5 to 2 at the outset of the speculation, receded to 3 to 1. Miss Smith was in some demand among the talent at a short price, and H. P. Whitney's Spot Cash was pounded from twenties to tens.

The promising field entered overnight for the Great Neck Handicap was slashed to bits by the blue pencil, Exodus, Best Pal, Hephaistos, Thunderclap, John Paul Jones and Pilgrim being eliminated. This left the Xalapa Farm's five three-year-old, Southern Cross, to do fine three-year-old, Southern Cross, to do battle with the Rancocas Stable's fleet Little Chief, of his own age, and Stephen Pettit's four-year-old gelding, Devastation.

Southern Cross proved equal to the emergency and led throughout the entire one mile journey. In the earlier stages Little Chief essayed to match strides with the son of Luke McLuke, but Southern Cross raced the Rancocas racer into submission within the first half and went on to win eased up by a length and a half. After being repelled in his first challenge, Pettit took Little Chief back off the pace and then tried to bring him along in the stretch with a winning effort, but his mount failed to respond with anything formidable. He was an easy second, however, for Devastation had been outrun so badly at the outset that, although he made up some ground later, he never seriously figured in the competition.

The opening race, a six-furlong sprint for selling platers, resulted in an easy victory for the Triple Springs Farm's Opperman, which rushed into a long early lead and was never let down, winning by five lengths from P. A. Clark's Blue Teal, a long shot, which beat T. F. Price's Doughnut for the place by over a length. Opperman was a lukewarm favorite in the betting.

Stewards Act Against Care Free.

RODERICK'S KICKING FEATURES DRAB DAY

Despite a heavy rain that threatened to effectually dampen the ardor of Columbia's football squad on Baker Field yesterday, Buck O'Neill managed to squeeze in a workout on schedule time during the afternoon. Kicking practice consumed much of the time. The punting of Ben Roderick, former Boston College star, was the feature of the afternoon, most of his powerful drives averaging sixty yards.

The second day also witnessed the arrival of four more candidates, one of them a letter man. The newcomers were H. W. Blaine, varsity centre last year; Bliss Erice and Stewart Chase, substitute tackles, and Jack Van Brocklin, a member of the 1925 yearling eleven, but he did not get an opportunity to display his wares yesterday. Frank Brodil, end and centre and incidentally captain and stroke of the varsity crew, also arrived in town from Maine, but did not get into a uniform. M. Walder, a regular lineman, again watched the practice from the side lines.

The first casualty of the still youthful season appeared in the person of Eddie Meyers, varsity tackle. Meyers developed a bad cold which will probably keep him off the field for three or four days.

The appearance of Blaine, Brodil, Chase, Van Brocklin and Price brought the list of absentees down to twelve. Jack Billingsley, a newcomer from the West and regarded as a promising tackle candidate, is still missing.

Cornelius Vermont, who rowed on the fresh crew, has not yet reported and other absent linemen are Ray Nelson and Hutton Hinch. Among the backs who have yet to report are Jack Thornton, George Goldstein, J. R. Macauley, George Pezzini, Sam Salemi, R. V. Burke, Moe Reilly and Victor Graeb. Graeb is the sprinting star of the track team and if he shows any aptitude for football his speed should make him a valuable asset to the squad.

It is rumored that Frank Canapary, the captain who was once demoted under the régime of Fred Dawson, is in college and eligible to play, but his name does not appear on the list given out by Graduate Manager Watt.

Incidentally Watt took occasion yesterday to deny the statement credited to Howard Berry of the University of Pennsylvania, who was quoted as saying that he had received a flattering offer to coach Columbia under Buck O'Neill.

MANY VETS AT BOSTON U.

Squad Will Hold Initial Practice This Afternoon.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—The Boston University football squad will have its first practice on Volkmann Field tomorrow afternoon. Practice will be held every afternoon thereafter until the first game with Colby on Sept. 30, according to Coach Charles Whelan.

Most of last year's squad will be back in uniform, including Captain "Babe" Tonry. Tonry and Tom Lonergan, tackle on last year's eleven, have been putting several aspirants through a course of training in Maine.

Among the veterans who will report tomorrow are Williamson, Cochrane, Levenson, Santosuosso, Miller, Small, Perry, Freder and Koster. There has been a change in policy regarding the season's schedule, and the team will not start with such stiff propositions as a year ago, when Harvard and Boston College were played on successive Saturdays.

Sept. 30, Colby at Waterville.

Oct. 7, Boston College at Braves Field; 14, University of Vermont at Burlington; 21, Holy Cross at Worcester; 28, Brown at Providence.

Nov. 4, Dartmouth at Hanover; 11, Providence College at Providence; 18, New Hampshire State College at Durham; 30, Tufts at Medford.

AGGIES HAVE BIG SQUAD.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., Sept. 12.—With a registration of sixty 137 students, more than fifty players have turned out as candidates for the New York Aggies football team, which a new beginning what it is hoped will prove to be the most successful season in the history of the school. Although there is a difficult schedule to be faced, with such opponents as New York University and City College of New York, it is expected that Coach Dumoe, formerly of the Canton Bulldogs, will be able to turn out a strong team. He has some able players in Captain McWilliams, Scholl, Foster, Brucato, Coyle, Van Pelt, Rosengren and Follet, all varsity men.

The loss of G. Van Pelt, last year's star quarterback and captain, will leave a big gap in the backfield ranks, which it is hoped can be filled from the new material.

Marco and Stuart Matched.

Sammy Marco and Danny Stuart will be rivals in the stellar twelve-round bout at the Fifteenth Infantry Regiment Friday night. A ten-round semi-final bout will bring together Kid Buller and Little Jack Johnson.

France Will Limit Athletic Meets for Women in Future

PARIS, Sept. 12.—In connection with the recent women's athletic meeting in the Pershing Stadium, the Vichy Medical Congress examined the question of the influence upon women's health of extensive athletic activity and has adopted resolutions limiting certain competitions and suppressing others altogether. In future at women's sports meetings in France held under the control of the General Federation of Women's Athletic Societies, the following limits will be adopted: Sprinting, eighty meters; cross-country races, maximum, 2,500 meters. No long jumps will be permitted, but the high jump is to be maintained. The hurdles will be eighty-three meters, with seven hurdles, seventy-five centimeters high; but in certain cases these are to be reduced to fifty centimeters. The weight-putting maximum will be three and a half kilograms. The weight of the discus is fixed at 850 grams and the javelin two kilograms 800 grams.

PIANI WINS MATCH RACE FROM GOULLET

Orlando Piani, Italian sprint cyclist, finally turned the tables on Alf Goullet, crack Newark rider, last night at the New York Velodrome. In a match race, decided in heats of one mile each, the Italian sprinter, after two previous failures, beat Goullet. Piani emphasized the sting of defeat for Goullet, for the Italian, riding as perhaps he seldom has before this season, took the race in straight heats and in convincing fashion.

A crowd of about 5,000, braving the chilly winds which blew across the Kingsbridge Pine Stadium, witnessed this triumph of Piani over the noted Goullet after three bitterly contested races. Twice before Piani measured his speed and riding skill against that of the versatile, experienced Goullet, and as many times the Italian fell short of his objective.

Piani "jumped" the American all-around champion with an opportune sprint in the opening heat of a mile and rode like fury to the wire to receive a rousing reception. The riders alternated in the early pace, but going into the final lap Goullet was leading. With the bell, the American star started a sprint, anticipating the challenge of his rival. Piani's challenge came, and in a stronger burst of speed than even the experienced Goullet had expected. The Italian made his bid for victory in the back stretch, when, putting all his strength into a spectacular session of mad pedalling, Piani opened up a gap which he increased to more than a length of open track at the finish line. This heat was run in 2:58. Piani covered the last eighth mile in 12 seconds.

In the second heat Piani was in front for the greater part of the six-lap journey. The Italian early went into the lead and fought off successive challenges by Goullet as the race progressed. The American star made a spirited bid for victory rounding the last turn, but in a finishing sprint down the short home stretch Piani managed to maintain his position in front. The Italian finished with a victorious margin of less than a yard on his American rival, in 2:52. The last eighth mile was ridden in 12 1-5 seconds.

Goullet later returned to the track and scored a victory in a ten-mile open race, which was decided on a point basis for sprints every mile of the test. The race attracted about twenty-five cyclists. Goullet, early in the going, demonstrated his superiority over the field, finishing with a total of 64 points. This was more than double the score of Cecil Walker, Australian rider, who finished second with 20 tallies. Reggie McNamara, Newark veteran of many six-day bike races, was third with 22 points and Eddie Madden, another Newark cyclist, was fourth with 21 tallies. Fifth honors fell to Larry Gaffney, Brooklynite, whose riding earned him an even dozen points. The time for the ten-mile race was 22:13 1-5.

Goullet's overwhelming margin in points represented triumphs in five of the sprints, second place in another sprint and third position in two other sprints. Al Grenda, big Tasmanian rider, was regarded as a dangerous contender for victory in this event, but was early forced out of the race. Grenda won the second sprint in a spectacular dash over the saucer-shaped track, with Willie Hanley of San Francisco and Goullet. After scoring this heat, however, Grenda suffered a puncture and was forced to retire from the race.

Australian cyclists accounted for the first three prizes in the miss-and-out invitation professional race. Cecil Walker was the winner by a matter of less than a yard over Alex McBeath, a fellow-countryman. Clifford Papworth was third. The time was 5:45 2-5 for two miles and five laps.

A handicap of 80 yards enabled Fred Weber, Newark rider, to win the two-thirds of a mile handicap event in which a large field faced the starter. Tom Bello, who started with a handicap of 60 yards, was second, and Charles Jaeger, who had a handicap of 90 yards, was third. The time was 1:14 3-5.

George Chapman of Newark, American motor-paced champion, scored an impressive victory in the 25-mile handicap, motor-paced event, which closed the program. The titleholder, starting from scratch, followed the pace of Jean Cavanetucci, Italian pacemaker, in faultless style, and overcame handicap allowances ranging up to one mile, which he conceded to rivals. Chapman finished with an advantage of half a lap on Frank Corry, Australian cyclist, who was allowed a start of two laps.

The summaries:

Two-Thirds-Mile Handicap (Amateur)—Won by Dan Costello, Unione Sportiva Italiana (50 yards); Anthony Benesatti, Unione Sportiva Italiana (70 yards), second; Otto Eisele, Unione Sportiva Italiana (70 yards), third; Anthony Attardi, Unione Sportiva Italiana (70 yards), fourth. Time—1:18 2-5.

Time—22:13 1-5.

HOST OF GRID MEN OUT AT CAMBRIDGE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 12.—For the first time in more than 30 years Harvard's Varsity football squad had a rainy day on which to begin the season's work. The afternoon was one such as might have been expected after thirty years of waiting, the rain falling in drenching torrents and making the freshman field, where the early drills are held, a soppy one. Nevertheless, Head Coach Fisher sent his men out to go through some of the preliminary motions.

The Crimson's squad was one of the largest in the history of Cambridge football. There were 110 candidates in all, perhaps more than half of them being ones whom the coaches have seen in action in other years. There were hosts of ends and backs, but not nearly so many players that could be picked out as having the physical qualifications for tackles and guards, the positions for which Harvard needs so much material this Fall.

Practically all of the veterans from last year's Varsity squad were on hand, George Owen being one of the absentees. Owen also was late last year, and it was some weeks before he got going, but he finished all right, and is regarded as one of the Crimson's greatest assets for the coming campaign.

The squad reported early, and Head Coach Fisher held the usual meeting in the Locker Building, outlining the early part of the season's work. It had been decided to hold no morning drills, this experiment having been tried a few years ago, and the coaches all feeling that the men report in good enough shape so that one hard session of football a day is enough.

Bob Fisher had nearly all of his immediate associates on the job today. Babe Felton at once got busy with a lot of new quarterbacks, Derric Parmenter took out the centres of which Harvard has several who have had a year or two experience. Duke Sedgwick had the tackles, Clark Macomber was in charge of the guards and Ned Mahan worked with the backfield. Jimmy Knox and Charley Crowley, the second team coaches, were out working also, for in about two weeks hence they will have at least sixty of the men who reported today on their hands as candidates for the scrubs.

There was no chance to do any kicking, but there was a short session of falling on the ball, passing the wet ball, working on starts and a medicine ball drill for the heavier of the linemen. The practice ended with a long sprint around the stadium, headed by Captain Buell.

The best of the 1925 freshmen were out, the list including McGillen and Hammond, tackle and end, both of whom will have every chance with the varsity this Fall. Of last year's varsity backs Fitts, Pfaffman, Chapin, Gehrke and Rouillard and Jenkins are reported, also substitute centres Holden and Bradford both were on hand for the first workout.

FIFTY GRID CANDIDATES REPORT AT OHIO FIELD

N. Y. U. Squad Will Practice Here Until Friday and Then Go to Fort Slocum.

Fifty football candidates for the New York University eleven reported on Ohio Field yesterday afternoon in response to the call of Tom Thorp for their first scrimmage of the season. The men will be out for practice again today and tomorrow, and then Thorp, who is the head coach, will take his charges down to Fort Slocum, where there will be ten days of concentrated drill before the players are required to be back for the opening of school, Sept. 26.

Thorp will take his entire coaching staff with him, composed of Bill McCarthy, New York University's baseball coach and former star of the gridiron and diamond as well; Howard Dann, a New York University football star of several years ago, and Jack Weinheimer, captain and halfback of the 1920 and 1921 teams.

The New York University schedule follows:

Sept. 30, New York Institute of Agriculture, Ohio Field; Oct. 7, Syrcuse at Syracuse; Oct. 14, Hobart at Ohio Field; Oct. 21, Columbia at South Field; Oct. 28, Rhode Island State at Ohio Field; Nov. 4, Trinity at Ohio Field; Nov. 11, City College at Ohio Field; Nov. 18, Rutgers at East Orange.

JOIN PENN STATE SQUAD.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 12.—The arrival of Ray Carson, Dave Feaster and Lafferty, all of whom were members of the scrub backfield last year, rounds out the Penn State football squad for the year, and gives the coaching staff three additional prospects to fill the backfield holes that have been so bothersome. Carson is a quarterback, while the other two are halfbacks, and they all took part in scrimmage this afternoon.

The opening of college this week has forced Coach Bezdek to eliminate the morning work and from now on there will be time for only one practice a day.

To Make Ring Debut Here.

Unusual interest is reported in the first American ring appearance here of Billy Mathews, English featherweight, and Tibby Watson, former bantamweight champion of Australia. The boxers are scheduled to engage in the two principal ten-round bouts at the Queensboro A. C., Long Island City, on Saturday night. Mathews will exchange blows with Billy De Foe, St. Paul veteran. Watson will make his American debut against Charlie Bescher of the East Side.

Grand Circuit Races Postponed.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 12.—All Grand Circuit races for today were declared off at noon by Racing Commissioner Cahill. All night rains made the track a sea of mud. The program will be combined with tomorrow's, when the Empire State stake of $10,000 will be run. Peter Manning, world's champion trotter, will make his race to lower the record Thursday.

EXAMS TO BE PART OF TIGER PROGRAM

Princeton Grid Men Will Be Quizzed on Fundamentals and Rules by Coach Roper.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 12.—With ten late arrivals increasing Princeton's football squad to sixty-five, the Tiger candidates were given their first important drilling today. At the beginning of the afternoon session the coaches of the various groups into which the squad is divided, gave talks of about an hour's duration on the fundamentals and the 1922 rules of the game. These talks are to continue all week, and will be concluded with a written examination for each man, Coach William Roper announced. Following, the various groups were drilled in the playing details of the positions for which they are trying. The afternoon's work closed with a short signal drill.

Lourie and Trimble have been in charge of the back-field men; Wilmer and Gilroy have been drilling the centres, Shad Davis the ends, Fitzpatrick and Bigler the tackles and guards. Nat Poe will again be in charge of the second squad men known as the "Onliettes," while Coach Roper is giving particular attention to the development of a quarterback.

The Tiger mentor made his first comment this afternoon on the squad when he intimated that he was pleased with the spirit displayed, but added that he did not consider the squad as a whole as being made up of as large men as in recent years.

Howel Vangerbig, who was the mainstay of the Tiger offense in the Chicago and Navy games last Fall, was sent home by Trainer Fitzpatrick for a week to allow an injured foot a chance to completely recover before he takes his regular turn in the daily practice.

Among the new arrivals today were Whoops Snively, varsity end, who did most of Princeton's forward passing last year. He will try out for the backfield; Bob Johnson, a transfer from Amherst, will be out for end, and Owen, former W. & J. halfback, also arrived and will be out for that position. Kennedy, Stevens, Barclay and Bowers were among the others.

Trainer Keene Fitzpatrick announced that the next ten days would be given over solely to the development of the physical condition of the men and the first scrimmage will probably not take place until the week previous to the opening game with Johns Hopkins on Sept. 30. The Tiger schedule is as follows:

Sept. 30—Johns Hopkins at Princeton.

Oct. 7—University of Virginia at Princeton; 14, Colgate at Princeton; 21, University of Maryland at Princeton; 28, Chicago University at Chicago.

Nov. 4—Swarthmore at Princeton; 11, Harvard at Cambridge; 18, Yale at Princeton.

RAIN HALTS TENNIS PLAY AT MANHEIM

Fourth Round Matches in National Singles Tournament Will Be Played Today.

NOTABLE CONTESTS CARDED

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Rain, which fell heavily this morning, caused a day's intermission in the tennis tournament for the national singles championship at the Germantown Cricket Club, Manheim. The rain stopped before noon, but the tournament committee decided that there were not enough courts protected by tarpaulins to permit of carrying through the schedule of eight matches. Accordingly, with the kind permission of the weather, the fourth round will be contested tomorrow afternoon.

The original plan, announced yesterday, was to play the final round on Friday. The final cannot now be reached until Saturday. Today's rain proclaims the wisdom of those who arranged for the opening of the tournament last Friday, allowing for the possibility of a day's interruption and still making possible the completion of the competition this week.

Every one of the matches on tomorrow's program promises a plentitude of stirring action. Special interest attaches to the meeting of Gerald Patterson, the Australian Davis Cup Captain, and Francis T. Hunter, national indoor champion and conqueror of Patterson in the Seabright tournament. Patterson was one of the most observant spectators at yesterday's five-set match which Hunter captured from Lawrence Rice. Patterson was not only scouting out Hunter's present form and style, but he was secretly rooting for him to win. This was because the Australian has the natural desire to settle the Seabright score. He is out for revenge.

Hunter played against Rice much as he did when he beat Patterson so decisively, but the Australian has since played considerably faster and more confident tennis than at that time, when the tremendous force of the New Yorker's attack fairly dumfounded him. Patterson is the favorite over Hunter in view of his improvement since Seabright, where he had not yet become acclimated; but it ought to be a rousing match. If Patterson wins, he will encounter R. N. Williams 2d in the succeeding round, and that match should be one of the thrillers of the tournament.

Alonso to Play Washburn.

Another of the five international tests on tomorrow's bill will see the Spanish champion, Mandel Alonso, arrayed against Watson Washburn of New York. Alonso is the more brilliant player of the two and Washburn's steady court-covering will be put to a severe trial if he is to stand up successfully against the heavy bombardment of attacking strokes which the Spaniard is certain to launch against him. Alonso's nervous energy is almost volcanic and it is in constant eruption. He tries so everlastingly for everything, making the most impossible recoveries, and he has such magnificent strokes and speed and such an eye for the angles and the openings that it is not surprising that, in his matches thus far in the tournament, he has made himself the particular favorite of the galleries.

He is as handsome as a movie star in a play of tropical passion and this does not injure him with the women in his galleries. Moreover, his manner on the court is most engaging, for, with all the fire and dash of his play and the heat with which he tries for every point, he is a model of spontaneous courtesy toward his opponents. After Alonso's overwhelming victory over Voshell yesterday he took no credit to himself, but expressed regret that Voshell did not do himself justice.

Tilden has given out the opinion that Alonso's scintillant tennis against Voshell makes him the sensation of the tourney. Tilden states the belief that Alonso would have won the Wimbledon title in 1921 if he had been able to beat Norton in the semi-finals. Tilden was barely able to defeat Norton and believes that against Alonso he could not have pulled through. At any rate, Alonso is strongly favored to vanquish Washburn tomorrow. The latter did not appear to be at his best yesterday in his unexpectedly hard match with Charest, the one-armed Maryland champion.

Wood Not Sufficiently Severe.

Tilden's match tomorrow will be with Pat O'Hara Wood, and, beautifully rounded as the Australian's game is, he cannot apply sufficient force to his shots to beat the American champion with the latter in form. Bill Johnston will meet his fellow-Californian, Howard Kinsey, who has often made a good showing against the former champion, but who has no real chance of winning from him.

Robert Kinsey has a better chance of defeating James O. Anderson of Australia than his brother has of downing Johnston. Robert has twice beaten Shimizu this Summer, and he is always dangerous. But if Anderson plays as he did yesterday against Lucien Williams, there should be a fairly decisive victory chalked up for Australia.

Shimizu will face an old rival in Wallace Johnson, last year's finalist with Tilden in the national championship. Last year Shimizu beat Johnson at Longwood and Newport. But Johnson is always at his best at the climax of the season and he has a good chance to obtain revenge tomorrow.

It is a tribute to the sagacity of those who seeded the draw for this tournament that, of the sixteen men now surviving, only two were not seeded and only one of those reached his present position by beating a seeded player. This is Herbert L. Bowman, who eliminated Frank T. Anderson. Anderson's place in the draw had been seeded. The other "unseeded" player remaining is Elliott H. Binzen. Both Bowman and Binzen are expected to play their last matches tomorrow, for the former will probably fall before Vincent Richards, and the latter has little chance to do more than force R. N. Williams 2d to play his best tennis.

Five New Yorkers Survive.

Of the sixteen who survive, metropolitan tennis is represented by five men—Richards, Washburn, Hunter, Binzen and Bowman, all of New York or its suburbs. San Francisco has Johnston and the two Kinseys, Philadelphia has Tilden and Wallace Johnson, Boston has Dick Williams, and the remaining five are foreign players.

The finals called off today also in the girls' national singles championship and the Middle States women's championship at the Philadelphia Cricket Club. Miss Wills is not only the favorite to possess her hold upon the girls' title, but she will probably once more furnish the chief opposition to Mrs. Mallory in the women's event. Miss Wills was asked if she expected to come East again next Summer, and replied with marked modesty:

"If I improve enough this Winter I shall come back."

If she improves to any appreciable extent, it may be added, she will come back to win the national championship. Miss Wills replied to further questioning that she had no intention of going to Wimbledon, England, next season.

"But should I play sufficiently well here in the East next Summer," she added, "I have hopes of going across in 1924," which may mean distant, but none the less serious trouble for Mlle. Lenglen.

Mlle. Lenglen Has Played Last Tournament Match in Singles

PARIS, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—Susanne Lenglen has played her last single tennis in tournament matches, she told friends today upon her return to Paris from Le Touquet, where she experienced a recurrence of the heart trouble to which she has been subject recently. At Le Touquet the champion requested her opponent in the semi-finals, Mrs. E. M. Hannam of England, to postpone their match, which the latter declined to do, winning by default, but losing in the finals to Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California, 6-3, 6-0. Mlle. Lenglen has not lost a set this Summer, and only once was forced into extra games to win. This was at Brussels, during the hard court championships, when she won over Kitty MacKane of England, 10-8. Suzanne's decision, unless she changes her mind meantime, means that she will not defend her world's title at Wimbledon in 1923.

TWO CLUBS SURVIVE IN JUNIOR NET PLAY

CEDARHURST, L. I., Sept. 12.—The semi-final round in the junior lawn tennis tournament for the challenge cup offered by the Tennis Committee of the Rockaway Hunting Club was played this afternoon on the courts of the club before an appreciative gallery. Rain, which had threatened a postponement, cleared away early and sunshine and fast courts were enjoyed all afternoon by the youthful players.

Four teams competed this afternoon. Piping Rock and Rockaway Hunting Club teams, which had drawn byes in the first round, came into action and both were successful by overwhelming margins and will meet in the finals tomorrow. In the morning at 10:30 o'clock the two teams will meet in singles, while the doubles contests are scheduled for the afternoon. Rockaway won the first tournament last year and is out to gain its second leg on the trophy.

In the first of the series today Piping Rock defeated Easthampton by five points to none, winning all four singles and the only doubles match contested. About the best match of the afternoon was that in which the No. 1 players on the two teams met, W. H. Stewart of Piping Rock defeating K. Hopkins of Easthampton by a score of 9—7, 2—6, 6—3. The match was even closer than the score indicates and was a hard-fought affair from start to finish. Both youngsters played an all-around game and the first set, especially, was bitterly contested, many of the games going to deuce. Hopkins came back strongly in the second set and fairly swept away Stewart's defense. The latter rallied, however, and took the third and deciding set, although not without a struggle.

Rockaway Hunting Club entered the finals by an equally decisive margin, although the doubles was not completed. The home players made a clean sweep of the singles matches over the representatives of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club, and all of them went in straight sets. In the first match, however, in which the No. 1 men faced each other across the net, another brilliant match resulted and it was fought in quite as determined a manner as that between the leaders of the first two teams. O. H. Gruner Jr. of Rockaway was forced to two deuce sets to defeat C. G. Hurd of Seabright, who yesterday won a close contest from H. N. Rollins, the Southampton leader. Both Gruner and Hurd play a baseline game and while it was less spectacular than the Stewart-Hopkins encounter, both exhibited some very fine tennis, Gruner finally winning by a score of 10—8, 8—6.

The doubles contest between Gruner and Norris of Rockaway and Totts and Hurd of Seabright gave prome of developing into the best competition of the tournament, when darkness intervened. Gruner and Norris took the first set at 6—4, while the second set went to the Seabright pair at 6—3. The Rockaway representatives were leading in the third set at five games to four when a halt was called. The contest will be finished tomorrow.

The summaries:

PIPING ROCK VS. EASTHAMPTON.

Singles—W. H. stewart, Piping Rock, defeated K. Hopkins, Easthampton, 9—7, 2—6, 6—3; R. T. Rose, Piping Rock, defeated J. C. Renard, Easthampton, 6—1, 6—2; W. M. Warner, Piping Rock, defeated J. K. Weeks, Easthampton, 6—0, 6—1; E. Pease, Piping Rock, defeated J. Keeler, Easthampton, 6—2, 6—3.

Doubles—Stewart and Warner, Piping Rock, defeated Weeks and Hopkins, Easthampton, 6—1, 6—4.

ROCKAWAY VS. SEABRIGHT.

Singles—O. H. Gurner Jr., Rockaway Hunting Club, defeated H. Totts, Seabright, 10—8, 8—6; H. J. Rees Jr., Rockaway, defeated H. Totts, Seabright, 6—3, 6—2; Lee Norris, Rockaway, defeated W. Wight, Seabright, 6—1, 6—0; J. Howes Burton Jr., Rockaway, defeated W. Bramhall, Seabright, 6—2, 6—2.

Doubles—Gruner and Norris led Totts and Hurd, 6—4, 3—6, 5—4 (postponed).

RAY AS A STEEPLECHASER.

Joie W. Ray, Illinois A. C. middle-distancer who enjoys the unique distinction of having won the national A. A. U. mile championship seven times and six years in succession, will undergo a test of his ability as a steeplechaser in his next appearance in the local district. The Kankakee flier has signified his intention of starting in the national steeplechase championship which will be a feature of the New York A. C.'s annual Fall track and field meet at Travers Island, Sept. 23.

Ray's decision to enter the Mercury Foot games will give local athletic followers who did not make the trip to Newark last Saturday afternoon, an opportunity to see the wonderful little middle-distance crack in action for the last time on an outdoor track this season. The wearer of the tri-color will confine himself to the two-mile event over hedges and water jumps. Mike Devaney, Millrose A. A. veteran who won the title last year, will be invited to defend his laurels against Ray. Invitations to compete also will be extended to several other prominent athletes.

WESLEYAN PLAYERS CALLED

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Sept. 12.—Coach Fred Martin has sent out a call to twenty-five men to report for practice for the Wesleyan football team Monday, Sept. 18. He will be assisted in coaching by Dick Steele, a former Wesleyan star quarterback. Five varsity men were lost by graduation. Veterans who will return are Scrigging, Fricke, Brothers, King, Captain Smith, Franks, Conway and Pyne. The schedule contains games with Union, Bowdoin, Columbia, Hobart, Tufts, Amherst and Williams.

SERGT. VELENAGE IS CAMP PERRY VICTOR

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Sept. 12.—Sergeant J. Velenare, United States Infantry, Fort Andrews, Mass., won the mebers' match, the first event completed in the sixteenth annual national rifle and pistol matches here today, defeating a field of 599 riflemen.

The next nine high men finished as follows: W. H. Richards, New Haven, Conn., T. Vereur, Detroit; Captain F. S. Swett, Coast Artillery Corps, Fort Terry, N. Y.; Cadet Morton C. Mumma Jr., Iowa City, Iowa; J. R. Weer, United States Marine Corps, Quantico, Va.; H. E. Miller, Ohio National Guard, Toledo; J. T. Lawless, Waltham, Mass.; P. Joerger, United States Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga.; P. T. Roberts, Tacoma, Wash.

In this match the first eighteen men finished with scores of 50. The standing was determined according to shots as placed in the bull's eye. The match was shot over the 600-yard slow-fire range. Cadet Mumma, who took fifth place, is the son of Colonel M. C. Mumma, executive officer of the matches.

The first two stages of the Leech Cup match with 602 competitors were completed on the 600 and 900-yard slow-fire ranges today. This match will be completed Wednesday on the 1,000-yard range.

The National Rifle Association match, which opened on the 200-yard rapid-fire range today, will be finished Wednesday morning with indications pointing to a large number of contestants tied for first place. At the conclusion of the first stage 25 per cent. of the 502 entrants were tied with possible scores. Weather conditions were ideal today.

KING WINS DOUBLES TITLE AT THE TRAPS

Has Score of 170 in Second Day's Program of American Tourney at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12.—Bad weather today prevented carrying out the full program of events scheduled for the second day of the American championship trapshooting tournament. One hundred and twenty-five amateur trapshooters had entered for the doubles championship and twenty-nine professionals for the professional doubles title.

All morning the rain fell heavily at intervals, and at noon all shooting was stopped by order of the management. Later, employes on some of the traps refused to work during the story, and the Atlantic City introductory had to be continued until tomorrow, when it will be completed.

Scores were very low owing to the wind and rain, R. A. King of Delta, Col., winning the title and first honors with 170 out of 100 doubles. Phil Miller of Dallas, Texas, who won the 18-yard championship yesterday, and Frank Hughes of Mobridge, S. D., tied for second with 169. Frank Troeh of Vancouver, Wash., being fourth with 164.

Among the professionals, Jay R. Graham of Long Lake, Ill., who won the professional eighteen-yard championship yesterday, was high with the score of 162 out of his 200. Art Killam of St. Louis was second with 161, and Fred S. Tomlin of Glassboro, N. J., was third with 160.

The junior trapshooting championship event for boys under 18 years had eight entries, including last year's winner, Elmer Herrold of Ashkum, Ill. Jimmie Bonner of New York City, the runner up last year; Dudley Shaircross, South Seekonk, Mass., and D. F. Boyden of Boston. This race, which is at 100 targets, sixteen yards rise, was carried over until tomorrow.

SEASON OPENS AT RUTGERS.

Coach Sanford Carries Out Program Despite Downpour.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 12.—Foster Sanford refused to let a little thing like a drenching rain postpone the first practice of the Rutgers football squad and carried out the scheduled program today.

That comprised the issuing of gridiron togs during the morning, a two-hour talk in the early afternoon outlining his plans and expectations, then a workout on Nelson Field for another two hours.

Thirty-six of the forty who received invitations for this early practice reported.

Coach Sanford looked over some prospective punters, including Gibson and Brennan, ends, and Captain Howard Raub, tackle. Finding a punter will be one of his early worries.

Veterans reporting today in addition to these punters were Feller and Kingman, guards; Dickinson and Loppacker, ends; Maloney, quarterback; Benker, Chandler, Gidley, Enander, Noble, Glatzel and Kiernan, backs, and Lincoln, Seringeour and Stockel, linemen.

Among the freshmen were Austin Singer of Dover High School, an All-State quarterback; John Yale, a halfback, and F. Richard Cass, an end, both of Poly Prep, Brooklyn, and Jarren Moore, a halfback from Erasmus High School.

BUCK TO COACH INDIANA.

Accepts Position for Year During Absence of E. O. Stiehm.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 12.—S. Howard Buck, former University of Wisconsin lineman, has accepted the position of football coach at Indiana University, it was announced this afternoon. His acceptance was received by Professor J. W. Monkhaus, Chairman of the Athletic Committee.

Buck will coach the Indiana teams during the next year. Coach E. O. Stiehm was recently granted a year's leave of absence with pay because of his serious illness.

During the football season of 1916 Buck was captain of the Wisconsin team. He played tackle for three years. In 1917-18 Buck coached the Carleton College team. His home is at Appleton, Wis.

CAMELIA SABIE HONORED.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 12.—Camelia Sabie, 19 years old, winner of the 100-yard dash and the standing broad jump as a member of the American team in the women's athletic games in Paris, was a guest today at a reception held in the Newark State Normal College, her alma mater.

More than 1,100 students, former schoolmates of Miss Sabie, gave her three cheers as she entered the building. Miss Sabie yesterday entered on her duties as physical training director at the John Catlin School in this city.

Gene Delmont, Memphis Boxer, And Manager Are Suspended

Gene Delmont, Memphis lightweight, and his manager, Al Lippe, were suspended yesterday, pending a hearing, at the meeting of the State Athletic Commission. It was announced by the commission that the suspension was inflicted as a consequence of the conduct of Delmont and Lippe following a bout in which the Memphis lightweight participated at the Syracuse Arena last Friday night. A hearing on the matter has been scheduled for the next meeting of the commission. The commission also issued an official statement of its new ruling compelling out-of-town or little-known boxers who have contracted for bouts under its jurisdiction to establish themselves in training quarters near the scene of their prospective battles at least two weeks in advance of the scheduled contest. This announcement was in confirmation of a statement made last week by Chairman William Muldoon.

CLEVELAND YACHT HERE FOR REGATTA

Fejo Arrives at Port Washington, L. I., by Motor Truck for Star Class Races.

PORT WASHINGTON, L. I., Sept. 12.—The speediest yacht of the Star class in Cleveland, Ohio, and vicinity arrived here this afternoon on a motor truck, to sail in the national championship off Execution Light, which starts next Monday and continues until Wednesday. Accompanying the yacht, the Fejo, was a crew of yachtsmen from the Ohio city.

Fejo, which is owned by J. P. Schweitzer of the Cleveland Yacht Club, was selected by the Lake Erie fleet to participate in the national event.

Brownie, owned by G. H. Armitage of the Washington Park Y. C., will arrive here tomorrow. The yacht is being towed by the power boat Rita.

From California, B. P. Weston's and Owen Churchill's Three Star arrived here yesterday, and is at the Port Washington Shipyard, getting ready for the race. The coast yacht was brought by way of the Panama Canal on the steamship Santa Anna.

Six challenging yachts, to contest with the defender of the Western Long Island Sound Star Association, which will be represented in the classic by W. L. Inslee's Taurus of the Bayside Yacht Club, already have been either heard from or arrived on the scene.

The challenging fleets which will be represented in the big race are as follows:

Massachusetts Coast Fleet—Midge, A. F. Johnson, Nehant Dory Club.

It is expected that the Lake Ontario fleet will be represented by the Rochester, owned by F. G. Ames of the Rochester Yacht Club, and the Detroit River fleet by Northern Star, owned by E. Buysse of the Edison Boat Club.

COLUMBIA TO BEGIN CREW WORK OCT. 1

Watt to Issue Call for Rowing Candidates—Bogue Again Heads Committee.

With the football cogwheels at last meshing smoothly and preparations for Columbia's eighth year on the gridiron since the return of the sport in 1915 making rapid headway, the Blue and White athletic moguls have had a moment or two to turn to other phases of sport, and as a result Bob Watt, graduate manager of athletics, yesterday announced that crew practice would start on Oct. 1.

Watt also stated that the Nominating Committee of the crew section of the Varsity "C" Club had renominated the graduate members of the Rowing Committee who served last year, namely Morton G. Bogue, '00; Lester H. Spalding, '07; Frederick Miller, '11, and Albert C. Rothwell, '14. These graduates, together with Captain Frank Brodil, Manager Edward Kelly and Graduate Manager Watt will constitute the Rowing Committee. Ordinarily there are never more than seven on the committee, but this year it is thought very likely that one or two other graduates may be associated in an advisory capacity.

Morton G. Bogue was immediately re-elected Chairman of the committee, with Frederick Miller Vice Chairman. Bogue is the present Chairman of the Board of Stewards under whose direction the Poughkeepsie regatta is annually staged. It is considered a foregone conclusion that Jim Rice will be retained as head coach. Rice's contract expired last June, but all that remains before he will receive a new contract is the official sanction to the organization of the Rowing Committee by the University Committee on Athletics. As soon as this is received, Bogue will confer with Rice, who has just returned from Canada, and it is expected that a long-term agreement will be entered into. Rice will again have the assistance of Frederick Miller, who was with him during the major part of the 1921-1922 campaign.

ELEVEN CYCLISTS ENTERED.

Eleven ambitious young cyclists are scheduled to start in the four junior championship cycling races for amateurs which will be held at Atlantic City, N. J., under the auspices of the Amateur Bicycle League of America, on Saturday. Ten States and the District of Columbia have nominated their cycling champions for the championship races. Charles Garin Jr. will carry the hopes of New York into the championship event. Garin, a product of the west side, went through the State championships with flying colors and is regarded as a likely contender for the national junior title.

HAGENLACHER WINS AGAIN.

Gains Two More Victories Over Cutler in Cue Matches.

Erich Hagenlacher of Germany again scored two victories over Albert Cutler of Boston in two 300-point exhibition 18.2 balkline billiard matches at Daly's Billiard Parlor yesterday. Hagenlacher captured each of the matches in six innings. In the afternoon play he was victorious by 300 to 51, while in the evening match he won by 300 to 188. The German had a high run of 121 in the afternoon and one of 197 in the evening. Cutler's high runs was 23 and 56.

GREENLEAF TO PLAY FIRST MATCH TODAY

Pocket Billiard Champion Will Engage Charles Harmon, State Titleholder.

Ralph Greenleaf will make his first appearance of the season in this city this afternoon at the Strand Billiard Academy, when the world's pocket billiard champion will play his first exhibition match. He will engage Charles Harmon, the professional champion of New York State, in the first block of a 1,200 match. They will play eight blocks in afternoon and evening sessions through Saturday night.

This will be the first real practice that Greenleaf has had for his championship match with Bennie Allen of Kansas City, which is to be played at Philadelphia on Sept. 26, 27 and 28. Greenleaf has been practicing in private and is reported to be in excellent stroke. He recently ran 100 balls without missing.

Erich Hagenlacher will begin a new exhibition this afternoon with Albert Cutler at the National Recreation Academy of Brooklyn. They will play a total of 1,800 points in afternoon and evening blocks of 300 points each. Hagenlacher is taking this means of playing himself into stroke for the international balkline tournament to be held in this city early in November.

B. E. Bensinger, President of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, who returned from Europe last week, will leave here today for Chicago. He stated yesterday that the final arrangements for the international balkline tournament had been completed, and that the details would be announced on Saturday.

BARTON BEATS JOHNSON.

George Barton of this city won last night's block in the championship amateur snooker billiard match with Roy Johnson of Chicago at Doyle's Broadway room by a score of 119 to 100, but the Western player is still leading with a total score of 200 to 188 for the two nights. The local man started very well, but an unfortunate scratch just when he was even with his rival toward the end of the first frame proved disastrous, as Johnson drew away for twenty-five points after the scratch.

The second and third frames were rather dull, as each man was playing too carefully. Barton, who holds the amateur championship, is not at his best unless he plays daringly. His style does not conform with careful play, and it seemed to the spectators who are familiar with his method that he has an excellent chance to win tonight in the final block if he goes out for everything.

This Unprecedented Favor For Type 61 Is An Appreciation of Quality

IT is now generally known that Type 61 is enjoying a degree of public preference unexampled in Cadillac history.

Cadillac's greatest previous sales records have been exceeded by a margin so wide as to establish completely Type 61 leadership.

And that is exactly what this extraordinary preference for Type 61 represents. It is an endorsement and an appreciation of the quality standards to which Cadillac for twenty years has religiously adhered.

As such, it inspires Cadillac craftsmen to even deeper and stronger allegiance to those standards.

You who contemplate purchasing a Type 61 may know positively that it is the product of supreme manufacturing standards and that it is unquestionably the finest Cadillac ever built.

POLICEMAN FIGHTS 6; PUGILIST IS DYING

Police reserves were rushed to a tenement house on West Forty-seventh Street near Tenth Avenue last night to rescue a "rookie" policeman who had been attacked and beaten by five persons. In a hand-to-hand struggle behind locked doors in a second floor flat, the policeman was fighting off four men and a woman, when his brother officers broke in the door and subdued his assailants. The rescuers found one man dying from a bullet wound inflicted by the policeman, while the latter was covered with wounds where he had been beaten, kicked and stabbed.

The policeman and his wounded opponent were taken to Bellevue Hospital. The officer was Patrolman Thomas F. Connelly of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, who has been only six months on the force. His prisoner was Matthew McInerny, 23 years old, of 507 West Forty-seventh Street, also known as "Matty Woods," a prizefighter. McInerny was unconscious, suffering from a bullet wound over the heart. He was charged with felonious assault, and policemen were stationed at his bedside to guard him.

The fight was the result of an incident that occurred yesterday afternoon when a woman living on the third floor of 507 West Forty-seventh Street complained to Patrolman Connelly, who was on duty on Tenth Avenue, that she had been insulted by McInerny and others of his family. Connelly accompanied her back into the apartment of McInerny's family on the second floor. The woman said she did not want the man arrested, so the policeman merely told him to behave himself in the future.

Last night, Connelly said, the woman again went to him while he was on duty in the neighborhood and again complained of McInerny. She said that she had been going upstairs to her flat when he caught her on the landing outside his own place and beat her severely in revenge for complaining to the police in the afternoon.

Connelly hunted up his "partner," Patrolman Rabbo, and the two went to the house. They found the door of McInerny's flat closed and rapped on it. McInerny came to the door and called his family when he saw the policemen.

According to Connelly, the men inside the flat first tried to slam the door shut in his face. When they failed to do this he stepped inside. Then the men seized him and pulled him further in so quickly, he said, that they were able to close the door and lock it before Rabbo could get inside with him.

Mocking at him, Connelly said, the men and women hustled him into the kitchen, threw him to the floor, and began beating and kicking him. Finally drew his nightstick. Then, according to his story, one of the men seized a baseball bat from a corner and aimed a blow at his head.

Connelly warded off the blow with his nightstick, but that weapon was shattered. At that juncture, according to Connelly, he saw McInerny draw a pistol. Then, Connelly said, he fired a shot in the air to frighten his assailants. Instead of becoming frightened McInerny, according to Connelly, produced another pistol. Connelly then fired again, and McInerny dropped on the kitchen floor, badly wounded.

Almost at the same time Patrolman Rabbo, who had sent a riot call to the West Forty-seventh Street Station, a block away, broke in the locked door with his nightstick. He seized McInerny's pistols, so that the others could not make use of them. The family was still full of fight, however. They seized pieces of broken glass, which had been smashed when Rabbo broke in the door, and were attacking the two policemen when the reserves crashed into the place.

The police called an ambulance from Flower Hospital and sent Patrolman Connelly and McInerny to Bellevue Hospital. They also arrested McInerny's mother and step-father and his two brothers and locked them up in the West Forty-seventh Street Station on the charge of felonious assault.

The police said the apartment showed the violence of the fight. Chairs and tables had been upset, pictures and hangings torn down from the wall and glasses, plates and other household equipment broken and strewn about the floor.

Dr. Ward, Born in Jerusalem, Is Against Prohibition—Smokes Sixty Cigarettes a Day.

Dr. James Rosedale Wadel Ward, 96 years old, yesterday received final naturalization papers from Judge Martin T. Manton in the Federal District Court. He attracted attention in court not only because of his age, but also through his admission that he was an anti-prohibitionists and smoked sixty cigarettes a day.

Dr. Ward, who is a retired physician and lecturer, explained that his decision to change his naturalization at such a late period in life was predicated on a belief that the United States was the only country in the world where genuine liberty of thought and education obtained. He said that he entertained this view despite the Eighteenth Amendment. Dr. Ward lives at 346 West Seventy-first Street. He was born in Jerusalem in August, 1826, where his father, Weldon Charles Wadel Ward, was then British Consul. He said his mother was Amelia Bernadotte Ward, a first cousin of Marshal Bernadotte of Napoleon's army, and that he received medical degress from Kings College, London; the Sorbonne, Paris; Heidleberg, Germany, and from medical institutions in Vienna and Naples.

Dr. Ward said he had practised his profession all over the world, retiring to live in this city several years ago. He first visited the United States in 1842. During later visits he said he met Abraham Lincoln three times, and also Presidents Cleveland and Garfield. He said that one time he employed Guiteau, Garfield's assassin, as an agent for a lecture tour. Dr. Ward recalled a week-end he spent as a guest of General Robert E. Lee.

He attributed his longevity to the fact that he always minded his own business and never worried about anything. He was married in Germany and has five children. At one time he said he served as interpreter to the Empress Eugenie of France. While at Mecca, where he lived for eighteen months in 1863-63, he became a convert to Mohammedanism.

THE PLAY

By ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT

The John Murray Anderson Follies.

GREENWICH VILLAGE FOLLIES, a revue in two acts and twenty-three scenes. Book by George V. Hobart; music by Louis A. Hirsch, and lyrics by Irving Caesar and John Murray Anderson. At the Shubert Theatre.

There is a legend that, in the matter of revues and the more magnificent of the girl-and-music shows, the American stage leads all the stages of the world. It is true that the competition overseas has not been feverish of recent years and any way the legend gathers momentum from such a festival as was held last evening at the Shubert Theatre. The occasion was the fourth annual appearance of John Murray Anderson as a master of revels—the first New York performance of the Greenwich Village Follies of 1922.

These Follies that were so dull, so heavy-footed, so coarse last year, now emerge gay and fresh and amusing and beautiful. There is Mr. Ziegfeld with his lustrous show at the Amsterdam. Then there is the Young Master—George White—with his Scandals at the Globe. But way in the lead somewhere this year is Mr. Anderson with his Follies, that flatter Greenwich Village so flagrantly— Mr. Anderson with as festive and good-looking and entertaining a revue as these eyes have seen.

Out of all the jolly motley that has been tumbled into this toy chest, it is difficult for the morning-after reviewer to do more than clutch in haphazard fashion at some of the more amusing and prettier things and hold them up for a moment's inspection. Here are pictures brilliant, flashing and bizarre—done, for the most part, with imagination and a sense of color. The artists who planned them are too many to mention.

Here are dancers—amazing fellows, for the most part. Carl Randall and one Alexander Yakovleff, who is rumored to be Russian, are the best of them. But Marjorie Peterson has a dainty way that recalls the lovely Mary Hay and then there is a Eugenia Repetsky who has talented toes too.

Here are comics. Above all Savoy and Brennan are on hand—especially Savoy, whose manner is changeless as the eternal hills but who knows the secret cave where the good jokes are hidden. Her friend Margey has been disgracing herself again. We are beginning to think Margey isn't quite bright.

Then Jack Hazzard is in the offing. Until nearly midnight he sulks and champs the bit in his dressing room, and then, as Tinney did in "Watch Your Step," he comes bounding on at the last minute to sing "Good-bye to Dear Old Alaska," a sweet ballad done in the old Tony Pastor manner, an illustrated song, with charming slides by Rube Goldberg. Among the comics it is probably necessary to mention also one Frankie Heath, a bouncing girl from vaudeville, who looks like Marjorie Rambeau, and is fairly bursting with talent. She should be abated a trifle and given three days to find a new song in place of her heavily emotional ballad about the little gold digger who really didn't want the $5,000 for a mink coat, but to pay for an operation on her baby.

Fascinating to watch and to hear is Yvonne George, a celebrated chanteuse from the cafés of Paris who now sings her own song, "Mon Homme," for a slightly puzzled American audience. Amusing is this little chap—said to be aged 3 and who can't be much older—who plays the drums and traps for the first act finale. Charming is the scene in Washington Square when that subsequently ctiified spot was farmland, a delightfully decorated pastoral with a daisy chain of Kate Greenaway girls making it fair to see.

Indeed almost all the dullness and stupidity which is usually sprinkled liberally through these revues is crowded this time into two sketches by George V. Hobart. One of them is a travesty on Eugene O'Neill. O'Neill travestied by Hobart.

'WHY MEN LEAVE HOME' TOLD IN HOPWOOD PLAY

Butler	Minor Watson
Grandma	Jessie Villars
Tom	John McFarlane
Fifi	Florence Shirley
Nina	Theresa Maxwell Conover
Betty	Audrey Hart
Sybil	Isabel Leighton
Billy	Norval Keedwell
Artie	Herbert Yost
Sam	Paul Everton
Doris	Wauna Loraine
Maid	Peggy Lyston

One Hopwood play followed another last night at the Morosco, where, with the two years of "The Bat" come to an end, the stage was turned over to a rather high-sounding but generally obvious work entitled "Why Men Leave Home." It represents Mr. Hopwood in mixed mood—it is really a farce, this play, but the author has tried to lift it above that plane by the insertion of a good deal of preaching about the modern wife. Perhaps it should be set down, at this point, that last night's audience enjoyed it hugely, and laughed fully as much as any first-night audience of the season. Probably "Why Men Leave Home" will be successful—in which event this must simply be regarded as a minority report.

For Mr. Hopwood's play seemed a distinctly commonplace piece of work, written around an idea that was old twenty or forty years ago. Mr. Hopwood, moreover, has gone about it with the air of some one discovering something. With his three husbands assembled on the stage in the first act, he causes one of them to ask, after we have had a view of their flighty wives: "Well, what do you think of the American wife?" The indictment against her is that she is extravagant, she gives nothing in return to her husband, and she will not have children. Small wonder, says Mr. Hopwood, that the husbands seek diversion when they are left so much alone. That is why men leave home.

Instead of meeting even this ancient idea squarely, however, Mr. Hopwood has made his husbands immaculate for comedy purposes, and so proved nothing at all. It all works out about as you can foresee in the first act—the wives are first incensed when they find that their husbands have been wandering, and in the end drawn to them by that same fact. There are promises of reform.

Prior to the denouement a too sweet old grandmother wanders through the piece, dispensing bromidic wisdom to eve and all; there is a bedroom, with a slow-paced double disrobing scene in the adjoining chamber, and there are a number of Mr. Hopwood's daring lines.

Florence Shirley is pretty and decidedly good in a difficult rôle—any actress who is constantly required to refer to herself as Fifi needs a considerable equipment to keep from being maddening. John McFarlane is interesting, and there are other acceptable performances by Norval Keedwell, Herbert Yost and Theresa Maxwell Conover. The play is handsomely mounted.

British Textile Trade Booms.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—An indication of the revival of business in the export wool and textile trades is shown in a statement of the President of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce, who asserts that the demand for export certificates from the Chamber up to Aug. 31 was double the demand during the whole period of 1921.

JURY SYSTEM READY TO PASS UPON PLAYS

The plan for a voluntary jury system to pass upon questionable plays, has been developed to the point where it can be used, it was announced yesterday afternoon following a conference of the various stage groups and reform organizations with Commissioner of Licenses John F. Gilchrist. Details of the plan were discussed with the commissioner who submitted, on behalf of the City, a list of names of prospective members for the voluntary jury panel.

These names will be considered by the representatives of the managers, actors, playwrights and other groups who have completed their list of prospective jurors. The 300 members of the voluntary panel will be made public within the next few days.

"Everything is complete and in working order," said John S. Sumner, head of the Society for the Suppression of Commercialized Vice. "If we should receive a complaint about a play now running we would be in a position to organize a jury right away to make an investigation. To date there has not been one complaint, although on the corresponding date last year there were several questionable plays under attack. I believe the improvement can be attributed largely to the existence of the voluntary jury system.

"Personally I do not believe the voluntary jury plan will have to be brought into use in many cases. We never did expect that it would. Of course there will be complaints that will have to be investigated, and we have perfected the machinery with which to do that effectively."

SAMUEL TAKES THE OATH.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 11.—There was a picturesque ceremony this afternoon in the Council Hall of Government House when Sir Herbert Samuel took the oath of office as High Commissioner and Commander-in-Chief of Palestine in the presence of Field Marshal Lord Allenby, who liberated Palestine from the Turks; Emir Abdullah, ruler of Transjordania, and a brilliant gathering of the Diplomatic Corps, religious dignitaries, British Army officers and high officials of the Administration.

In his speech on assuming office Sir Herbert said that the ceremony marked another stage in the long and varied history of the Holy Land. He hoped that under the broad shelter of the British Empire the period which was opening would be peaceful and full of progress for Palestine.

"This ceremony," he said, "is consequent upon the assumption through King George of the solemn charge for the well-being of Palestine. As his humble representative I make oath of allegiance to him and that I will conduct the administration without fear or favor, with justice for all and partiality to none."

The stringent precautions taken throughout Palestine maintained order everywhere, according to reports received here. It had been arranged that all the Arab drivers of carriages and taxicabs should strike, so that most of the invited guests would be unable to reach Government House. Now, however, ment issued a warning that all drivers who struck would have their licenses withdrawn. The result was that there were conveyances to spare this afternoon.

ZURO REVIVES 'LA GIOCONDA'

Edith de Lye Wins Applause Among Cast of Newcomers.

Ponchielli's resounding Venetian tragedy, "La Gioconda," was sung by new voices of promise and power at the Brooklyn Academy last night as the second of a fortnight's operas given there by Josiah Zuro, Arabella Merrifield of Minneapolis, in her first essay of the stage, made the blind mother's prayers heard with profound appeal against the entire volume of a vigorous chorus. Dorothy Pilzer, a local débutante in the Russian season of last June, advanced to a leading contralto rôle as the sympathetic Duchess Laura.

Edith de Lye, a Bostonian, formerly of the Montreal Opera, also began as a stranger here, but before the opening scene was half over the young woman had her audience holding its breath or breaking into loud applause at the unexpected luxury of creamy tonotes, as the heroine found her mother saved from the mob by the Adriatic sailor-tenor, Ruggiero Baldrich, a Chilean, was the newcomer in the Caruso rôle. He, too, sang with ardor and acted with evident study of his great original. Augusto Ordonez was the villain Barnaba, and Lorenzo Bozzano the Alvise. Mr. Zuro conducted.

JURY FREES GIRL MOTHER.

The jury in the case of Miss Leah Silver, charged with abandoning her 16-month-old daughter, Ruth, on the edge of a swamp near Coney Island last July, brought in a verdict of acquittal. The defendant smiled wanly as she heard the verdict. She thanked the jury for its decision and Julian Carabba, her counsel.

After her discharge by Judge Frank. lin Taylor of the Kings County Court, who presided at the trial, Miss Silver said that she intended to get her two children and return to her home in Lynn, Mass.

VIENNA WITHOUT STAMPS.

Printers' Strike Also Hampers Business by Causing Currency Shortage.

VIENNA, Sept. 12.—The strike of the printers, which has been in progress for some time, has begun gravely to affect business. The supply of postage and revenue stamps is virtually exhausted, and blank forms and other business papers are unobtainable. While the money presses are still running, the sudden shortage in currency is adding to the difficulty of the situation.

The strikers have succeeded in stopping the public sale of foreign newspapers.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The opening of "The Passing Show of 1922" has been changed from Tuesday of next week to Wednesday.

Marcelle Gillmore has returned to the cast of "He Who Gets Slapped" after a brief vacation.

"Thin Ice," instead of "Clean Class," will be the title of the comedy by Percival Knight to be produced by the Shuberts. The cast will include the authors, Gilda Leary, Felix Krembs, St. Dudley Hawley, C. Henry Gordon and T. Tamamoto. The piece will open in New London on Sept. 22 and will probably come to the Comedy during the following week.

"Poor Richard," a play by Louis Evan Shipman, dealing with the life of Benjamin Franklin, will be produced soon by the Shuberts.

Sigmund Romberg has written the score for "Springtime of Youth," which the Shuberts are producing.

A special train, leaving the Pennsylvania Station this morning, will carry the "Bombo," "Midnight Rounders" and "Whirl of New York" companies West. There will be more than 300 persons in the organizations.

JUMP FROM WINDOWS TO ESCAPE INN FIRE

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Fire of mysterious origin destroyed the May-November Farm, a big country road house owned by Thomas Healy, on a high hill just off Central Avenue and overlooking Hartsdale, four miles from White Plains, at 5 o'clock this morning, causing loss of $125,000.

It is not known whether an overheated range or an incendiary caused the fire, which spread with great rapidity and the servants employed in the inn were forced to jump from windows. When the Hartsdale volunteer firemen received the alarm that the big inn, which was patronized by wealthy New Yorkers, was on fire, departments of Greenburg, Scarsdale and White Plains were called, but they could do little as the inn is perched on a high knoll far back from the roadside and the village fire hydrants. Mr. Healy has a private water supply, but this was insufficient to fight the flames. Water was even pumped from a lake nearby.

According to the servants the fire must have started in the kitchen. There were about ten employed by Nichols Proulous, who was proprietor of the inn.

The manager rushed down stairs to the office and managed to save a considerable sum of money from a safe. All the furniture and other furnishings were destroyed.

Adjoining the inn was a lower house where tea was served in the Summer months, and this was also destroyed. The May-November Farm was built of stone to the first story, where the upper stories were of frame construction.

The kitchen, located on the first floor, where the fire is believed to have started, had been thoroughly cleaned before lights were put out for the night and employes had retired. The only fire that is known to have been left burning was in the kitchen range.

DOUBT HARDING BONUS VETO

American Legion Told He Will Not Act—Christian Did Not Say So.

WACO, Texas, Sept. 12.—R. G. Storey, National Committeeman from Texas of the American Legion, announced at the State Convention of the Legion here today the receipt of a telegram last night from the National Board of the Legion saying President Harding's Secretary had informed the board that Mr. Harding would not veto the Bonus bill.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—George B. Christian Jr., Secretary to President Harding, denied today that he had informed the National Board of the American Legion that the President would not veto the soldier bonus, as stated by R. G. Storey.

Final action by the House Thursday on the Soldier Bonus bill, as perfected in conference, is planned by Republican leaders. The measure then will be sent to the Senate, where it will await disposition of the Tariff bill conference report. The bonus conference report was signed today and will be presented to the House tomorrow. Senator Smoot and Representative Garner, Democrat, of Texas, withheld their signatures, and Senator Collier, Democrat, of Mississippi was absent.

WOMAN AIDS 'HOME HEALER'

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Mrs. W. W. Talcott, whose husband committed suicide recently by jumping into Lake Michigan after he had failed to persuade her to give up the teachings of Albert J. Moore, a self-styled "Home Healer," appeared today at the Criminal Court Building to give bond for Moore, who was indicted on a charge of conspiracy to operate a confidence game and obtain money by false pretenses.

Moore's bond is $10,000, double surety being required. Mrs. Talcott scheduled property valued at $7,000 and a man who accompanied her offered property at $2,000, just $1,000 short of the amount required.

Later Moore's bond was cut in half and Mrs. Talcott signed for Moore and also for his assistant, Gabriel Adams, indicted on charges of conspiracy to operate a confidence game.

When the signal says, "All's Well"

Up goes the signal, the switch opens, and your train speeds on in safety—thanks to Exide Batteries, whose sure power is relied upon to operate the signal systems of leading railways.

The fire alarm is operated by an Exide Battery; your voice is sent over the telephone wire and your message via telegraph by the current from an Exide. Trucks, mine locomotives, and submerged submarines are propelled by powerful Exides; farm homes and yachts are lighted by them.

Long before there was such a thing as an automobile, Exide Batteries were the dominant battery in other industries. It was natural, therefore, that the original battery developed for starting and lighting should be an Exide; and more cars leave the factories today equipped with Exides than with any other battery.

Most important of all to you as a motorist is the fact that long and varied experience has made possible an Exide Battery for your car that will give dependable power through a long life of rugged service.

LAND LINE ACCESS to World-Wide Wireless

Every POSTAL TELEGRAPH office and call-box becomes an agency for Radiograms

Radiograms are now made available to the public everywhere. The Radio Corporation of America, whose stations are the most powerful and modern in the world, has concluded an arrangement with the progressive Postal Telegraph-Cable Company, which gives the American public everywhere the full benefit of international radio communication.

Beginning immediately, every Postal Telegraph office in the United States, wherever located, will receive Radiograms for—all parts of Europe, Africa, India and the Near East

Whether from this country to foreign countries, from shore to ship, from ship to shore or ship to ship,

Mark your message "via RCA"

Every Postal Telegraph office throughout the United States becomes an agency for the Radio Corporation of America. The Radio Corporation will continue to maintain its own offices and complete collection and distribution service in New York, San Francisco and Washington.

The arrangement gives bankers, merchants, manufacturers, and the public generally, throughout the country, complete use of the Postal Telegraph service, with its land lines, call-boxes, and all other facilities for collection and distribution of Radiograms.

You can telephone to the nearest Postal Telegraph office, ring one of their call-boxes, or step into one of their offices and send your message by radio. Radiograms are a new business asset for men of action and modern sales methods. They reduce distances, quicken communication, stimulate foreign trade and insure accuracy, as well as economy.

When President Harding sent a Radiogram of good-will from Radio Central at Rocky Point, Long Island—newest and most powerful radio station in the world, constructed and operated by the Radio Corporation of America—twenty-one foreign countries received and recorded it instantaneously.

That Radiogram made radio history. It signalized America's complete participation in the field of international communication—a field where the national interests of the United States hitherto had been subordinate to the interests of foreign countries. It meant that no foreign nation ever again could interfere with America's free intercommunication with the rest of the world.

THE PRESIDENT'S BURDENS.

There was an instant and universal flow of sympathy to President HARDING when it was feared that his wife's illness might prove fatal. It was felt that such a crushing loss coming on top of the great weight of cares of State which he is compelled to carry would be more than he could endure. The relief from this acute anxiety which has now happily come ought not to make the public forget what an intolerable load of work the country has come to heap upon its Presidents. An old Washington observer estimated that, between the first term of President CLEVELAND and the last term of President ROOSEVELT, what may be called the necessary, routine labors of the Presidency had increased nearly threefold. They have surely increased still further during the past ten years.

One way of measuring the added strain upon the President is to note the fact that Congress is now almost perpetually in session. This requires the presence of the President in Washington much more constantly than used to be the rule. When Congress was able to adjourn in June or July, it was possible for the President to spend some weeks away from the exhausting heat of Washington in Summer time. Now, in addition to having to stay on in a debilitating climate, the President has Congress "on his hands," with all the conferences and irritations which that implies. Only a man in robust health, and with every stay and comfort in his home life, can be expected to go through this prolonged ordeal without having vitality taken out of him. Even the dynamic energy of THEODORE ROOSEVELT showed signs of temporary enfeeblement under the imperious demands that beat upon him in the White House.

Is there any prospect of easing the strain on the Presidency? Not unless recent tendencies are checked. There has been an increasing popular summons to Congress to legislate. Extra sessions are now almost invariable. Moreover, appeals for the exercise of Executive power are steadily multiplying. The net result is to put such a burden upon the President that his health, with that of his family, is continually imperiled. Something can doubtless be done by a man of marked executive talent in the White House to distribute responsibility and to divide work with competent and trusted subordinates. But even so the labors of his office press upon him more and more heavily, so that he may be excused if he sometimes asks despairingly, Who is sufficient for these things?

MAINE.

In 1920 Maine "went hell-bent" for Mr. HARDING, as anciently for Governor KENT. The State was carried by nearly 80,000. Those ardors have died out. The powerful emotions that stirred the Dirigo Republicans this year may be judged from the geographical arguments urged against Senator HALE by his Republican opponents and from the objection made against both him and Governor BAXTER that they are celibates. But each "old batch" has been elected by a comfortable majority of somewhere about 30,000. The four Republican Congressmen are easily re-elected by majorities sturdy enough for this year. If we take 1918 as a "normal" year, Governor BAXTER'S "margin" is wide. In that year the Democratic candidate for Governor was beaten by only some 5,000 votes; but he was a gifted vote-collector, and there is never much honest satisfaction to be derived from the comparison of political figures.

Mr. PATTENGALL, the Democratic candidate for Governor, is the most persuasive campaigner and most vigorous Democratic personality in the State. Former Governor OAKLEY CURTIS, running for the Senate, is another engaging and popular Democrat. To be sure, he has the misfortune to be in a business clothed with suspicion this Fall. He is a coal dealer. He was to get the "labor vote." That is not multitudinous in Maine. It is usually fatal to the recipient. "FRED" HALE is a good fellow, son of a famous Maine Republican, and, if no incendiary of Casco Bay, superior to the average Senator in education, if not in intellectual power. Besides, by one of the myths of politics, he was supposed to have conferred the boon of free potash upon potatoes, favorite son of the Maine soil. Aroostook, Androscoggin and the rest of the farming districts may grieve that a barrel of potatoes brings the farmer perhaps a third of the price he got in 1920; but there is no evidence that the Maine farmers got excited about the tariff any more than about the bonus.

So long as Maine continues to treat herself to a September election, so long, probably, will the baseless superstition float about that the political diviners and medicine men can look into the entrails of those Down East returns and prophesy how the November elections will come out. This superstition may be compared with the narrower, but for a time better justified, Massachusetts Aberglaube, "As goes Hull, so goes the State." In 1880 the Greenback movement in Maine, forever dear to poets because Uncle SOLON CHASE and his steers are enshrined and enstabled in it, having grown from a few hundred to nearly 50,000 votes, fusing with the Democratic Party, made ALONZO GARCELON Governor by a scanty plurality. Did that prove that General HANCOCK was to be elected President?

Ten years later Maine was just as unerring a vaticinator. Calmly she chose four Republican Representatives. None the less, the Republican Party had to pay the penalty of the McKinley Tariff bill by a smashing defeat. Maine is a community by itself. Thus her Greenback movement was at its strongest four years before the Massachusetts Greenback movement was at its strongest. In 1916 HUGHES carried Maine, where the Progressives had been very powerful, by more than 5,000 votes. In the same year Mr. WILSON carried New Hampshire by a narrow plurality. Not merely for the whole country, but even for neighboring States, the political decisions of Maine are not binding or strongly indicative. This is particularly the case when no great "craze" like Greenbackism or no great romantic personage like ROOSEVELT enters into the performance. Ephraim is not joined to his idols. Contrary to common opinion, Maine is by no means intolerantly Republican, and has shown a considerable range of political variation. This year she is content with the old corral.

FUTURE OF GERMANY'S CURRENCY.

Two striking phenomena in the recent history of Germany's currency inflation seem to have impressed the public as something wholly novel. One is the outcry of German trade that, notwithstanding the recent unprecedentedly rapid printing of paper currency, it is insufficient to provide for the needs of trade. The other, which this week's Berlin dispatches particularly emphasize, is the rapidly increasing use of the dollar and the pound sterling, not only as a basis for arranging foreign purchases or sales, but as the actual standard of value and medium of exchange for home transactions.

As a matter of fact and record, both phenomena are familiar. Every such episode of persistent inflation has begun with increase in paper currency outstripping the rise of prices and has ended with prices rising faster than currency could be issued. At a certain stage of depreciation, every case of the kind has brought about complete distrust of the paper currency, refusal to use it, and recourse to some other kind of money. Usually these two phenomena have indicated the approaching complete collapse of the currency experiment.

As to what comes next, there are four ways in which by past experience normal conditions are restored—by stopping continuous inflation and allowing the country's expanding trade to absorb the larger circulating medium and issuing Government bonds to purchase gold for a redemption fund, as was done with our own greenbacks after the Civil War; by reducing the paper circulation to an amount on which gold redemption could safely be resumed, as England did after 1815; by redeeming the paper or resuming gold payments on it at a greatly reduced face valuation, a recourse adopted by certain South American countries; or, finally, as with the French revolutionary assignats, by repudiating the outstanding currency altogether, unless perhaps for its acceptance at a purely nominal valuation in subscription for a refunding public loan.

Germany's inflation has almost certainly passed the point at which any of the two first-named expedients would be practicable. Even "revaluation" of the mark does not lend itself to consideration with the mark's present gold value on exchange barely one four-hundredth part of its normal par value, and with its price fluctuating 25 to 50 per cent. in a single week. Sooner or later the German Government will at least have to consider rearrangement through virtual repudiation.

The last Edinburgh Review discusses a possible recourse with a firmness and directness that give a refreshing turn to the controversy. The writer of the article does not hesitate to propose "complete withdrawal of the inconvertible paper." He advises recognition of it as an internal obligation at double the then existing market value and its redemption on that basis in 4 per cent. "currency conversion gold bonds." He would substitute a carefully regulated currency redeemable in gold, trusting to those notes and to the silver coin to provide the necessary circulation, and trusting to release of hoarded gold to provide the requisite redemption reserve. His opinion is that "in three "months or even less, after the withdrawal of the inconvertible paper "money, German currency would be "working smoothly on a gold basis."

Probably not many economists would agree in assigning so short a time for achieving success in the reform; nevertheless, past experience with depreciated currencies certainly proves that the result could ultimately be achieved through courageous application of the remedy. The Edinburgh Review recognizes one stumbling-block—the contracts entered into during the period of inflation. As to this, it recommends that prewar Government loans and private contracts undertaken at prewar values should be paid, interest and principal, in gold, but that public or private debts contracted during the inflation period should by law be made payable in gold at the rate of gold value prevailing for the mark when the contract was entered into.

The question of readjustment of prices, with its effect on the markets, is less carefully considered; yet this would probably be the crux of the whole problem. Perhaps no community has ever faced such a dilemma with so seemingly unanimous a determination to endure whatever demoralization continued paper inflation might create, rather than suffer the business reaction which return to sound money would make inevitable. Yet one way out is at least suggested by the very process which is now visibly under way—the increasing substitution of dollar or sterling valuation in the transactions of trade for the crazily inflated valuation based on depreciating currency.

It is difficult to compare the present German inflation with any precedent but the paper depreciation of the French Revolution. In the end that currency was repudiated, and it is consequently often asked, How did business transactions continue, and on what basis? The record tells us that in the last days of that currency the "assignats" and "mandats" were already being generally rejected as a basis of contracts, purchases or sales by the people of France; that they were already in the habit of calculating prices in foreign currencies, and that, as a consequence, great sums of actual foreign money had come into French circulation for hand-to-hand use in purchases and sales. In other words, two sets of values for the same commodities had come to exist side by side. When the Government took the inevitable step and the worthless paper currency was canceled, the formal acceptance of the one set of values and the abandonment of the other followed automatically. Then, but not until then, the establishment of a new and sound currency system became possible.

A PERMANENT SOLUTION.

President HARDING has pointed out to Congress the need of new laws to regulate industrial disputes and of a tribunal or commission to administer public utilities. Tardily has Congress responded, and then not so much to the counsels of forethought as to the whip of necessity. The Coal Commission is not yet in being. The bill establishing a new Federal tribunal for the railways, which Representative HOCH has introduced, cannot come before the House until its next session.

With the modesty of wisdom Mr. HOCH describes his bill as an effort "to seek a permanent solution." But there is no lack of courage in the measures he proposes. The Railroad Labor Board, which is now composed of representatives of groups—employers, employés and "the public"—is to be composed, like the new Coal Commission, of men free from allegiance to either of the warring factions. It is to render decisions with an eye single to national welfare. Instead of thinly disguised arbitration, there is to be "disinterested adjudication." In Mr. HOCH'S version of what President HARDING called the code and charter of our industrial freedom, a "concerted movement to quit work "for the purpose of forcing employ"ers to terms" will constitute a "conspiracy." Under the law as it now stands, Mr. HOCH says, any peace must be merely "patched up," affording "only temporary relief." Until we have a definite body of law regulating industrial disputes and an administrative tribunal to enforce it, organized labor has it in its power "to threaten the very life of the nation."

In all this Mr. HOCH shows no antagonism to organized labor as such. The right of the individual to quit work is safeguarded, as also the right of collective bargaining. Legitimate unionism, constructive and liberalizing, is to have full play. "It would "be cruelly unjust to deny to rail"road employés the right to strike "without first setting up a better "method, in their interest, in its "place." But there must be an end to the situation in which irresponsible leaders can wield a power beyond and above the laws of the American people.

There are obvious gaps in the program. It may be possible to indict, and even to convict, an entire union; but when it comes to the matter of punishment, jail space is limited and largely occupied. Whether strike leaders can be convicted as conspirators remains to be seen. Inexcusable as is the delay of Congress, it has at least this advantage: When the Hoch bill comes up for discussion the public will know by experience what it means to be deprived of coal and limited in transportation.

FRANCE'S ARMY AND ITS COST.

The report made by France to the League of Nations upon her land armaments puts the strength of the home and colonial forces at 690,000 men. The cost of maintenance for 1923 is given as 4,500,000,000 francs, or in American money, at the present rate of exchange, about $348,750,000. These figures suggest two questions. Can France be justly charged with militarism for keeping the strength of her land forces up to 690,000 men nearly four years after the armistice? Is the maintenance of such an establishment an unwarrantable extravagance in the light of the war debt of France to the United States? There are critics of France in Congress who protest against her spending upon the army money that she owes to the United States. The French statement deals with the charge of militarism, or imperialism, by pointing out that treaty obligations call for the employment of 160,000 men in Europe, the Near East and Africa, 92,000 of them on the Rhine. Colonial demands, in Morocco, Algeria and Tunis, account for 230,000 more on paper, though less than that number are actually in garrison. In France proper 335,000 men are stationed. Of the complement of 690,000 men, 100,000 are professional soldiers, 375,000 conscripts, 205,000 natives of the colonies and 10,000 foreigners. The French report says:

> The military force of France is at present an essential factor of peace in Europe. France would be glad to reduce it after the terrible sufferings she has undergone, but she cannot be asked to do so as long as the German war spirit continues to exist.

The French declare that there are 7,000,000 men in Germany capable of bearing arms who could be mobilized. It is argued that Germany's hostility toward the new States, her attitude on Upper Silesia, the policy of Austrian absorption and a possible Russian military alliance, one or all, might precipitate war, especially when the commissions of control are withdrawn and the opportunity to manufacture munitions comes. "However "firm may be the desire of France "to avoid such a conflict," says the report, "she would fail in her duty "if she neglected to provide against "it."

The French military establishment, when compared with the armies of Great Britain and the United States, is seen to be economically administered. An army of 215,000 men will cost Great Britain $272,800,000 in 1923. Congress has appropriated $271,000,000 to maintain an army of 125,000 men and less than 12,000 officers for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923. The French land forces, five times as great as the American, will cost only $76,000,000 more. If it is true, as the French believe, that their army is today an essential factor of peace in Europe, is it not a good insurance of the ultimate payment of the French debt to the United States?

THE FREIGHT EMBARGOES.

The Eastern railways suffered less than others from the shopmen's strike, yet they are the first to restrict other traffic in order that precedence may be given to fuel and food. Records show that the railways are moving more freight than previous maximums, yet they now are in much the position of a solvent bank withstanding a run. The Eastern roads are among the most efficient, and yet they are first in danger of blockade because the country's traffic focuses on them, particularly on New York. The crops are gathered throughout the continent, but they accumulate at the cities and at New York for export. Just now the year's crops and the year's fuel supply contend with normal traffic for priority. The railways can move all, just as a solvent bank can pay all depositors, but neither can do the complete job forthwith.

The railways have always provided an excess of cars above dull times, but never can provide such a surplus that equipment shall always be available instantly when wanted. Rolling stock is as costly that efficiency demands economy in both supply and use. Since the war the roads have been financially unable to keep their surplus at prewar figures. For the seven years before the war the net increase of passenger cars was 9,217, against 2,229 since the war. For freight cars the increase was 348,902, against 41,007. There is still a surplus of rolling stock on an average demand, but there is a shortage against such an abnormal accumulation of traffic as the present.

In securing equipment the railways are showing the same energy as in moving maximum quantities of freight. For the first seven months of this year they ordered 25,763 more cars than in all of 1921, including 41,405 coal cars. For the first seven months of this year more locomotives were ordered than in all of 1921. Five-sixths of them were for domestic use, although in recent years most new American locomotives were for export. There is a similar deficiency to be made good in tracks and terminals. The accumulated needs of the railways for basic commodities are an assurance of support in their demands for money and credit.

CONTINENTAL DRIFTING.

Whether or not the German geologist is correct in contending that there is a continental drifting toward the west need give us or our children small concern. The rate of drifting, according to his theory, is only a mile in 9,000 years. Moreover, some authorities insist that there has been no moving apart whatever in longitude or latitude, except that Greenland has moved nearly a mile in a hundred years. The theory of a dispersion of continents, due to this drifting propensity, over the face of the earth from Africa, may help to explain some things.

Not asserting that there was once a single continent or that there has been this geological drifting, certainly there has been lately a world-wide political drifting. It has been a westward drifting, too, but it has also resulted in a virtual widening of the sea of separation. It is, however, not a steady or a measurable movement. It is fitful, and a matter of the mind, not of degrees of longitude and latitude. It is claimed that the difference in longitude between Greenwich, England, and Cambridge, Mass., has increased twenty-three hundredths of a second in forty-two years; but for a time during that period it was as if there were no longitude whatever west from Greenwich. Sir TIMOTHY HEALY once said to Lord HUGH CECIL that not even the noble lord would die for the meridian of Greenwich. Yet some of Sir TIMOTHY'S own countrymen and thousands of colonials as distant as New Zealand virtually did this in the World War. Then some morning some Englishman says a few words about America—words that ought never to have been spoken—and the meridian of Greenwich seems, in CHESTERTON'S phrase, "purely psychological in character" and as remote as ever, and Greenwich incapable of "cohering in a spiritual manner."

There is no stopping a geological drifting, if there is one. But the political and spiritual drifting of the continents is amenable to human direction. It can even be turned around into a constructive force, into a concerting influence. All the needful machinery has been invented and set up: the telegraph, telephone, ships, railroads, printing presses, councils, conferences, congresses, a League. With all this equipment, the intelligence and common humanity of man ought to prevent further continental drifting away from a common meridian of civilized purpose. It is this that every nation should be active in promoting, lest in further drifting the countries which face each other across the Atlantic become a divided Occident.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Educators and Their Responsibilities.

Professor JOHN DEWEY, in the current issue of The New Republic, makes, not quite seriously, perhaps, but not entirely as a jest, the suggestion that teachers who fail to do what they promise to do and what they are paid for doing should be, like other contract breakers, liable for damages, proportionate in size to the injuries done, or not prevented. He declares that until there is the possibility of suing educators for malpractice there can be no science or profession of education.

He sees as already near the day when specific physical injuries, deteriorated vision, spinal curvatures and the like, when resulting from the laches or ignorances of school authorities, will subject those authorities to the payment of money damages, but he looks further ahead to a time when the educator will be held to a like responsibility if the boy or girl entrusted to him does not acquire whatever he agreed to give, whether it be "culture," a disciplined mind, moral character, proper preparation for good citizenship—in short, any one of the many desirable qualities and abilities that so confidently are specified in the prospectuses of schools and colleges and in the addresses delivered by eminent educators—including Dr. DEWEY.

We all know that these promises are not always kept—that considerable numbers of young folk come out of our schools and colleges with little or nothing of the treasures for which their parents paid and confidently expected them to get. And in his article Dr. DEWEY insists that the educators do not really understand either their successes, which are many, or their failures, which are too numerous. That is what he means when he says that there is not yet any science or profession of education.

It seems probable, however, that he puts too much responsibility on the teachers; that he should put more on what happens out of school hours—on home influences and those of the street and its activities.

Nothing in Gliding Mysterious.

Professor E. P. WARREN of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has just returned from Europe, where he interested himself, among other things, in the achievements of the Germans with engineless airplanes—"gliders." He recognizes cordially the importance of their achievements and credits them with wonderful skill, but he sees no future in "gliding" as a practical form of aerial navigation and transportation, and, however it may be as to the future, as yet, he declares, nothing has been done except to utilize ascending currents of air.

One notices, too, in a dispatch from Gersfeld printed by The New York World and telling of a flight from the Wasserkuppe Mountain just made by the American, E. T. ALLEN, with an American glider, the statement that while ALLEN showed good control of his machine, the brevity of his stay in the air—a little over two minutes—was due to the fact that, trying to climb too steeply, "his plane stalled and he was forced to dive to regain the necessary speed." The result of this was that he "lost all chance of making a long flight such as the German pilots achieved, for all of them were made by keeping over the crest of the hill."

In other words, the Germans utilized ascending air currents, exactly as the WRIGHTS did at Kitty Hawk away back in 1900 as preparatory training for real flight with engined planes. Professor WARREN recalls the belief or prediction of Professor LANGLEY that horizontal winds also would permit gliding or soaring. The authority is high, but as yet the thing has not been done, and the explanations of its possibility as given are well nigh incomprehensible. A highly skeptical critic of such expectations might say that the theories on which they are based are merely hypotheses invented or assumption made to explain the more or less mysterious activities of the soaring and gliding birds.

He Holds Scolding Undeserved.

Moved, evidently, by recent comment in this country on the Britons who come here to deliver lectures, one of them, Sir PHILIP GIBBS, contributes to The Landmark, the little magazine which speaks for the English Speaking Union, an article in which, not unskillfully or ineffectively, he defends this much-criticised practice.

He admits that most of these lecturers, if not all of them, were quite unversed in platform arts, and that many of them had nothing in particular to say, or nothing that they had not already said in their books. He insists, however, that these are not sufficient reasons either for scolding or for deriding such visitors, and says that the auditors who thought they got little or nothing for the American dollars put through the box-office windows were themselves to blame for their disappointment. They had no reasonable expectation of getting more than they did, and, if they were not willing to pay for the satisfaction of their curiosity as to the appearance of people about whom they had read or heard, they should have stayed at home.

As for the charge that such foreigners come over to the United States merely to get the money for which they make a return so poor, Sir PHILIP enters a plea of both justification and denial. On the one hand, the lecturers get only what the American public is willing to pay for what they have to offer, and, on the other, most of them really do have the idea that they have something to tell us that we ought to hear. For the notabilities or notorieties who, after a brief visit, go home and write spiteful witticisms about us—or things that are spiteful without being witty—Sir PHILIP has no defense.

His own treatment in the United States, he says, always has been hospitable, cordial and generous. Certainly his own writings about us have been the reverse of spiteful, though, as a lecturer, he did not shine, even in the dim galaxy of which he was a unit, nobody begrudges him the dollars he took back to England. We remember him as among the ablest and the most moving of the war correspondents and try to forget what he has written in the mood of "now it can be told."

Brooklynites as Happy as Anybody.

It is little wonder that a Judge who has had to devote a lot of what he thinks ought to be his leisure to the reading of papers in divorce cases should get the feeling that marriage is too often a failure. When, however, such a Judge goes the length of saying that there "are not many married couples in Brooklyn who are happy," he has gone, if not too far, at least further than will conduce to his popularity in the city whose felicities he depreciates.

It was Supreme Court Justice LEWIS who made this awful statement—awful from the standpoint of Brooklyn, at any rate—and he must prepare himself for warm replies from his fellow-townsmen. Brooklynites are sensitive, as well they may be, so long and so often have they been the favorite material for jesters of various sorts and degrees, but rarely indeed has their possession of the fundamental virtues been denied.

Justice LEWIS must be argued from the particular to the general when he made a charge so sweeping, and, as a legal light, he knows the danger of that.

Children's Playgrounds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Playground and Recreation Association of America is making special efforts to raise funds for providing children with playgrounds. When it is remembered how liable children are to street accidents and that thousands of little ones have no places but the public thoroughfares, with all their dangers, in which to play, the necessity for such spaces of refuge as are designed and supplied by the association cannot be overestimated. Funds are badly needed and may be addressed to Herbert L. Pratt, 26 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

MY WINDOWS.

Three windows in my House of Life
Look out three different ways.
One turns with wistful longing
To the Road of Yesterdays,
And watches how the shadows
Of the poplars, slim and tall,
Point mutely at remembered days,
And silence over all.

And one looks out with eager eyes
Upon the Street of Now,
And sees the passers up and down,
And greets them with a bow.
The little street is frankly gay,
With checkered shade and shine,
And busy, too, with bustling joys
That wait on me and mine.

The other window turns away
From Yesterday and Now,
And not a single backward glance
Its vision will allow.
Its gaze leaps out to hills afar;
Its clear eyes, purged from tears,
Up through the deathless pines can trace
The Path of Coming Years.

And sometimes when the sun is down,
And I am all alone,
The little windows beckon me,
For they are quite my own,
And seem to love me, every one,
At each I stand and look,
And read their little stories
Like the chapters of a book.

The first one fills and thrills me through
With happiness, and pain;
The next—I'm drenched with starlight,
And then I'm splashed with rain.
But the other window draws me,
And I smile through rainbowed tears,
For I read a happy ending
Down the Path of Coming Years.

A PUBLIC WELFARE LEAGUE.

To Fight the Tyranny of the Unions With a United Organization.

As an ordinary every-day citizen, it seems to me about time to make a determined effort to end at least some of the worst features connected with labor controversies. The strict enforcement of law and order is the first essential. Every big strike is attended by picketing, usually alluded to as peaceful. But it invariably leads to vituperation, assault and battery with an occasional murder or a score of them, as at Herrin, followed by arson, dynamiting, train wrecking and wholesale destruction of property, all in the "peaceful" course of events. Moreover, a labor leader apparently thinks it nothing but his ordinary course of business to freeze a nation or paralyze its transportation according to his own will, and the rest of us can only look on and watch him get away with it. The reason he does is because he has behind him a small percentage of the population and a huge "benefit" fund. It is small wonder that they bulldose our politicians and successfully threaten reprisal and political oblivion to any one that challenges them. It is equally understandable why a disorganized but disgusted public opinion doesn't get anywhere.

Now, why not fight back with their own weapon in the shape of a larger organization, honestly, economically, openly financed—call it the Public Welfare League? Let it be all that its name implies. Let it take its proper place as the representative of the public, now a totally ignored element in labor disputes, but who always get the worse of it regardless of the outcome, who either freeze or starve and pay heavily for it, whether they do or don't, and now propose to have something to say about it. Here we are in a rich country, on the threshold of Winter, confronted with no coal, a crippled transportation and high prices. I was going to vote the other ticket, but what's the use? Both parties are "buffaloed," and if we are ever to say "Never again," it must be by a united front. Chambers of Commerce and technical men are especially appealed to. If enough of you will join, we can put it across. What do you say?

DANGERS OF THE STREETS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have written Dr. Royal S. Copeland, President of the Board of Health, regarding the report issued from his office in which pedestrians are blamed for many street accidents and setting forth the principles underlying proper traffic regulation. I said in part:

Natural persons are born with the right to walk the streets, whereas the autoist has only a privilege, granted and continued only as long as he does not abuse that privilege. When an automobile strikes a person it is elementary that the pedestrian suffers greater damage than does the machine; therefore, the autoist must take care of the pedestrian at all times, regardless of whether or not the latter is at fault. • • •

Unless and until these principles are strictly adhered to in regulating street traffic and in deciding both criminal and civil actions growing out of automobile accidents, the very old and very young will be compelled to remain indoors. Instead of relegating the children to playgrounds, more auto drivers should be sent to jail and their licenses permanently revoked. • • •

An Exception.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial of today on "City School Questions" you say that the interest shown a year ago in the public schools of the city died out when the election was over, and that little has been heard of the schools since.

May I venture to remind THE TIMES that an extremely active crusade, enlisting the interest of thousands of our citizens, regardless of political affiliations, was waged last Spring in favor of the so-called Meyer-Ullman School bill, which aimed to take the schools out of partisan politics and so enhance the health, happiness and usefulness of the rising generation?

The writer attended two hearings in Albany, one before the Governor and one before a joint legislative committee, in favor of this bill, in company with representatives of such non-partisan bodies as the Public Education Association, the Citizens Union, the Woman's City Club, the Municipal League, the League of Women Voters, the Civic Federation, and with former members of the New York City Board of Education. A mass meeting under the auspices of the Public Education Association was held at the Town Hall in order to arouse interest in this bill, with the result that many letters and telegrams were sent to our representatives in Albany urging its support.

The "heat of the campaign" had died away and no municipal campaign loomed in the near future, but men and women of different political affiliations lined up enthusiastically behind a measure which they believed would bring about a conspicuous betterment of school conditions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In connection with the disaster in the Argonaut mine I have ventured to address the following suggestion to Mr. F. L. Lowell of the California Industrial Commission:

Would it not be a simple procedure in all mines to have small supplies of canned goods at various levels and in various shafts at all times so that in case of accident it might mitigate the possible loss of life due to starvation until rescuing crews could reach those entombed? Hardly a year passes but that we read of a similar accident and I have never heard of this simple precaution being taken to avoid death from starvation. Water, I note, is generally obtainable as well as air. Certainly the expense of canned goods which could be periodically renewed would be nothing, even were they in the year to result in the saving of only one life.

Kipling's Complex.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Kipling not only writes fiction, but talks it. The value of his imagination has materially depreciated as illustrated by his illogical utterances on America's participation in the World War. It is suggested that our English friends make Mr. Kipling familiar with the facts before his hallucination becomes an obsession. ARTHUR LINES.

Indian Summer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I reply to the question of "A. B. C." by saying that Indian Summer is a warm spell in the Fall coming after we have had a cold spell? There is a saying in New England that you can't have Indian Summer until you have had squaw Winter.

UNTERMYER SEES DEBACLE IN EUROPE

ASKS A $2,000,000,000 FUND

Would Use British Interest for Relief—Asserts Reparations Must Be Scaled Down Greatly.

Samuel Untermyer, New York lawyer, returned yesterday on the White Star liner Majestic after several months abroad, during which his wife underwent an operation for appendicitis at Carlsbad. Mrs. Untermyer had recovered sufficiently to stand the journey back to New York and her husband walked down the gangway yesterday afternoon to see that she was carried carefully in the invalid chair to the pier.

Mr. Untermyer refused to comment on either the strike injunction or politics, as he said he did not know the situation after being away so long. He was very pessimistic about conditions in Europe and especially concerned over the latest developments in the Near East and Southeastern Europe. Mr. Untermyer issued a statement he wrote during the voyage, which read as follows:

"One would imagine that they could not be worse but for the irresistible evidence on all sides that they are growing day by day more deplorable, and are bound to end in a 'debacle' of civilization in the countries of Eastern and Southeastern Europe unless the brotherhood of man and the statesmanship of the twentieth century come to the rescue without delay.

Finds Misery Indescribable.

"I have spent about two months in those stricken lands on this visit, as I did last year, and have done practically every year of the past thirty-four years with the exception of four years of the war. The misery, suffering and despair are truly undescribable. In some of the countries, particularly in the smaller towns, the entire population are literally in rags with hunger stamped upon their faces. Famine, starvation and revolution are upon them unless the more fortunate of the nations come quickly to the rescue.

"Great as was the havoc wrought by the war in the loss of life, the number of those then killed is negligible as compared with the millions who must perish as the aftermath of war unless immediate relief is forthcoming. Even so, many must perish. Their vitality has been sapped by long-endured hunger and privation.

"Now that the scales have fallen from our eyes and we begin to suffer the mortification of disillusionment as to the extent to which we have been used as pawns in the deep and sordid game of European politics, the least we can do is get away from the whole wretched business and to keep as far removed as possible from contact with their affairs, is quite understandable.

"But it would be unpardonable and almost treacherous for us to act upon that impulse. We have assumed obligations that cannot be avoided. Why not devote the accrued or accruing interest for the next three years payable to us by Great Britain on her debt to us, which when reasonably funded is sure to be paid, to the relief of these people while we are putting in motion the necessary financial and economic machinery to rehabilitate their countries and set them on the road to recovery?

"That would furnish a fund of almost two billion dollars, and it would be the more cheerfully paid by Great Britain for such a purpose, although there is no thought in the minds of these people other than to pay dollar for dollar in principal and interest. A substantial part would have to be paid now; pending the liquidation of the balance there would be no difficulty in borrowing on the security of the debt as much of the money as we shall need, for it is hardly likely that we shall be able to use one-half of it.

"Deserves to Be Stoned."

"Our past grand master in the dangerous art of word painting, who would unconsciously sacrifice a people for a phrase, could not realize that he was penning words of fire that did their part in setting the world aflame. Any one who knows anything about the Constitution of these new States or the combination of devilish cruelty and chicanery that inspired the fixing of their present territorial boundaries be utterly disregard of racial lines and of nationality, geography or of the future self-sustaining power of the remaining remnants of the countries whose territory was taken and who continues to prate about self-determination, plebiscites and other cant, deserves to be stoned.

"These new vandal republics pay no more attention to the treaties to which they owe their existence than the peacemakers paid to the 'Fourteen Points' on the faith of which, the pledged word of the United States, the central powers laid down their arms.

"Meantime confiscation and persecution run riot and the victims are remediless and helpless.

"Poland has been permitted to seize the new possessions and take the private properties of Austrian nationals, and has not even ratified the treaty under which it has assumed to take them; Turkey, too, has failed to ratify the treaty and all Continental Europe is in a state of turmoil.

"The futility and impotence of the League of Nations becomes day by day more apparent. It can correct none of the wrongs it is pledged to right, and can register no fiats except by common consent, which is never given. Meanwhile the resumption of human slaughter that it was intended to prevent goes merrily on.

"I am pleased to note that Governor Cox, after preaching for four years the false doctrine that the ills of Europe are due to our not having entered the League of Nations, has finally reversed himself and is now of the opinion that it is not an important part of any program for the rehabilitation of these countries for us to enter the League, in which I agree with him but for reasons very different from those assigned by him.

"I beg, however, to take issue with him in his view that the settlement of reparations is the step most essential to rehabilitation important though it is. It is a strange conclusion. These hopelessly bankrupt peoples are not worrying so much about how they are going to pay their debts as about how to get work and earn enough to keep body and soul alive. They are satisfied to let their creditors worry about the debts with the grim satisfaction that after all you cannot get blood out of a turnip.

Has Three Proposals.

"There are many more pressing problems to be solved:

"2—Find a way to give them work by furnishing the raw materials they must have in order to resume their industry.

"3—Stabilize their currencies.

"With proper Governmental safeguards of our country against competition that would be injurious to our industries, which we must under all circumstances protect, we can sell them on the credit of their manufactured products the raw materials that they must have and have not the capital or credit to buy.

"The other thing we can do is to aid in stabilizing their depreciated currencies through a monetary conference, so that the currency of each of these countries will have a value based upon the best resources of the country by which it is issued. That, incidentally, involves a readjustment and refunding of reparations, debts at fixed sums payable over a long term of years. There, too, we can doubtless help in a practical way.

FRANK A. VANDERLIP BACK

Former Senator O'Gorman, Who Has Been Visiting France, Tells of Irish Grief Over Assassinations.

The largest steamship in the world, the White Star liner Majestic, arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg with the world's record list of cabin passengers. She had 838 in the first, 712 in the second and 640 third class passengers, five thousand sacks of mail and nearly $1,000,000 in gold for New York banks.

When the big ship was made fast Captain Sir Bertram Hayes, R. N. R., C. B. O., the master, said that the voyage across had been fine and the liner had averaged 22.65 knots, making the passage of 3,158 miles in 5 days 19 hours and 24 minutes.

There was a force of 175 customs inspectors waiting to examine the baggage of the 1,550 cabin passengers on the pier and the Surveyor of the Port, Thomas W. Whipple, was there to see that there was not a long line of passengers kept waiting through lack of inspectors, as happened last Saturday.

Seized $2,000 of Undeclared Goods.

A good deal of advance information was received at the Custom House, Bowling Green, from Europe about the number of diamond smugglers who would be on board, but the result of the baggage examination did not coincide with the tips sent in. About $2,000 worth of gems, laces and various dutiable goods were seized from passengers for failing to place the articles on their customs declarations.

One young woman in the first cabin was stopped as she was passing through the barrier with a fur coat over her arm, which had been purchased abroad and not declared. When informed that the coat would be seized the passenger told the customs officials that she did not know that everything had to be declared whether the article had been worn or not. In her excitement she handed over a one-carat diamond ring and a diamond scarf pin that had not been declared, which were also seized, and the young woman burst into tears.

Among the first cabin passengers was G. S. Barclay Acheson, Associate General of the Near East Relief, who returned after spending seven months in the Caucasus and Western Russia. He said that the harvest was far greater than it had been for several years, but transportation was lacking and medical supplies were scarce.

Frank A. Vanderlip, who returned with his son after being abroad since March, said that he had nothing to add to what he had already said in Europe.

Another passenger was Bernard F. Gimbel of Gimbel Brothers, who returned with his wife, and Fred Gimbel. He said that he believed too many travelers returned to America from Europe and talked about conditions from information gained mostly in hotels. He added that in his opinion it would take a long time for a keen investigator to travel through Europe and learn what is the matter there with the different countries.

H. Gordon Selfridge Jr., son of the founder of Selfridge's dry goods store in London, came to visit relatives in Chicago.

Movie Star Has New Play.

Miss Mabel Normand, the movie star, returned on the Majestic from a six weeks' vacation, which she spent chiefly in Paris. After a week in New York she said that she would go West to begin a picture with an English scenario which has not yet been named and is something on the order of "Molly O." Miss Normand said that she went in the swimming pool daily on the ship and enjoyed it very much.

Former United States Senator James A. O'Gorman returned with his wife and their daughter Alice from a two and a half months' trip, during which they visited mostly Normandy and Brittany in France. The ex-Senator said that he would take no part in the forthcoming political campaign for the Governorship of New York State. With regard to Ireland Mr. O'Gorman said the loss of Griffiths and Collins was a great blow to the cause of peace in Ireland and that fully 98 per cent. of the Irish favored what the two dead leaders had created.

H. Snowden Marshall, former United States District Attorney, returned from a short trip and said he had come to the conclusion that many of the statements given out by travelers in America were based on hearsay and not on observation.

Adolph Deutsch returned on the Majestic, after spending two and a half months in Hungary, where he left $60,000 in cash and clothing for the poor of his native land. Others on board were Count D. A. Constantini, Special Attaché of the Italian Embassy at Washington; Captain the Hon. Lionel Guest, Air Attaché of the British Embassy at Washington, and the Countess de Laugier-Villars, who was Miss Carola Livingston of New York.

The big ship brought two bodies in special rooms for interment here, the first being that of Leo Stern, formerly of Stern Brothers, West Forty-second Street, who died suddenly in France on June 21, shortly after his arrival in Europe. He was on his way to visit his daughter, the Baroness Leo Von Grafenried, in Switzerland, and the Baroness, her husband and their three children, Marie L., Regina and young Baron Emanuel Von Graffenried, came with the body. The interment, private, will be in Salem Fields on Sunday next. Baron and Baroness Von Grafenried will remain here a few weeks with the latter's sister at 1,000 Park Avenue and then return to their home just outside of Berne, Switzerland.

The other body was that of Mrs. M. E. McCahill of Pittsburgh, who was killed recently in an automobile accident near Munich, Germany. Her son, P. J. McCahill, returned with the body together with J. D. Costello, a friend of the family. At the time of the accident, Sister Antonia of Pittsburgh and Miss Mary Tumulty were in the automobile. Sister Antonia was not seriously hurt.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Greason Jr. of Plainfield, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Janet Greason, to James H. Ackerman, a son of Councilman Malon S. Ackerman and Mrs. Ackerman, also of Plainfield. Mr. Ackerman is a graduate of Princeton, class of '19.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Landon Vaill of Winsted, Conn., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Vaill, to Hamilton Judson Bickford, son of Herbert J. Bickford of Pelham, N. Y. FINDS U. S. IS FIRM FRIEND OF FRANCE

NO PROHIBITION, HE SAYS

General Emil Marie Adolph Taufflieb, who with Mrs. Taufflieb will sail today on the Paris for France, said last night at the Hotel St. Regis that after crossing the United States from the East to the West he was going home convinced that no clouds exist between this country and France.

"Our two nations," he said, "that fought side by side in the cause of liberty, do not always look at European questions from the same standpoint. It is evident that European and American interests are occasionally different. The United States is overflowing with money and consequently labor is highly paid. This arrests production somewhat, but I am convinced this is but a transitory stage like convalescence after a long illness. Let us trust each other.

"France is not militaristic. She asks only to be allowed to work. Already she has reconstructed a large part of her devastated region, but she does ask that Germany, who caused all her losses, be made to contribute to the cost of this reconstruction, as she agreed to do at the signing of the Treaty of Versailles."

General Taufflieb said he had been reading in the newspapers that Germany could not pay, and admitted that Germany as a Government hasn't any money, but, he said, the people have money in their pockets. He said he knew of one factory that paid dividends to its employes of 46 per cent.

The General said that as a personal friend of Rudyard Kipling, he did not think Kipling made the statement attributed to him concerning America's part in the war, and that he would withhold judgment until he sees Kipling or hears from him. He added that he expected to write to him immediately.

Asked what he thought of prohibition in the United States, the General said: "Prohibition is but a word. I had all the wine I wanted in California."

Both brides are graduate nurses of the Flushing Hospital. After spending their honeymoons in New England, both couples will live on Long Island.

Eldora Goldthwait Gives $10,000 if Tablet Is Placed.

The will of Eldora F. Goldthwait, an actress, who died at Amityville, L. I., leaves $6,000 to the Actors' Fund Home on Staten Island on condition that a tablet is put in the home inscribed "Louis Aldrich, projector and founder, May, 1901." If this is done the home gets an additional fund of $3,000 for charitable purposes, but if not, one $5,000 gift goes to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the other to Tuskegee Institute.

Miss Goldthwait also left $5,000 and her residuary estate, including all her jewelry, to the Edwin Forrest Lodge of the Actors' Order of Friendship to buy a bed in some non-sectarian hospital "for American-born actors and actresses." She also left $2,000 to the Hide-a-Wee Home. She gave $7,000 to Mrs. Montie Graves, wife of Abbott S. Graves of Kennebunkport, Me., and the contents of her trunks to her cousin, Frank B. Haskell of Deer Island, Me.

The will states that Miss Goldthwait was never married, "always paid cash for everything, and owes nothing to no one." She directed that $2,000 be expended for her tomb.

BIG FOUR TO CUT TRAINS.

Nearly Twenty Are to Be Canceled Today.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 12.—Abandonment of nearly a score of trains of the Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati & St. Louis Railroad, effective tomorrow, was announced here last night. Elimination of these trains was for the purpose of conserving equipment and motive power to facilitate the movement of coal, H. A. Worcester, vice-president of the road, who was in St. Louis stated in a telegram to Cincinnati officials of the company.

Among the trains to be taken off are four on the Michigan division, four on the Peoria division, and four on the Cincinnati Northern. On the St. Louis division Nos. 2, 3, 7 and 8 will be annulled and Nos. 14 and 15 consolidated. On the Cincinnati-Cleveland division, Nos. 4 and 6, between Galion and Cincinnati, are to be consolidated. Nos. 49 and 1 and Nos. 48 and 10 between Springfield and Cincinnati may be consolidated, effective Sept. 18. Definite announcement as to these trains will be made later, it was said.

Mail officials say these are the first regular trains of the Big Four to be taken from service since the strike was begun on July 1.

MRS. PARK BENJAMIN DIES IN SANITARIUM

WILL CONTEST COMPLICATED

Heirs Fighting Father's Bequest Now Awaiting Arrival of Caruso's Widow From Italy.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Ida E. Benjamin, widow of Park Benjamin and mother of Mrs. Enrico Caruso, died suddenly at the Interpines, Goshen, Monday night about 10 o'clock from a cerebral hemorrhage. She had been a patient at the Interpines since 1910. She was 56 years old.

Mrs. Benjamin's condition, previous to her fatal attack, had been as good as usual, there being no indication that she was in danger of death. During her stay at the institution she had not been confined to her room much of the time, but was allowed to be about the grounds when the weather would permit. Much of the time her mind was clear on certain subjects and she realized where she was and why she was there.

At times she was subject to severe attacks which called for constant care until they were relieved. Mrs. Caruso had visited her mother frequently. Mrs. Benjamin was cheerful despite her affliction.

The contents of Park Benjamin's will, in which he cut off his five children with only $1 each, was never made known to her. For some time before his death Mr. Benjamin had not visited her. She was his second wife, being the mother of only two of his children, Mrs. Caruso and a son, Romeyn Benjamin. The son was informed of his mother's death soon after it occurred.

The death of Mrs. Benjamin adds to the already tangled affairs of the estate left by Mr. Benjamin. Disinheriting his five children because of alleged unfilial conduct, Mr. Benjamin bequeathed $60,000 and the personal effects of his home at 270 West Seventy-third Street to Miss Anna Bolchi Benjamin, an adopted daughter. He left the residuary estate, approximating $500,000, to Mrs. Benjamin with the proviso that on her death it should pass to Anna Bolchi Benjamin.

The intention of the five children to contest the will on the grounds of testamentary inability and undue influence exercised to their detriment by the adopted daughter has been announced by Park Benjamin Jr., as spokesman for the disinherited heirs. He said yesterday that he was unable to say just what effect the death of the mother would have on the plans of the children, but thought they would be held in abeyance pending the arrival from Italy of Mrs. Caruso. No action could be taken until she reached here because of the need of serving citation papers on the heirs, it was said.

Arthur Fullman of 302 Broadway, attorney for Anna Bolchi Benjamin, declined to discuss phases of the contest which have arisen by reason of Mrs. Benjamin's death.

"The only comment I have to make at this time is that the trust lapses," he said. His client was said to be at the Summer home leased by Mr. Benjamin at Shippan Point, near Greenwich, Conn. Patterson, Eagle, Greenough & Day of 120 Broadway, attorneys for the executors, also refused comment.

In stating the grounds on which the children expected to base their contest, Park Benjamin Jr. asserted that with the advent of Miss Bolchi Benjamin into the household the father had neglected his invalid wife. Until 1919, when Mrs. Benjamin had been in the sanitarium nine years, the father visited her regularly and was very attentive, the son said. Then Miss Bolchi, to whom the elder Benjamin had been attracted by her musical ability, was brought into the family circle, and the visits to the Goshen sanitarium ceased, the son alleged.

He also charged that in 1920, when Dr. I. W. Seward, head of the sanitarium, announced an increase in rates, the elder Benjamin refused to pay the increases. Dr. Seward, according to the son, then placed Mrs. Benjamin on a semi-charitable basis, an arrangement which continued until Enrico Caruso provided the means for the proper support of his mother-in-law.

Mr. Fullman in behalf of Miss Anna Benjamin, denied the charge of neglect. He said the bills from the sanitarium had been paid regularly. Benjamin being solicitous that his invalid wife should have all the comforts possible. He said he had received a letter from Dr. Seward within a few days substantiating this.

Park Benjamin Jr., a step-son, went to Goshen yesterday to claim the body of Mrs. Benjamin. No announcement has been made of funeral plans.

Miss Elizabeth Boyle O'Reilly.

Miss Elizabeth Boyle O'Reilly, author of several books and a daughter of the late John Boyle O'Reilly, noted Irish poet and patriot and editor of The Boston Pilot, died in this city on Monday. Miss O'Reilly started habeas corpus proceedings some years ago to obtain her release from the Bellevue Hospital psychopathic ward following her escape from a sanitarium in Newton, Mass. She had served as a Red Cross nurse in France during the World War and later was attached to the American Ambulance at the Hotel Imperial Hospital at Nice. She returned to Boston in the Spring of 1918 and shortly afterward was committed to the Newton sanitarium, from which she escaped in the Fall of 1919.

SHOTGUN KILLS OIL MAN.

NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 12.—Fidelio S. Henry, described as a wealthy oil man, was found dead on the grounds of his home at Cannondale last night. The body was leaning against a tree, and there were gunshot wounds in the head. A shotgun was lying across the legs.

Members of his family expressed the belief that death was caused by an accidental discharge of the shotgun. Coroner Phelan will investigate.

Henry had been ill and yesterday was the first day he had been out of doors in some time. He was 0 years old and was graduated from Yale in 1894. He came heer three years ago from Texas.

CANADIAN BANKER ACCUSED.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—The Grand Jury of the Court of King's Bench today received an application from the Crown for a true bill against Sir Montagu Allan, President of the Merchant's Bank of Canada, on a charge of having made to the Government a false return of the banks' condition in October, 1921.

After hearing George Edwards, expert accountant, and J. N. Kilbourne, former secretary of the bank, the jury declined to hear other witnesses.

Decision will be announced tomorrow.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 12.—William Wilson of 273 Willoughby Avenue, Brooklyn, is dead in a hospital here today. Wilson, whom physicians say was suffering from a nervous ailment brought on through active service in France, grasped a wire carrying 60,000 volts yesterday at Avon in an attempt to end his life.

He climbed to the top of a tower carrying the wires and, after taking hold, immediately fell, burning.

ROW HALTS SERVICE HOSPITAL INQUIRY

Rossdale, Charging Whitewash Scheme, Says He Will Appeal to Congress.

CLASHES WITH LITTLETON

Committee Issues Statement Announcing That Investigation Will Be Searching.

The official investigation of United States Veterans Hospital 81, at Kingsbridge Road and Sedgwick Avenue, the Bronx, was interrupted yesterday, less than an hour after it started, by a row among the inquisitors. Representative Albert B. Rossdale, who has played the leading rôle in questioning Dr. A. P. Chronquest, superintendent of the hospital, the only witness called so far, quit the investigation after a heated exchange of words with Martin W. Littleton, who represents the public on the investigating committee.

Mr. Rossdale declared the committee, which includes Major C. H. Jewett and Dr. Guy O. Ireland for the Veterans' Bureau, in addition to Mr. Littleton, was only a "whitewashing proceeding." He added that he would not permit the use of his name in connection with its activities. Advised by Mr. Littleton to "save speechmaking for the halls of Congress," Mr. Rossdale shouted:

"I shall take this matter before Congress and I shall see that a thorough and impartial investigation is made of this entire institution. If necessary, I shall take the matter up with the President of the United States."

Mr. Rossdale left the room. It was announced later that the investigation would begin again tomorrow without Mr. Rossdale.

Trouble Started Monday.

Trouble between Mr. Rossdale and members of the committee has been brewing ever since the inquiry began on Monday. At the first session the Representative objected to more than three men serving on the committee, which was appointed by Colonel Charles R. Forbes of the Veterans Bureau at Washington to act on his charges. He declared an effort was being made to get two other officials of the bureau, M. P. McInerney and J. C. Bostelman, into the case. He was finally appeased when the two men withdrew.

During Monday's session Mr. Littleton told Mr. Rossdale he was muddling up the record by injecting statements of his own at a time when there should only be questions by himself and answers from the witness. He apologized, saying he was not a lawyer, but was doing the best he knew how to get at the truth.

Yesterday's break came when Mr. Bostelman, who was seated near the committee, broke in upon a series of questions that Mr. Rossdale was asking Dr. Chronquest. The questions had to do with an alleged censorship of patients' mail at the hospital, which the witness denied, although he admitted that letters from patients were inclosed in a larger official envelope which contained a communication from the hospital authorities, asking for suggestions to help the writer's case.

"To my knowledge, no mail that is sealed is not opened," said Dr. Chronquest.

"You are not certain of that?" asked Mr. Rossdale.

Rossdale Spectator's Question.

Mr. Bostelman at that point interjected the remark that it appeared that Mr. Rossdale was cross-examining the witness on allegations which existed in his own mind but of which there was no evidence before the committee.

"I don't want him butting in," said Mr. Rossdale to the committee. "If I can't get the kind of investigation I want I will withdraw and leave the inquiry for Congress."

Both Dr. Ireland and Mr. Littleton sought to placate the Representative, but he reiterated his characterization of the methods of the whole investigation.

"You are impeaching the integrity of the committee in advance," rejoined Mr. Littleton angrily. "You can't stand there and make threats. I represent the civilian public on this committee and I don't intend to sit here and listen to your insults. I am utterly impartial and you can't intimidate me."

"I don't like the way this inquiry is going," said Mr. Rossdale, "and I'm going to retire."

"I will say that you are weak and cowardly to retire now," said Mr. Littleton. "The work of this committee will continue, whether you go or not. You can't stand there like the Bull of Bashan and make charges against us."

"I resent those words," shouted Mr. Rossdale. "You have been influenced by a couple of department clerks and you are not the Martin Littleton I thought you were. You are not the Martin Littleton the people of New York think you are—"

Rossdale Charges Whitewash Plan.

After it was all over, Mr. Rossdale issued the following statement:

"This is plainly and purely an attempt at whitewash. If Col. Forbes's employes, in order to improve their standing with their chief, want to bring in a whitewash report I see no reason why I should be a party to it and lend my name to a disgraceful proceeding. Mr. Littleton was named by Col. Forbes over long distance telephone from Washington and from the moment he arrived he was surrounded by Col. Forbes's satellites and made very much of. He gave no help. The few questions he asked were plainly for the purpose of protecting the hospital officials and it was clear to me that here was a man with a reputation and supposed to represent the public, but in reality nothing but an added cloak for the bureau.

"I feel deeply about putting sane men into that 'chamber of horrors' (C building for violently insane) and have the head of the institution defend that action by stating that such treatment would cure patients suffering from mild nervous disorders. The mental anguish and horror of a sane man being sentenced to pass days and nights in such a place appears unthinkable, but yet is only too true."

Following Mr. Rossdale's withdrawal, the committee issued a statement saying:

"The purpose and intent of the committee remains entirely unchanged. It will proceed with the investigation of the conditions in this hospital as it was originally intended and will avail itself of such information as has already been brought to it and all information which may be brought to it. In addition to this, a searching inquiry on its own behalf will be conducted as to the method and manner of operation of this institution, the treatment of the patients, and all questions which would affect its proper management. The investigation will be continued open the public and the press.

"The committee exceedingly regrets that the incident of the morning should have interrupted the plan of procedure which was adopted in conjunction and agreement with Congressman Rossdale, but the committee felt obliged to end the attacks which were constantly being made upon its integrity and fairness by innuendo and direct statement, and if it were a choice of being accused of having prejudged the case which the committee did not know anything about or else having Congressman Rossdale retire, accepted the latter choice with relief."

ARREST 2 IN BILL RAISING.

Girl and a Man Are Held in Suffern Inquiry Into Fraud.

SUFFERN, N. Y., Sept. 12.—A clever band of bill raisers may be rounded up within the next few days as the result of the arrest of 17-year-old Florence Defrees, colored, of Hillburn, who was taken into custody while attempting to pass three of the worthless certificates.

Secret Service men working with Detectives James Brooks and Michael Downey, who arrested the girl, have been active on the case for the last six months. Thousands of dollars of worthless ten-dollar bills have been put into circulation, many of which found their way into the hands of local merchants.

On the prisoner's person were found eight other raised bills which, she said, she had taken from a male companion's pocket while on an automobile ride the night before. She said that together with a girl friend and her male companion they had toured the country through lower Rockland County and that her friend had a large roll of ten-dollar bills. A number of small purchases were made by the man, and in every instance he tendered one of the ten-dollar bills. He did not offer any of the change from the bills in payment for articles purchased.

The police believe the Defrees girl is not a member of the band, because of the straightforward story she told and her willingness to co-operate in the arrest of her male companions.

Detectives Brooks and Downey and a Secret Service operative this afternoon arrested Frank Errica, a storekeeper in Hillburn, N. Y., who was a member of the party with the Defrees girl.

WILL NOT WED KID McCOY.

Discovery of Telegram Signed "Red Head" Wrecks His Ninth Romance.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—Kid McCoy's ninth romance is wrecked, and Mrs. Jacqueline McDowell, who came here from Baltimore with the announced purpose of becoming his partner for life, has returned to her home in the East. This is the statement of Kid McCoy himself, whose real name is written Norman Selby on the now useless marriage license which he and Mrs. McDowell obtained here several days ago.

A telegram to McCoy signed "Red Head," accidentally discovered by his prospective ninth bride, delivered the knockout to the ex-pugilist's wedding plans, it was said.

Illinois Central Orders Equipment.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Sixty-five locomotives and 3,000 coal cars have been ordered by the Illinois Central Railroad, Charles H. Markham, President of the road, said today. The road then will have a total of 1,799 locomotives and 32,000 coal cars, he said.

A New Novel by REX BEACH

This is the first novel Rex Beach has written for several years. It is a story that every reader of The Spoilers and The Silver Horde will want to read. It has the same dash and liveliness, and it is like those widely read stories in its splendid sweep of background. Its scene is new to Rex Beach, but it gives the author the same opportunity that he had in depicting the early days in Alaska, full of color and picturesque life.

FLOWING GOLD

Here is a story that is typical of the author in its humor and vigor. It is laid in the new Klondike of the Texas oil fields, during the boom which followed the war. Rex Beach knows this country as he knows his Alaska. It makes a magnificent background for this story of romance and excitement, in which human beings are shown in their true colors in the heat of the fierce struggle for "flowing gold," the oil that gushes from subterranean reservoirs.

A real Rex Beach story of chance, pulsating with the lure and drive and combat of men's battle against nature and each other, brimful of romance, humor and suspense.

BOOK CENSORSHIP BEATEN IN COURT

CALLS WORKS 'LITERATURE'

Finds Condemned Volumes Deal With Phases of Present Thought.

PUBLISHER TO START SUIT

Will Demand Damages, Possibly $25,000, From the Vice Society and Its Secretary.

In a decision handed down by Magistrate George W. Simpson in the Municipal Term Court yesterday the charge made by John S. Sumner, Secretary of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, against Thomas Seltzer that three books the defendant published were in violation of Section 1,141 of the Penal Law was dismissed and Mr. Seltzer was discharged. Magistrate Simpson also exonerated Mary H. Marks, a circulation library employe, charged by Mr. Sumner with loaning, for a consideration, one of the books.

The books complained of were "A Young Woman's Diary," attributed to a Viennese girl between the ages of 11 and 13; "Women in Love," written by D. H. Lawrence and described by the Magistrate in his decision as a book in which "the author attempts to discover the motivating power of life," and "Casanova's Home-coming," which was written by Dr. Arthur Schnitzler. Referring to Dr. Schnitzler as "a leading man of letters," Magistrate Simpson said the book was "the story of the last love affair in his declining years of one Casanova, famous for his memoirs."

Following the rendering of the decision, Jonah J. Goldstein of 305 Broadway, counsel for the defendants, announced that a suit would soon be instituted against Mr. Sumner and his society for losses sustained by Mr. Seltzer since litigation commenced about six weeks ago. While the amount of damage sought has not yet been determined, the publisher himself declared that 25,000 would not be too much to demand. The exact figure will be set either today or tomorrow.

Cites Appellate Division.

Magistrate Simpson, in the decision quoted from the decisions handed down by the Appellate Division in several cases on the section of the law which Mr. Seltzer was charged with violating, are defined. He also referred to a letter written to THE NEW YORK TIMES by Henry Holt, the publisher, and published on May 30, dealing with erotic writers.

"Books will not be banned by law, merely because they do not serve a useful purpose nor teach any moral lesson," Magistrate Simpson's decision said in part, citing People v. Brainard & Harper & Bros., 192 App. Div. 816. "In that case," he continued, "the publication in question was a book entitled 'Madeleine.' It was alleged to be an autobiography by an anonymous author. The Appellate Division, holding the book not violative of Section 1141, did so although it declared the book served no useful purpose and taught no moral lesson. The Court, speaking through Justice Smith, said: 'I can see no useful purpose in the publication of the book. I cannot agree that it has any moral lesson to teach.'

"I have read with sedulous care, 'Casanova's Home-Coming,' 'Women in Love' and 'A Young Girl's Diary.' Following the tests laid down by the cases in this State, both as to the manner of judging publications and as to the meaning of the statutes, I do not find anything in these books which may be considered obscene. On the contrary, I find that each of them is a distinct contribution to the literature of the present day. Each of the books deals with one or another of the phases of present thought.

Quotes Henry Holt.

"Pornographic tides should be stemmed, but distinction must be drawn between that which is merely obscene and that which the higher courts' tests allow and sanction. It has been said, with some justice, that the policy of pouncing upon books too frank for contemporary taste, without regard to the motive or purpose for which they were written, or the use to which they are to be put, is objectionable and should be curbed. As the eminent publisher, Henry Holt, wrote in THE NEW YORK TIMES of May 30, 1922: 'The family requires that the sexual passion be kept within limits. Within those limits the rousing of it by the beauty of the opposite sex is among the most beneficient and most productive processes of nature.'

"It is my opinion that these books do not impinge upon those limits. It appears to me that the crime mentioned in the summonses and informations herein has not been committed and that there is not sufficient cause to believe the defendants, Thomas Seltzer and Mary H. Marks, guilty of violating Section 1141 of the Penal law. The said summonses and informations are hereby dismissed and the defendants are hereby discharged."

"I am gratified at the result," said Mr. Goldstein. "The Court's decision today is not only a vindication of the client, but is also a vindication of the law, which was never intended to be a censor of literature. Only the oversealous Superintendent of the Society for the Suppression of Vice could have deemed these books a violation of the law.

"I desire to thank both the Court and the District Attorney for their public-spirited attitude in this case. They approached the task of passing upon these books in a manner reflecting credit upon our system of the administration of justice.

"Our client suffered substantial losses in the expense involved in this litigation and in a business way. Under instructions from our client we shall institute suit against Mr. Sumner and the Society for the Suppression of Vice to recover damages suffered by him."

Sees Victory for Public.

"The people have shown clearly that they recognise the menace of literary censorship," Mr. Seltzer said, "and they have served notice on Mr. Sumner that they will not tolerate dictatorship of what books they may read and what books they may not read. They have the right to choose the reading matter for themselves and they mean to exercise that right. Indirectly they have placed their confidence in the American book publishers and their confidence is well placed. I know of no finer body of men than the American publishers, both as to character and intelligence. They may well be trusted to do the right thing in the pursuit of their calling.

"That such men may at any time be subjected to the indignity of having their places of business invaded by self-constituted moral censors is preposterous. It is a condition which cannot be tolerated. The American people, I am sure, will soon find a legal way to put a stop to it.

"I do not consider this my victory alone; it is the victory of the entire reading public. The people have shown where their sympathy lies. From the very beginning they made it their own case, and the press throughout the country has faithfully reflected the public indignation felt as their unwarranted demand to suppress books which our best scholars and most discerning critics have declared to be great works of genius."

Mr. Sumner said he was not disheartened, as "you can't win every case," adding: "It is simply a case of his opinion differing from the opinion existing here and on the part of the people who called out attention to the books."

At the examination, which was held in the West Side Court on July 31, Magistrate Simpson decided to read the books in question before rendering his decision. The books, it was brought out, were produced for subscribers in a limited edition and sold for $10 to $15 a volume. It was conceded at the examination that Mr. Seltzer published the books and that Miss Marks loaned "a Young Girl's Diary" to various persons.

Mr. Sumner, who confiscated many copies of the books which he found in Mr. Seltzer's office at 5 West Fiftieth Street, was ordered yesterday to return them.

"CLOSE REISENWEBER'S," DRY OFFICIALS DEMAND

Federal Judge to Hear Motion Charging Liquor Sales After Court Ban.

Federal Judge Martin T. Manton will hear a motion tomorrow of Major John Holly Clark Jr. and Victor House, Assistant United States District Attorneys, to close Reisenweber's restaurant, Eighth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street, in accordance with an order of the court signed on July 6 last, but suspended for a period of six months on condition that no intoxicants be handled in the premises.

It is contended by the Government attorneys that on the very date the order was signed and subsequently liquor was sold to patrons of the restaurant. Notice of the motion has been served on counsel for the defendant and the case set on the calendar for tomorrow morning.

Named in the original action, which was to have the place declared a public nuisance and to have it closed by law, are the following defendants:

John Reisenweber; Reisenweber, Inc.; United Cigar Stores of America; White Rose Baking and Restaurant Co., Inc.; St. Regis Restaurant Company, Inc.; Fifty-eighth Street Restaurant Company, Inc.; John Wagener, Walter Kaffenberg, Benjamin Ueberall and Louis Zagat. The decree signed by Judge Manton on July 6 last locates the restaurant known as Reisenweber's on the two upper floors of 961, 963 and 965 Eighth Avenue.

After directing the several defendants, their servants, agents, &c., to commit no violations of the law and directing Marshal Hecht to close the premises, Judge Manton ordered:

"But this provision for non-occupation or use for a period of one year shall be suspended for a period of six months from the date hereof and the defendant, the Fifty-eighth Street Restaurant Company, Inc., shall give bond with sufficient security to be approved by the Court, in the liquidated sum of $1,000, conditioned that intoxicating liquor will not be manufactured, sold, bartered, kept or otherwise disposed of, and will pay all fines, &c."

Major Clark has filed an affidavit alleging renewed violations of the prohibition law. In the affidavit he says on information and belief that on July 6—the date the closing order was signed—liquor containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol in volume was sold to a patron of this restaurant. He also says that such a sale was made on or about Aug. 23 last. The final specific charge of sale was on Aug. 24 last. The affidavit then declares:

Deponent is further informed and verily believes that throughout the period from July 6, 1922, to August 28, 1922, the said restaurant was conducted in a manner openly defiant of the decree of this court, of the Act of Congress approved Oct. 28, 1919, and of the Constitution of the United States. Deponent is further informed and verily believes that on or about the 28th day of August, 1922, the Police Department of the City of New York, because of the open defiance of law in said restaurant, has deemed it necessary to and has stationed in said restaurant a police officer in uniform, who has remained in said restaurant during all the time it has been open for business from Aug. 28, 1922, up to the present time. Deponent is further informed and verily believes that defendants await only the removal of said police officer to resume their open and aggravated defiance of law and order."

In conclusion, it is asked in the affidavit that a hearing be had as to the Government may adduce evidence of the facts recited in the affidavit and that the original decree be put into immediate effect. Judge Manton is sitting in ex-parte matters at present.

The police raided the restaurant a few weeks ago and the next day Ralph A. Day, Federal Prohibition Director for New York State, asked Major Clark to look into the matter of requesting that the original court decree be put into effect.

It was understood yesterday that the police are co-operating in this case, as a direct result of the get-together conferences which have been held between representatives of the Police Department, United States District Attorney's office and the Prohibition Department. The second conference was held on Monday in United States District Attorney Hayward's office, attended by Director Day and Deputy Police Commissioner Leach and Colonel Hayward. Lines of co-operation between the Government agents and the police were decided upon. In the Reisenweber case two affidavits have been submitted by policemen.

INDICT WIDOW IN MURDER.

Toms River (N. J.) Woman Is Accused of Slaying Husband.

Special to The New York Times.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Sept. 12.—The Ocean County Grand Jury today returned a true bill against Mrs. Ivy Giberson of Lakehurst charging her with the murder of her husband on Aug. 15 last.

Giberson was found dead in bed with a bullet wound in the back of his head. Mrs. Giberson's story that burglars had shot her husband conflicted in so many points that Prosecutor Wilfred H. Jayne caused her arrest on a murder charge the morning the crime was discovered.

12 DEAD, 6 INDICTED FOR RED HOOK RUM

MRS. VITALA HELD IN $25,000

Thirteen indictments for violation of the Mullan-Gage law and for maintaining public nuisances were returned yesterday by the Kings County February Grand Jury in Brooklyn against six persons as the result of evidence obtained by District Attorney John E. Ruston in liquor raids and arrests in the Red Hook section, where wood alcohol caused the death of twelve victims. Regret was expressed by the Grand Jurors in a presentment to County Judge George W. Martin that homicide evidence was impossible "because those who are possessed of the only evidence that would warrant the indictments for homicide are dead."

The defendants are Mrs. Irmelinda Vatala, who owns a grocery store and lives at 149 Conover Street; Michael Cafiero, 862 Van Brunt Street, clerk at Mrs. aVtala's store; Michael Auletti, 115 Wolcott Street; Mrs. Jennie Johnson, owner of a restaurant at 189 Conover Street; William Wobbe, 72 Sullivan Street. The sixth person indicted is a man who has not yet been arrested. A bench warrant has been issued. There are five indictments against Mrs. Vatala, charging her with possessing liquor at her store, selling liquor, maintaining a public nuisance at her store, possessing liquor in her garage at 139 Wolcott Street and maintaining a public nuisance there. When arraigned before County Judge Martin she pleaded not guilty to all indictments against her and was held for trial in $25,000 bail.

33 Per Cent. Wood Alcohol.

According to Assistant District Attorney Marshal Snyder, it was at Mrs. Vitala's store in Conover Street that Michael Keenan bought a half pint of liquor on the day he went blind and was taken to the hospital. This bottle was found to contain wood alcohol. Keenan told the police that he bought a small bottle of liquor on Labor Day evening at Mrs. Vatala's store and that he and Mrs. Teresa Martin drank the contents of that bottle that night. Mrs. Martin is also one of the wood alcohol victims. She was found dead in bed at her home, 135 Dikeman Street, on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 5, when Keenan returned home ill. Keenan boarded with Mrs. Martin. The result of a chemical analysis showed that 32 per cent. wood alcohol was found in a large quantity of liquor seized in a raid by the police at Mrs. Vatala's store that afternoon.

One indictment was found against Michael Cafiero. He was charged with selling liquor. He pleaded not guilty to the indictment and was held in $10,000 bail. Cafiero was arrested with Mrs. Vatala, and he admitted to the police that he sold the bottle of liquor to Keenan on the afternoon of Sept. 5, which was found later to contain wood alcohol. Cafiero also admitted that he was directed by Mrs. Vatala to sell the liquor found behind the counter in the grocery store at 50 cents a half pint and $2 a quart.

Michael Auletti was indicted for manufacturing liquor, possessing it and maintaining a public nuisance at 115 Wolcott Street. He lives there and owns the building. In a raid by District Attorney Buston a 25-gallon still, capable of turning out 100 gallons a day, and in operation, was found on the third floor. A year and a half ago Auletti was a longshoreman.

The police say that since then he has amassed a fortune and now owns four houses in the Red Hook section. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $15,000 bail. William Wobbe was indicted for possessing liquor and maintaining a public nuisance at his residence, 72 Sullivan Street. A jar of alcohol and an empty still were found there by the police. He was held in $2,000 bail. Mrs. Johnson was indicted on a charge of possessing liquor. She was held in $500 bail for trial.

Assistant District Attorney Snyder said that the District Attorney's office would prosecute all those indicted at once. Part of the presentment which the Grand Jury handed to Judge Martin reads:

"Realizing that human life has been so wantonly sacrificed in this awful death score, and the law has been brazenly ignored with all too inadequate measure of punishment, we are compelled to concede that the inevitable deaths have intervened and also thwarted the sincere and earnest purposes of our prosecuting and police officials, who have given us unmistakable evidence of their high sense of their obligation and instant readiness to protect society against unconscionable offenders of the law."

Wood Alcohol Blinds Two.

Two victims of alcoholic poisoning were reported last night, one in Manhattan and the other in Staten Island. Both are temporarily blind and are in hospitals for treatment. John H. Hopkins, 40, an ironworker who came here three weeks ago from Washington, D. C., and has been living in a lodging house at 190 Park Row, was found lying on a stoop at 11 Mott Street. He said he couldn't see and couldn't move. A policeman sent him to Beekman Street Hospital, where Dr. Isaacs said that the man was suffering from wood alcohol poisoning.

Hopkins rallied long enough to say that, with two others, he visited a paint store in Roosevelt Street and each had five drinks of denatured alcohol.

A well-dressed woman who gave her name as Mrs. Blanche Forriscall, 26, of 612 West 175th Street, got out of an automobile in front of the Stapleton police station at 6 o'clock last night, walked in and told Lieutenant Daniel Driscoll that she wanted to make a complaint.

"I am going blind," she screamed before she had stated her complaint. She was taken into the detention room where the policemen used small flashlights, but she said she couldn't see anything. Dr. Jackowitts of Staten Island Hospital, New Brighton, worked over her for fifteen minutes without result. At 6:30 o'clock her sight was partially restored at the hospital, but the physicians said it would be forty-eight hours before she would be out of danger.

Police Arrest Two Men.

As a result of a statement she made, the police arrested Francisco Rosco and Patsy Magnotti, whom she identified at the hospital as two men she had drinks with the night before. She complained that she had missed her pocketbook containing $200 after going to her room in the Rose Bank hotel.

Practically all the fire apparatus in Roboken responded last night to a two-alarm fire on account of the burning of the one-story building at 618 Maddison Street, Hoboken, caused by the explosion of a fifty-gallon still. The explosion blew the roof from the structure and the concussion was felt all over the city. The flames which enveloped the building could be seen for miles. No one was in the building at the time.

The house was owned by Edward Florio of 332 Monroe Street and occupied by his brother Lorenzo and his family. The police said they found and seized sixty gallons of alcohol and a quantity of colored liquor in the cellar of the house.

Gain in Per Capita Cash Circulation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—On Sept. 1 the per capita circulation of money throughout the country was $39.93, as compared with $39.47 on Aug. 1 and with $42.89 on Sept. 1 a year ago. The total amount of money in circulation on Sept. 1 was $4,393,806,927, while the population of the country was estimated at 110,017,000 persons.

28-Hour Air Mail to Coast Promised; Night Flights to Make This Time Possible

An air mail service of twenty-eight hours between New York and San Francisco within a year was promised yesterday by Paul Henderson, Second Assistant Postmaster General, in a talk at a luncheon given in the Automobile Club of America by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

The coast-to-coast service would be made possible by an all-night flight between Chicago and Cheyenne, Wyo., a distance of a little more than 1,000 miles, and airplanes carrying 800 pounds or more of San Francisco mail sorted and ready for the carrier, for example, would leave New York early one morning and be delivered on the Pacific Coast the next day, Mr. Henderson explained. He also told his hearers that contracts had been let for the illumination of the air mail field at Chicago. If satisfactory arrangements were completed at Detroit, he said, the first night postal flights probably would be made between Chicago and Detroit early next month.

Mr. Henderson also announced that air mail to the interior of Alaska soon would be in operation. He said that the Post Office Department now expended $185,000 a year for inland Alaskan service, dog teams being chiefly used in transporting the mail. Two investigators were now in Alaska mapping out air routes, he added, and he believed the airplane would be cheaper than the present modes of transportation in Alaska.

Mr. Henderson's subject was "Night Flying." He said the Postal Air Mail had been at work on this phase for several months, in co-operation with illuminating research corporations. A system of lighting had been devised which assured a safe night way from coast to coast, with the pilot at no time out of sight of powerful beacons casting beams of forty miles in length, he said. The illumination of the Chicago field will follow as nearly as possible "daylight perspective." The buildings will be flood lighted and the field will be outlined with light, red lights marking the landing spots.

Mr. Henderson said that 2,000,000 miles had been flown without a fatality, and for the eight weeks ended Sept. 9, 100 per cent. efficiency had been maintained. Last year, when 1,800,000 miles were flown, the efficiency was 94 per cent. He credited the record of safety and performance to the skill of the pilots and the ground organization.

DRY RAIDERS SEIZE SACRAMENTAL WINE

TWO RUM CRUISERS SOLD

Fugitive Caseese's Edith Brings $3,800 and Trawler Ripple $4,300.

When three general Federal prohibition agents seized a truckload of so-called sacramental wine yesterday afternoon in the restaurant and saloon of Kalmer Rosenbluth at 96 Attorney Street, it became known that Zone Chief John D. Appleby, in charge of New York State and New Jersey, has planned a crusade against the hundreds of wineries and wine stores which are said to have sprung up all over the lower east side in the last year. For three weeks he has had men at work in the lower east side gathering evidence against wine makers and dealers. It is the intention of Chief Appleby to put out of business all except those concerns which make and sell wine for sacramental purposes only. Prohibition officials say that only a small percentage of the wine sold in the district was for legal uses.

The raid yesterday afternoon was on a search warrant issued on Monday by United States Commissioner Samuel M. Hitchcock, and followed the alleged purchase on Saturday night by one of the general agents of a glass of whisky for 25 cents and a glass of wine for 25 cents. No whisky was found in the search of the premises yesterday.

Nine Fifty-Gallon Barrels in Lot.

The restaurant is known as the Zion Casino. In the lot seized yesterday were 9 barrels, each containing 50 gallons; 26 bottles of Tokay, 80 one-half-gallon jugs of wine, 76 gallons of kosher wine, 61 one-half-gallon jug of wine, 7 one-gallon jugs of wine, 28 one-half pints of wine, 9 quarts of wine and 79 bottles of wine. The value of the wine is estimated at, between $5,000 and $10,000, but at bootleg prices would bring much more. The wine was taken to the Knickerbocker Warehouse.

The agents served summones on Rosenbluth, who is also the owner of the building, and David Gever, the waiter who is alleged to have served as agent with the wine and whisky. According to the prohibition agents, Rosenbluth said that the wine which was seized belonged to a rabbi, whose name he gave to the agents. A certificate was on the door leading to the cellar, it was said, showing that the wines belonged to the rabbi. The agents pointed out, they said, that some of the same lot was kept in the ice box for sale.

Investigating agents, it is said, have evidence that saloonkeepers, restaurant owners and others on the lower east side have paid from $200 to $500 to rabbis or persons representing themselves to be rabbis for the privilege of the use of their names. A recommendation has been made by one of the agents that the rationing out of the sacramental wine in New York City be put in charge of five rabbis, one from each county, to be selected by the Hebrew Theological Seminary.

Orders Scotch Whisky Destroyed.

Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, in the Federal District Court, yesterday, ordered the forfeiture, condemnation and destruction of forty-three cases, containing 516 quarts of Scotch whisky seized on May 12 on Pier 18, East River, foot of Beekman Street, after they had been secretely landed on the pier in violation of the Volstead act from the steamship Seattle Spirit. United States Marshal W. C. Aicht will destroy the liquor, which is valued at $2,000.

Ten days each in the workhouse was the sentence imposed yesterday by Magistrate Frothingham in the West Side Court on Salvatore Meadola and Thomas Santa Groce, charged with disorderly conduct. The charge was that they got two ship's officers' hats and some bootleg liquor and proceeded to order passengers about on a northbound subway train as if they were a couple of admirals. In the Traffic Court, Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb sentenced William Drummond, a chauffeur, of 302 West 152d Street, to thirty days in the workhouse for operating a motor truck while intoxicated.

Two boats used as rum-runners were sold yesterday at public auction at the Tebo Yacht Basin by Deputy Marshal August Ferrand. The converted yacht Edith went to Thomas I. Derva of 1,324 Carroll Street, Brooklyn, who is in the steamship business, for $3,800 and the trawler Ripple was sold for $4,300 to the John Sullivan Company, owners of tugs and coal, of Brooklyn.

Both vessels were owned and used by Antonio Cassese in his rum-running trip from the Bahamas to this port. Cassese has jumped his bail of $5,000. The Edith was named by him after Mrs. Edith Stevens, companion in his enterprise, who was recently acquitted of bootlegging.

SUBWAY BREAK CAUSES JAM.

Interborough Switches Expresses to Local Tracks at Times Square.

Mechanical trouble on a southbound Interborough subway express at the Times Square station necessitated the switching of express trains following to the local tracks and caused a congestion in traffic of fourteen minutes during the height of the morning rush hour yesterday. The accident took place at 8:54 and at 9:08 machinists had repaired the damage sufficiently to enable the train to proceed to a side track.

At the Interborough offices it was said that the trouble was caused by a break in a coupling of a West Farm express just as it was drawing into the Times Square station. According to the report to the Transit Commission, considerable congestion resulted at the Times Square, Pennsylvania and Fourteenth Street stations, passengers reaching downtown by local trains and express running on the local tracks.

WOMEN SAY BROKER KEPT THEIR MONEY

Wolff Was to Pick the Stocks and Retain a Third of the Profits, if Any.

PHILADELPHIA HIS BASE

Judge Manton in the Federal Court yesterday appointed Edward J. McCrossin receiver for Maurice M. Wolff, who was described as a dealer in listed securities, after the filing of a petition in involuntary bankruptcy by three women, who charged that they had given him money to invest in securities which "had never been received or delivered." The petitioners were Mrs. C. Belle Stanton, Mrs. Effie D. Walter and Mrs. Lelia Thompson, all of Philadelphia.

Archibald Palmer, counsel for the three women, said he thought that Wolff's liabilities were about $200,000 and his assets about $35,000. The papers disclosed that Wolff maintained offices in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Wilmington and Rochester. Wolff had no office in this city, but is said to have traded in stocks through four brokerage firms in the Wall Street district.

Wolff lived at 246 West Fifty-first Street, according to Mr. Palmer, who said that an effort was being made to get hold of his books and to learn if he had any assets with the brokerage firms here. Mrs. Stanton alleged in the petition that she had invested $1,500 with Wolff and the other two petitioners said that they had given him $500 each, for which they had received no accounting.

Made Customers Sign Contract.

"From the brief investigation I have been able to conduct into Wolff's method of doing business," Mr. Palmer said, "I learned that he advertised in newspapers in the cities where he maintained offices offering to make investments for customers, providing they signed a contract giving him authority to trade in any stock he selected, and receiving one-third of the profits, if there were any. I am endeavoring to learn what stock he purchased for his customers under this plan and the total of these investments."

J. J. Doran, a postal inspector, said yesterday that some time ago Wolff, accompanied by a man named Thomas and another man, called on him and asked him to tell the other two men that Wolff was not connected with a finance corporation under investigation by the postal authorities. Doran said that Wolff's name had not been mentioned in that connection, but he then questioned him about his own business. Wolff, he said, agreed to send him a copy of the contract which he used with customers. Doran said he received a copy of the contract from Wolff on Monday and that it stipulated that Wolff was to "operate and maintain" the signer's account "for the purpose of buying and selling on margin securities traded in on the New York Stock Exchange, in consideration of one-third of the net profits." It further stipulated that the signer had the privilege of withdrawing his account at any time after giving Wolff thirty days' notice.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—Hugo Stinnes has come out openly with a campaign to compass Chancellor Wirth's fall in the near future. The Stinnes organs and allied journals have opened a drumfire on Wirth. The principal charge is that Germany is suffering from an utter lack of leadership. The prophecy is made that the Cabinet will be reorganized in October, and that Wirth will undoubtedly go, and not voluntarily.

There is every evidence of a big political intrigue to oust Wirth and his closest political friends and to replace them by Stinnes's men. The Tägliche Rundschau, recently bought by Stinnes, publishes fulsome praise of Stinnes for the sterling qualities of leadership he has shown.

Surrogate Cohalan decided yesterday that in conformity with the will of William F. Armstrong, who lived at 118 West Fifty-seventh Street at the time of his death, the Kings County Trust Company, as executor under his will, shall turn over $529,524 to Wesleyan University as the residue of his estate.

Concerning a request that the Court construe parts of the will making bequests to the children of Jessie Armstrong Thompson, Carrie F. Talmage and Belle Gramm, the Surrogate decided that the shares of these children are to be paid now regardless of the possibility that other children may be born, because these children are now more than 21 years of age.

Soviet Sentences Five to Death.

RIGA, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—The Soviet officials at Semipalatinsk, Asiatic Russia, have sentenced five persons to death and twenty-three to terms of imprisonment for connection with the recent counter-revolutionary plot in Pavlodar, in the Government of Semipalatinsk. A woman teacher was among those sentenced to death.

SEES LAW IGNORED BY ELECTION BOARD

NO FUNDS IS EXCUSE GIVEN

Cost Would Not Exceed $50,000 a Year, He Says—Cites Miller's Power to Remove.

The Board of Elections has ignored a provision of the Elections law requiring the board "to keep a record of the persons who by reason of death, removal, conviction or otherwise, have lost the right to vote from the address from which they were registered in the last preceding general election," according to A. S. Gilbert, Special Deputy in charge of the Bureau to Prevent Election Frauds, established in connection with the Attorney General's office under a statute enacted last year.

The provision quoted is one of many amendments to the Election law, enacted in the course of a general revision of that statute by the present Legislature. Mr. Gilbert stated last night, however, that there was not the slightest chance that the board might have overlooked its existence, for he had called the attention of the board repeatedly in letters and personal conversation to the new statutory duty with which the Commissioners have been charged.

Mr. Gilbert made public last night a letter he sent to the board yesterday calling attention to the fact that he had failed to receive even an acknowledgment of two earlier communications upon the same subject.

"In a conference with your board, held at your office sometime ago, I was informed that no effort had been made to prepare such a list and that no such list was available," he wrote.

"The Legislature, as the result of many years' experience with the Election law and after a very full investigation, deemed it wise that this list be prepared and kept by your board and by the Chief of Police in other cities and by the Sheriff in other counties. Its usefulness in investigating the registration, which will begin on Oct. 9 next, is apparent. It may well be that to do the work required by statute at this time will require the appointment of a number of temporary clerks, but I do not see how that can be avoided. The obligation is imposed on you by statute, the work is necessary and must be done."

According to Mr. Gilbert, the Election Commissioners pleaded inability to comply with the requirements of the law because they had no funds to gather and make available the information. Mr. Gilbert said that in his opinion the cost would not exceed $50,000 a year if the work was done systematically, but that to gather the necessary information now in the short time that intervenes before the registration of voters in this city is scheduled to begin may prove more costly.

"What remedy have you in the event the board should fail to get you the information?" Mr. Gilbert was asked.

"One way would be mandamus proceedings, but that doesn't really get you anywhere," he replied. "Of course, Governor Miller has the power to remove the board. But I have no desire to harass the Election Commissioners. All I want is the information which I urgently require in order to enable me to perform my duty in the Bureau to Prevent Election Frauds."

RULING IS SETBACK TO WISE.

Disqualifies Candidates for Tammany Committee in Eight Districts.

Ex-Alderman Augustus Wise suffered a partial setback in his fight to win back the Tammany leadership in the Thirteenth Assembly District, from Andrew B. Keating, the present leader, through a decision rendered yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Burr, disqualifying his candidates for places on the Tammany Hall General Committee in the 2d, 6th, 9th, 14th, 28th, 29th and 32d election districts of the Thirteenth, on the ground that the nominating petitions were not adequate.

Justice Burr sustained the right of the Wise candidates in the First, Seventh and Thirty-eighth Election Districts, so that with a decision in favor of the former Alderman by Justice Marsh of the Supreme Court, relating to the candidates in thirty-one other election districts, he will have the names of his candidates on the primary ballot in thirty-four election districts altogether.

Justice Burr also upheld the action of the Board of Elections in throwing out the nominating petitions of three candidates for membership in the Democratic County Committee from the Fifty-eighth Election District of the Twenty-third Assembly District—Irene Bunyea, John Donovan and Morris Perlman.

GERMAN CONSUMERS FIGHT DOLLAR BASIS

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (Associated Press).—Dollar exchange was the subject of a concerted attack by German consumers today who protested against using the dollar as a basis for fixing domestic prices.

The initiative in the fight was taken by the Federation of Christian Workers, who presented a memorial to the Government which stated that confidence in the German mark was undermined when prices were fixed upon a dollar basis. The memorial pointed out that foreign countries could hardly be expected to have faith in the mark's value when this was so underestimated at home. The use of dollar exchange, the memorial explained, brought the dollar into an ever-increasing demand which made a consequent rise in its price.

Many buyers are stocking up on dollars in advance, owing to the uncertain market in other moneys. Retail prices have risen more rapidly than the rate of exchange, because the storekeepers have fixed their quotations on what they expect the new stocks to cost.

On the basis of these observations the Federation of Christian Workers demands the prompt issue of a decree forbidding the practice. The prohibition would apply not only to goods made from domestic products for domestic consumption, but also commodities used in Germany the production of which requires imported materials. On the other hand, it is demanded that export goods be strictly required to be quoted on the basis of the currency of the country to which they are shipped.

Minister of Economics Schmidt expresses himself as opposed to the decision recently adopted by the Price Regulation Board of Greater Berlin to the effect that retailers may fix prices on the basis of prospective costs of stock replacements. The board's decision has been endorsed by the Women's Association of Household Shoppers. Herr Schmidt holds that prices should be based on the actual costs of supplies and expenses of operating, including costs of production officially recognized as permissible and justifiable.

Bill to Spare Animals in Research.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—A bill designed to prevent the sacrifice of domestic animals in army and navy research work was introduced today by Representative Johnson, Republican, of Washington. Specifically it would prohibit officers, enlisted men and civilian employes from using any noxious substances upon the body or tissue of such animals in attempting to establish the efficacy of any gas, liquid or powder.

Lynbrook to Apply a Gag If Taxi Men Get Too Noisy

LYNBROOK, L. I., Sept. 12.—Taxicab drivers are forbidden in a ruling adopted last night by the Board of Trustees from making loud cries in soliciting passengers.

President Philip Sauderman was authorized to revoke the hacking licenses of any drivers who annoy the neighborhood with their shouts.

CITY MOVES TO STOP PUSHCART 'GRAFT'

Supervisors Will Hereafter Be Paid From Treasury, Says Commissioner of Accounts.

CALLS WRIT BLOW TO POOR

Will Cost Taxpayers $500,000, Hirshfield Fears—"Against Open-Air Peddler," He Adds.

David Hirshfield, Commissioner of Accounts, announced yesterday that hereafter pushcart supervisors will be paid out of the City Treasury, instead of paying themselves from the money collected from peddlers. In this way the Mayor will conform to the injunction handed down by Supreme Court Justice Cropsey against the old method, under which, it was alleged, the supervisors collected upwards of $500,000 a year.

"It is unfortunate that in these days of commercialism," said Commissioner Hirshfield, "no one seems to have a thought for the poor, while God, in His wisdom, for reasons of His own, has created many poor and only few rich. The Hylan administration is the first administration which recognized the principle that the rich can take care of themselves, but the poor must be protected against the few unscrupulous, extremely wealthy who are constantly seeking to get more.

"When these markets were established, the City Administration, having the tax and rent payers' interests in mind, wisely determined to first try out these markets and find out what success they would be before committing the city to the expenditures of large sums of money in connection with said markets. Under the system condemned by Justice Cropsey the city assumed no obligation whatever to pay supervisors or to keep the markets clean. If the market paid, the supervisor got paid, and if the market did not pay the supervisor's job did not pay. All the city contributed was the gutter and the curb where the peddler stands with his cart.

"Under the Cropsey decision, in order to maintain these markets for the benefit of the people, it will be necessary to appoint supervisors and other employes at regular salaries. The city will have to obligate itself to the extent of about $500,000 a year and depend upon the final success of these markets for the return of the money. It would have been more advantageous for the city had these markets been permitted to continue as they were until fully tried out.

"Can I am told that the day Justice Cropsey issued the injunction against the open-air peddler, there was great rejoicing in the ranks of the food profiteers and the so-called pushcart peddlers' association Presidents. They assumed that this decision wiped out with one stroke of the pen the city's supervision over these markets and restored the old conditions under which the peddler had to pay rent to storekeepers, bribe janitors and dishonest policemen, and be robbed by the self-appointed czar over the peddlers.

"As I view Justice Cropsey's injunction decision, he does not attack the legality of these markets, or the collection of the weekly fee of $1 from each peddler. The Justice simply finds fault with the disposition of the money collected. Therefore, the only thing required to continue these markets is to make some provision for the payment of the supervisors from the city's treasury, which will be done.

"Mayor Hylan is determined that the people of the City of New York shall have an opportunity to live as cheaply as the supply of food warrants. No injunction, no District Attorney's political Grand Jury investigation or any other method of interference will prevent the Mayor from carrying out his purpose of protecting the men, women and children of the city against the food profiteers and their representatives."

Acting upon the request of Mayor Hylan, who is in the Catskills, Acting Mayor Hulbert issued a call yesterday for a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen next Thursday to consider the application of Edwin J. O'Malley, Commissioner of Markets, for the establishment of grades of positions of Market Supervisor.

FINISHES MARKET INQUIRY.

The taking of testimony by the Kings County Grand Jury in its investigation into conditions in the public markets of Brooklyn ended yesterday. District Attorney John E. Ruston refused to state whether he expected the Grand Jury to return indictments. It is expected that the Grand Jury will be ready to present its report to the County Court next week.

Mr. Ruston said that he had no reply to make to the letter sent to him by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, stating that he (Hirschfield) would not continue further with his investigation of the Department of Public Markets until he received word from Mr. Ruston concerning the investigation before the Kings County Grand Jury.

"What that man does or does not do is a matter of supreme indifference to me," said Mr. Ruston.

COLUMBIA CHINESE COURSES

Professor Lucius C. Porter, Dean of Arts and Sciences in the National University of Peking, will join the faculty of Columbia University for the new academic year which begins Sept. 27, as head of the department of Chinese, the scope of which will be greatly broadened under his direction, it was announced at the university yesterday. Courses in the civilization, literature and language of China as well as its art, religion and philosophy will be open to all students of the university.

During the Winter session, a seminar conducted by Professor Porter will take up the Far Eastern question, studying the history of China's relations with Russia, Siberia, Japan and Korea, and the development of foreign interests in Manchuria, leading up to the present problem of this region and its connection with the wider international problems of today.

Professor Porter will discuss in the second semester of the course the social, economic and intellectual movements of China during the last thirty years. Other courses will embrace the earliest history of the Chinese people, the geography of the country, the political development of the race and the growth of Chinese thought and culture.

Two courses in the Chinese language, elementary and advanced, will be given by T. C. Tung under the department of university extension. Mr. Tung will also give a lecture course on Chinese civilization, supplemented by visits to the museums.

FEARS TARIFF WILL JUMP CLOTHES COST

The uncertainty as to the effect the new tariff will have on the business of the country was commented upon by Anselm Frankel of Des Moines, President of the National Retail Clothiers' Association, in formally opening the ninth annual convention of the association in Madison Square Garden yesterday. Mr. Frankel was inclined to be pessimistic for, he said, while no one could tell what might be its actual workings, it appeared that it was likely to bring a period of low prices for farm products and a still further increase in the price of clothing.

President Frankel expressed the hope that in conference a lower rate on wool may be adopted by the tariff conferees. He said he favored a non-partisan tariff commission of experts who would not be affected by political changes in Government. In discussing trade conditions, he said that officials of the National Association on several trips to Washington produced evidence that statements that clothiers were not economic were untrue and this was proved in the report of a Congressional committee. This report, he continued, had brought out that the retail clothiers of the United States made a net profit of only $1.13 on every $100 worth of business transacted in 1921.

Favors Permanent Tariff Commission.

"Congress is just putting the finishing touches to a new law fixing the future rates of duties on imports," he said. "This is the first tariff legislation since the war, except the emergency tariff. It might have been expected that it would take into account the many changes brought about by the war, economic relation to the rest of the world, including the fact that our country, in years past the greatest borrowing nation in the world, has now become the greatest lending country. It might have been expected that it would take into account the fact that Europe owes the United States something like $15,000,000,000, partly in the form of public debts owed our Government and in the form of private debts owed our bankers and investors. However, this new tariff law does not take these things into account. On the other hand, it may be the highest protective tariff we have ever had. It makes no concession to the theory that if Europe is to pay us the money it owes, it would be wise on our part to facilitate the payment of these debts in goods rather than gold.

"Most of our economists, the bankers and the majority of business men of the country hold this theory unsound. Many believe that the changes brought into America's international relations by the war call upon us to abandon the policy of high protection against imports. These elements, however, seemed to be overridden.

"In the spirit of extreme protection the forces dominant in making the new tariff have gone so far as to inject a mechanism not used in any tariff heretofore and known as 'the American valuation' plan. It goes upon the theory of estimating the duties on the basis of the value of imported goods at the time they reach America, and in terms of American money. The actual working out of the American valuation cannot be foretold accurately, but no one anticipates that in its operation it will make the new tariff materially less high.

"The question which now arises is, how the new tariff will be received by the public; how its operation will affect the cost of living and other economic aspects of the country, and what will be the ultimate result.

"I have always felt that we should have a permanent, nonpartisan Tariff Commission, composed of scientific and practical men who would not be affected by any changes of political parties, and vested with power to fix schedules. This Tariff Commission is well worth trying. If it does not work well nothing is easier than to modify or repeal it. The taxation of special interests and particular industries to tariff legislation should be made as public as possible. No Congressman or Senator should place himself in a position whereby the people should be charged with having privately persuaded or convinced respecting any schedule or item. All cards should be exposed, with lobbying and log rolling discouraged.

"It has always been a principle of our Association to refrain from stepping into political situations. But believing it our duty to inform the membership as to what probable effect the new duty on wool would have on goods sold by them, two bulletins were issued and sent to all members, giving them definite information and opinions concerning prices in case the rates proposed are finally enacted into law. It is hoped that in the conference a lower rate on wool will be agreed upon."

Copeland Welcomes Delegates.

Health Commissioner Dr. Royal S. Copeland spoke in the absence of Mayor Hylan welcoming the delegates to New York City. The Commissioner said that he said to the theory that good clothes were an aid to good health because they make for self-respect and the well-dressed man "throws out his chest, holds up his head and is more vigorous."

"Why Education Is Better Than Legislation," was the subject of an address by Irving S. Paull, secretary of the Joint Congressional Commission of the Agricultural Inquiry. He said that the retailers were gradually taking less profits and he illustrated his remarks with charts from the commission's archives in Washington. In 1913 the retailer, with operating costs of 26.23 cents, made a profit of 9.16 cents on each dollar. In 1918 operating costs had mounted and the retailer was satisfied with 9 cents profit on a dollar, Mr. Paull said. In 1921 he gave 75 cents' worth of merchandise with an operating cost of about 24 cents and his profit was 1.13 on each dollar. He said that in May, 1920, the farmer's dollar was worth only 53 cents, based on the value of the same dollar in 1913. The people, the speaker continued, have been so much concerned with production that they have not studied distribution and other factors that enter into the cost of an article.

Mr. Paull traced on a chart the course taken by wool from the sheep's back to the back of the consumer, showing the various hands through which it passes, the transportation system by which it is handled, the cleaner, dyer, &c., and said the public would hardly complain at the small profits the retailer received if it was educated as to the processes through which it passes. He said the real problem to the retailer is in his operating expenses. Great waste in the retail clothing trade comes from idle merchandise lying on the shelves in the wholesale houses, Mr. Paull said.

Earl C. Lehman, President of the National Men's Apparel Clubs, which are composed of traveling salesmen, brought a greeting from his organization, and told the delegates they were always willing to co-operate with the retail clothiers.

The business sessions were interspersed with lighter things. An unexpected boxing bout was held on the stage, and a cake was presented on the stage to Fred Volland of Topeka, Kan., who is celebrating today his fifty-first birthday.

ASKS REDUCTION ON PULLMAN TICKETS

Enactment of the Robinson bill for the elimination of the surcharge on Pullman tickets as being a needless burden on commercial travelers was urged by Alfred Fantl yesterday in a letter addressed to Congressman Ogden Mills. Mr. Fantl declared the surcharge an onerous imposition on the American public for the exclusive benefit of the railroads, the effects of which are evident in business activities by the lack of personal interchange of trade information and ideas, the telephone and telegraph having been utilized by business men instead of their paying the excessive surcharge.

"Representing the buying activities of more than 100 stores, located in as many important cities of the United States, with a total yearly sales volume of $400,000,000," says Mr. Fantl, "it has been my observation that both the Interchangeable Mileage Book act, signed by President Harding on Aug. 18, and Senate bill 3,090 now pending eliminating the Pullman surcharge are essential to the restoration of normal business conditions.

"The surcharge is in no sense a Government tax, and in no manner inures to the advantage of the Government or the people. Now that the railroads have been authorized to increase their regular mileage charges to the full limit needed for their profitable operation, there remains not the slightest excuse for this 10 per cent. surcharge, which is imposed directly on one class of citizens for the exclusive advantage of another class.

"Largely and directly contributing to the paralysis of the last two years has been the all-important factor of too costly transportation over a country which, above all else, relies on its transportation facilities for interchange of ideas, as well as merchandise. Producers, crowded with prohibitive mileage, plus Pullman surcharges, have been forced to restrict the activities of their traveling sales forces. Merchants compelled to sell their goods at prices barely providing a living profit have either kept their buyers from the wholesale markets or have unduly limited the number of trips made.

"The Pullman surcharge necessarily becomes an overhead to be passed on to the consumer. Thus, while ultimately the American people have been robbed for the profit of the railroads, the effect of the extortion, in its progress from commission to disposal of the loot, has been to paralyze the very activities by which the people must prosper, if they are to prosper at all."

Mr. Fantl then goes on to point out that by lack of interchange of information intimate, and often vital, details of trade are lost when the barred to any series of trade arrangements can no longer meet face to face, owing to the high cost of mileage and the Pullman surcharge.

"Under these conditions," he concludes, "when all business and industry so urgently need liberation from trammels imposed neither by justice nor necessity, I consider it a duty to ask your to expedite by every means at your command passage of a bill which appears well and ably framed to do away with a surcharge on travel that is a harsh burden on trade and an iniquity now too long endured by the American people."

GRAND TRUNK KEEPS PAY UP

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—The Grand Trunk Railway today agreed to continue the wage scale for clerks, freight handlers, roundhouse and station employes which was in effect on July 20, 1922, while the mediation hearings are being held before the Canadian Conciliation Board.

The agreement was made, a statement issued by the road said, in the interests of harmony among the men but "without prejudice to our case before the conciliation board." The wage hearings affect 7,000 men on the company's payroll.

Members of railway shopmen's unions from all over Canada today wired headquarters that they are ready to obey a strike call, according to Secretary Dickie, and most of them said they would stop work immediately after they had received notice.

At the same time it was believed the railroads would be willing to renew negotiations with the shopmen over the wage dispute which has caused the difficulty. It was said today that the roads were willing to follow the request of the Minister of Labor made yesterday that they meet shopmen's leaders to discuss conditions and seek to reach an agreement.

Spring Lines of Shirts.

Opening of Spring lines by shirt manufacturers is expected to take place generally around Oct. 1. At the present time the men are on the road with their "holiday lines," including silks and novelties largely intended for the Christmas trade. It is not believed this business will be taken care of until the close of the present month. Furthermore, the manufacturers are delaying the showing in order to sound out the opinions of retailers who are here to attend the convention at Madison Square Garden. It is said that orders of shirts for Fall delivery booked at the Garden have been of good proportions.

Sales Will Take Six Days.

Six days will be required to dispose of the skins to be put under the hammer at the annual Fall sale of raw furs that will begin in the Masonic Hall here on Sept. 25. The entire offering will go "on show" in the warehouse of the New York Auction Company, Inc., 556 West Thirty-sixth Street, on Monday next, with the exception of the rabbit pelts from the Antipodes. These will be displayed at 212 West Twenty-sixth Street. Due to the amount of interest shown in the entire offering, it will be displayed two days longer than is usually the case preceding a sale. Following the usual custom, the most wanted skins will be auctioned at the opening and closing sessions of the sale, which will begin with an offering of about 1,300 white fox and close with a collection of 125,000 squirrel. J. Gordon Noakes will be the auctioneer.

Poiret Twills Dominate.

Poiret twill, the leader of fabrics used in the ready-to-wear field for the last three seasons, is again rising into sharply defined prominence for the Spring of 1923. For use in the present season the fabric is at a premium, while orders placed for Spring have been of the heaviest. Efforts to supplant the cloth for tailored dresses and outer wraps with other fabrics have apparently been unavailing. Some of the garments which have been made up in so-called "newer" fabrics proved desirable to buyers as to style, but in a large number of instances they were ordered in Poiret twills, the efforts to promote a new fabric thus proving fruitless. Among the advantages which have been contributing factors to the sustained vogue of these fabrics is their draping value, the ability to hold tailored lines, and the quality of the "bloom."

Wish They Would Start Buying.

If rubbing a magic lamp would give them whatever they wished for, the chances are about 100 to 1 that selling agents and knit goods commission merchants would wish that the jobbers would quit puttering around with their buying for Fall underwear and get it over with. Things are pretty quiet in the local market nowadays and little is expected to result from the meeting of southern knit goods jobbers that is to be held here on Thursday because there are so few of them in town. There is a big business in this merchandise yet to be done, but the wholesalers continue to hold off. The strength of cotton apparently means nothing to them, nor do the difficulties the manufacturers will face with half a season's orders dropped on them in a bunch at practically one time. The demand for Spring stuff is nil.

For the convenience of the office worker and others who use glue or mucilage a new type of container in the form of a pencil has been placed on the market. The "pencil" is about five inches long and may be carried in the vest pocket comfortably, and it is claimed, without fear of leakage. At one end of the contrivance is a small ball, which, on being pressed to the surface that is to receive the glue, permits the fluid to flow on it in small drops. When the pressure is withdrawn the ball goes back and the flow is stopped. At the other end a screw cap is provided, through which the supply of glue or mucilage may be removed. The article is obtainable in either nickel or gilt finish. It retails for 25 cents. For counter display the "pencils" are being packed attractively in boxes of one dozen.

What's in a Name?

Among the queer things which have been noted in the textile field is that, apparently, it often does not matter what the exact nature of the fabric itself is as long as the name corresponds to or suggests what happens to be in vogue at the moment. Some time ago, according to a mill representative, a certain mill had a large amount of gabardines for women's wear on hand. Buyers simply would not hear of gabardines. Suddenly the mill was inspired to call the merchandise poiret twills and the fabric sold. Another instance was that of velours this representative claiming it was possible to sell almost any kind of a pile fabric, which may be slow in demand, as a velour and get away with it. Recently there was the case of prunellas, which were in poor demand with one mill. The ticket was changed to satin poiret and a marked improvement followed.

Women's Shoes Selling Freely.

More out-of-town buyers of women's shoes were said yesterday to have been in this market in the last few days than in any similar period previously in the last several months. They were further said to be buying quite freely for "at once" shipment, but to be concentrating their attention almost entirely on three styles of slippers. These are cross-strap, Colonial and wishbone effects. Some buying of side-lace strap effects is reported, but it apparently is not large. The favored material is patent leather, with black satin coming next. Bronze kid is in increasing demand, despite the higher cost of shoes brought out in that shade. Brown satin and otter (brown) ooze leather slippers also are moving quite well. Oxfords and high shoes for women are "dead," from all accounts, and there is apparently no call for tan footgear. In certain quarters, due to the coming of longer skirts, a good run on plain opera pumps in the near future is predicted.

Printcloths Lead in Gray Goods.

Printcloths were far and away the most active fabrics in the local gray goods market yesterday. Large business was reported on 39-inch 68-72s at 9¾ cents for spot and September deliveries, with some sales of that construction made for next month at 9⅞ cents. Sellers were asking 10 cents for them at the close for deliveries through November and December. Good-sized sales were also reported on 38½-inch 64-60s, which were said to be all cleaned up at 8⅜ cents for shipment through the last quarter of the year. A few lots of 38½-inch 64-56s were reported sold for the last quarter at 8⅜ cents. Spot quick deliveries 38½-inch 60-48s brought 7¾ cents. In the sheetings, business was done on the basis of 9¾ cents for 37-inch 48-square, four-yard cloths, with 7¼ cents paid for 36-inch 5.50s. Not much was reported in drills. Sateens were firmly held at the advance, with trading limited by the small amount of goods available for late shipment.

Await Renewal of Buying.

Coat and suit manufacturers are eagerly awaiting the renewal of buying interest, which they expected would materialize at the beginning of the current week. The buying following the Labor Day holiday was of a lighter nature than was anticipated. Inasmuch as the retailers generally have covered only a small portion of their Fall requirements, manufacturers figure that they should be in the market very soon. The way buying has developed thus far has placed the manufacturers in a very disadvantageous position, since their production costs are higher in proportion to the actual volume of merchandise sold. The outlook for the next month or so, according to representative manufacturers is that buying will come in "streaks," strongly concentrated for a short time, then falling off, only to be renewed later, in reaction to consumer sales. Some manufacturers have again sent men on the road for Fall in order to stimulate business.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The irregular reaction in yesterday's stock market did not indicate any change in the general situation or any new turn in the financial or industrial news. It appeared to represent the kind of halt which comes at frequent intervals in a more or less speculative upward movement, accompanied by realizing sales on the one hand, and on the other by efforts of speculators for the decline to test the market. Such pressure is undoubtedly applied on the theory that Autumn revival of business may be retarded more than had been expected, or that the problem of fuel distribution may turn out to be more troublesome than was hoped, or that political occurrences may again become disturbing. All these are debatable considerations, but no more so than they were a week or a fortnight ago. As for the "rumors of receiverships," it was inevitable after the Alton episode, even though the case of that company in the matter of unpaid current liabilities was peculiar to itself, that such reports should be circulated on a day of Stock Exchange reaction.

In some respects, the bond market was a point of greater interest yesterday; not less so from the firmness in the foreign loans, which have for some time and for various reasons been in relative disfavor. Recurrence during August of the talk, familiar a year ago, of a "ruined" or "bankrupt" Europe could hardly have failed to cause hesitation among investors, and incidents such as the unlucky experiment with the Jugo-slavian loan undoubtedly helped to chill such enthusiasm in this branch of the investment market as had been created last Spring. Any renewal of interest in the foreign loans would have its basis, first in the ending of the panicky mood into which Europe itself fell temporarily during August, but, second, in the continuing rise of prices for domestic securities.

Last Spring, the activity and strength of that part of the bond market was encouraged by the action of foreign exchange rates, which then reached the high point of the period. The subsequent reaction in exchange has been considerable and most of the rates declined again yesterday; even sterling going to the lowest since the opening of August. It is less easy than usual to discover the actual cause and meaning of such a movement, when the circumstances of the coming season would naturally increase the trade obligations of foreign countries to the United States. Not only are the shipments of our agricultural products always largest in the Autumn, but this year we have to reckon with a European wheat crop much smaller than last year's, with American cotton exports whose price is well above that of 1921, and ultimately with the British Government's plans for paying its current obligations to our Treasury. These considerations may have influenced exchange rates, without reference to a favorable or unfavorable trend in European politics. How and to what extent the proposed Tariff bill would affect international exchange, no one is prophesying. Purely from the economic viewpoint, the pending measure sometimes suggests the throwing of a stone into a delicate economic mechanism.

The most noteworthy fact about the foreign trade returns of Great Britain for August, published yesterday by the Board of Trade, is again the reduction as compared with recent years in the monthly surplus of imports. That excess was slightly larger in August than in July, but it fell £12,000,000 below August, 1921, and the import surplus for the eight completed months is £70,400,000 less than a year ago and £154,300,000 less than in the same months of 1920. Such a change must necessarily have had a hand in the rise of sterling exchange. It can hardly be said, however, to indicate revival in England's foreign trade, when the reduction from last year's surplus of imports was achieved only to the extent of £8,700,000 through expansion in export of British products, whereas the eight months' import trade was cut down £89,200,000.

MONEY.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 12, 1922.

Call money on Stock Exchange opened and remained at 4 per cent., at which rate most of the day's new funds were placed, but as on Monday the final hour witnessed stiffening to 4½. Time money continues quiet, a moderate amount of 90-day money being placed at 4½ per cent., which is likewise bid for four-five months, but lenders' rate is 4¾. Commercial paper brokers report market dull and narrow over range of 4@4½ per cent., with most names discounting at 4¼.

Money at London unchanged at 2 per cent., short bills unchanged at 2½@2⅝ per cent., three months' bills unchanged at 2½@2⅝ per cent.

Gold bullion up 1d. at 92s. 6d. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounce as par, the market quotation for gold would represent a price of 108⅞ at London. On the same basis the highest London price for gold for the year to date was 112⅝, on Jan. 5. The highest price since open trading in gold was resumed at London in September, 1919, was 119¾, on Feb. 8, 1920; the lowest, 107⅝, on June 7, 1922.

Clearing House Exchanges.

Exchanges of checks at the New York Clearing House, $789,100,000; balances, $52,200,000; Federal Reserve Bank credit balance, $35,850,000; a year ago, $636,100,000.

SILVER BULLION.

EXTENDS TIME LIMIT IN I. R. T. BOND PLAN

90% ALREADY TURNED IN

Interborough Consolidated Securities to Be Bought Up for Benefit of Holders.

Grayson M. P. Murphy, as head of the committee representing the holders of the Interborough-Metropolitan 4½% per cent. bonds, yesterday announced to holders of the bonds and to holders of certificates of deposit of this issue, that an extension of time for the deposit of bonds under the agreement had been made to and including Oct. 7. It is stated that more than 90 per cent. of the bonds have been deposited, but it is desired to give any bondholders who have not deposited their securities an opportunity to participate in purchase of the stock pledged to secure the bonds.

This stock is to be sold at auction Oct. 9, and it is the intention of the committee to bid for the stock, using in payment the deposited bonds. In addition to Mr. Murphy the members of the bondholders committee are John McHugh, Charles A. Peabody, Charles H. Sabin, Charles S. Sargeant Jr. and Frederick Strauss.

The statement issued yesterday reads as follows:

"The stock of Interborough Rapid Transit Company, pledged to secure the above-mentioned bonds, is to be sold at public auction on Oct. 9, 1922, by James R. Sheffield, trustee in bankruptcy of Interborough Consolidated Corporation, under a decree of the United States District Court and the trust agreement securing these bonds. It is the purpose of the committee to bid for this stock for the benefit of its then depositors, using in payment the deposited bonds.

"While more than 90 per cent. of the bonds have been deposited with the committee, which is more than the amount necessary to enable it to bid for said stock and to consummate the plan of readjustment dated May 1, 1922, so far as these bonds are concerned the committee desires to give bondholders who have delayed their deposits, an opportunity to participate in the benefits of any purchase of said stock by the committee and of the plan of readjustment.

"To that end the committee has granted a final extension of the time for the deposit of bonds, and for the presentation of certificates of deposits to the depositary for notation of election to subscribe for the new notes to be issued under the plan, to and including Oct. 7, 1922.

"The committee again calls attention to the marked advantage to depositors of exercising the option to purchase new Interborough notes rather than surrender 60 per cent. of their bonds. Over 95 per cent. of the depositors have exercised the first option. Depositors who have not already done so are, therefore, urged to avail themselves of this final extension by presenting their certificates to the depositary for notation of their election to purchase new notes."

By stipulation between all parties to the litigation, Judge Julius M. Mayer, in United States District Court, yesterday adjourned until Sept. 26 the applications for the appointment of a receiver for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. Two such applications are pending, one by the American Brake Shoe & Foundry Company, and the other by the Continental Securities Company.

The adjournment was understood to have been taken to permit the Interborough to try to obtain the consent of various security holders to its reorganization plan which calls for the readjustment of its lease of the elevated lines from the Manhattan Railway Company, and the extension of its issue of $28,000,000 in notes, about $9,000,000 of which have not been filed for extension.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Sterling dropped ½ cent to $4.45⅝. Paris checks sagged to 7.63½ cents from 7.66⅛, while lire yielded to 4.26 cents from 4.31, and at this level but a few points above record low for year. Marks, guilders and pesetas were in supply, with Scandinavians firm.

In the subjoined table the quotation on sterling represents dollars and decimals of a dollar; all others represent cents and decimals of a cent. Quotations preceded by the decimal mark indicate a price measured in fractions of a cent.

OFFERS $50,000,000 SWIFT & CO. NOTES

$5,000,000 OREGON ISSUE

City of Buffalo Puts Out $3,580,000 Bonds, to Yield From 3.85 to 3.80 Per Cent.

An issue of $50,000,000 ten-year 5 per cent. sinking fund gold notes of Swift & Co., Chicago packers, will be offered today at 97, to yield 5.40 per cent., by a banking syndicate composed of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, the First Trust and Savings Bank, the Merchants Loan and Trust Company, the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank and Harris, Forbes & Co. The proceeds of the note issue will be used to aid in the retirement of $40,000,000 7 per cent. gold notes, due Oct. 15, 1925, and $25,000,000 7 per cent. gold notes, due Aug. 15, 1931.

The notes are redeemable as a whole or in part at the option of the company on thirty days' notice, on payment of a premium of 2½ per cent. if redeemed during the year 1923, such premium decreasing one-quarter of 1 per cent. each succeeding year thereafter. Louis F. Swift, President of the company, in a letter to the bankers, made the following comment:

"These notes will be the direct obligation of Swift & Co., one of the largest and most successful companies in the world engaged in the production and sale of meats and their by-products. The authorized issued capital stock of the company amounts to $150,000,000, upon which dividends at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum are now being paid. The company has paid cash dividends without interruption for the last thirty-six years.

"During the twelve years ending Nov. 5, 1921, net earnings of Swift & Co. amounted to $141,725,549, of which amount $52,287,089—or over 36 per cent.—has been retained in the business.

"Annual net earnings available for interest and after providing for Federal and foreign taxes, for the five years ending Nov. 5, 1921, averaged $25,041,544 per year.

"Interest charges on the entire funded debt of the company, including this issue, will be $3,046,175 per year.

"Total sales of the company's products have increased from $250,000,000 in 1909 to over $800,000,000 in 1921.

"The trust indenture requires the maintenance of current assets to an aggregate amount equal to at least one and one-half times current liabilities, plus the outstanding notes of this issue, and provides that no new mortgage may be created against present assets and property.

"The financial statement of the company as of Nov. 5, 1921, and after giving effect to this financing, shows net tangible assets of $316,639,163, applicable to the total funded debt of $79,923,500, including this issue. Since Nov. 5, 1921, a substantial reduction has been made in liabilities."

Offers $5,000,000 Issue.

A syndicate composed of the Bankers Trust Co., the Guaranty Co. of New York, E. H. Rollins & Sons, Ames, Emerich & Co. and Marshall Field, Glore, Ward & Co., are offering a new issue of $5,000,000 State of Oregon 4 per cent. and 4½ per cent. Veterans' State Aid gold bonds. The 4 per cent. bonds are due $15,000 semiannually from Oct. 1, 1931, to April 1, 1951, inclusive, and are being offered at 99 and interest. The 4½ per cent. bonds are due $110,000 semiannually from Oct. 1, 1931, to April 1, 1951, inclusive, and are being offered at prices to yield about 4½ per cent.

GRAY NOT GOING TO CANADA.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 12.—Carl R. Gray, President of the Southern Pacific Railway, to whom was offered the Presidency of the Canadian National system, has refused the offer. This makes at least four persons who have refused a similar offer within the last three months.

Government ownership and operation is rapidly declining in popularity and in the present Federal Administration there is a powerful anti-Government ownership faction. These conditions make railway men of prominence hesitate to risk their reputations.

OMAHA, Sept. 12.—President Gray of the Union Pacific system today denied that he was to leave the Union Pacific to become head of the Canadian National lines. "I have not accepted nor am I considering any proposition from the Canadian National lines," he said. "I have no intention of leaving the Union Pacific system."

KANSAS STANDARD TO READJUST STOCK

BALANCE IS TRIPLE CAPITAL

Profit and Loss Surplus Is $6,768,000 and Book Value Is $438 a Share.

Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Kansas are contemplating readjustment of the company's capital stock along the lines of the plan recently announced by the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky, according to reports in the financial district yesterday. Credence was placed in the reports because of the advance of 40 points in Standard of Kansas stock from 525 to 565 on actual sales. The stock closed at 560.

If the plan is similar to that announced some time ago by the Kentucky company, there will be declared a stock dividend equal to 33 1-3 per cent. on the present $2,000,000 capital stock of $100 a share par value. Also it is contemplated, according to the report, to sell stock equal to 33 1-3 per cent. of the present capital at par $100 a share, and at the same time split up the capital stock into shares of $25 each, which will be exchanged on the basis of four shares of the new stock for each share of the old.

The general balance sheet of the Kansas Company at the close of 1921 showed a profit and loss surplus of $6,768,409 or an amount equal to more than three times the $2,000,000 capital outstanding. The book value of the stock on that date was calculated as being worth $438 against $152 in 1914.

Dividends at the rate of 24 per cent. were declared on the capital from 1917 to 1921 inclusive. From 1912 to 1916 the cash dividend ranged between 5 and 30 per cent. while in 1912 a stock dividend of 100 per cent. was declared, doubling the capital from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, the amount now outstanding. In 1921 earnings equal to only $11.24 a share were reported on the capital stock because of the sharp fluctuations in crude oil prices. In 1920 earnings equal to $150 a share were reported.

Buffalo, the second largest city in the State, is one of the most important commercial and manufacturing centers in the country. There are over two thousand manufacturing plants in the city with a combined capital of approximately four hundred million dollars and yearly production of about six hundred million dollars, employing over seventy-five thousand persons. The leading industries consist of manufactured steel and pig iron, milling, packing, automobile plants, lumber, live stock, copper refining, machine shops, foundries and textiles. The city has banking institutions with deposits amounting to nearly four hundred million dollars. Twelve railroads have terminals in or pass through the city while all of the large steamship transportation lines of the Great Lakes have a terminus at Buffalo.

These bonds are issued for various municipal improvements, as follows: Parks, Schools, Water, Sewer, Hospital, Grade Crossing, Creek and River Channel improvement, Fire Pipe Line and City Plan improvement. They constitute direct obligations of the entire City of Buffalo, payable from taxes against all taxable property therein.

Universal Winding Company

First Mortgage 7% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Series "A"

Dated July 1, 1922 — Due July 1, 1937

Interest payable January and July 1, without deduction for Normal Federal Income Tax up to 2%. Company also agrees to refund Connecticut and Pennsylvania 4 Mill Tax. Principal and interest payable at The New England Trust Company, Boston, Trustee, and interest payable in New York.

Callable as a whole or in part on any interest date at 107½, if redeemed on or prior to July 1, 1927; thereafter on or prior to July 1, 1928 at 105; and thereafter at 105 less ½ of 1% for each full year of expired life subsequent to June 30, 1928.

BUSINESS: This Company has been in successful operation for over 25 years, and its machines are used in practically every industrially developed country in the world. The Company's machines have been adapted for practically every important winding operation in the manufacture of cotton, worsted, woolen, silk, jute, etc., and also in the electrical field in connection with insulating wires and winding coils. Plant is located in Cranston, R. I., adjacent to Providence.

SECURITY: First mortgage on all present and future fixed assets (real estate, manufacturing plants and equipments patents, goodwill, etc.) owned by the Company. According to recent appraisal made by Lockwood, Greene & Co., Engineers, the physical assets have a replacement value new in excess of $3,000,000.

QUICK ASSETS: After giving effect to this financing, including the proposed sale of $250,000 par value of common stock, the Company will have no debt except for current bills and these bonds, and net quick assets in excess of $2,750,000.

EARNINGS: The Company's average annual net income for the past five calendar years, after deducting inventory losses, taxes paid (including Federal taxes) and liberal depreciation on the physical property, has been $346,000 per year, or substantially 2½ times the annual interest charges on this issue.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of these bonds and $250,000 Common Stock proposed to be sold for cash at par will be used to retire current liabilities incurred in large part for plant extensions and equipment, and to provide additional working capital.

EQUITY: These bonds will be followed by $805,200 par value 7% Preferred Stock and $1,500,000 par value Common Stock (including $250,000 proposed to be sold at par). Regular dividends have been paid on the 7% Preferred Stock since it was first issued, and uninterrupted dividends have been paid on the Common Stock since 1911, the present dividend rate being 6% per annum.

What It Costs To Sell You Stock

Most purchasers of highly speculative Oil and Oil Royalty Stocks and other so-called "investments" do not know that in many cases 25% of their money goes to the salesman and another 25% to the promoter.

It is obvious that the securities of a company which has to pay 50% to raise capital, are extremely hazardous for investors.

Contrast the dangerously heavy toll extracted from your pockets by venders of promotion stocks, with our charge of ½ of 1% for Guaranteeing You Absolutely Against Loss.

HAITI OFFERS LOAN OF $16,000,000 HERE

SECURED BY REVENUE LIEN

Bonds Bear 6 Per Cent. Interest and Are Authorized by Treaty of 1919.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Government of Haiti today issued a general invitation to American bankers to tender bids for a bond issue of $16,000,000, which is intended to form the first bloc of the $40,000,000 loan provided for in the protocol between Haiti and the United States concluded on Oct. 3, 1919.

Formal announcement of the invitation was made through the American State Department by Acting Secretary of State William Phillips, who made public the text of the invitation, issued through the American financial adviser to Haiti, John A. McIlhenny. Bids must be addressed to the financial adviser of the Republic of Haiti and sent in care of the Division of Latin-American Affairs of the State Department at Washington. They will be received and examined until 4 o'clock P. M. on Sept. 25.

The bonds will be designated Series A, will bear 6 per cent. interest, and will mature in 1952. The loan will be retired by purchases in the open market at not exceeding par or by annual drawings at par, and there will be a sinking fund sufficient to retire the entire issue before maturity. The Haitian Government reserves the right to retire the entire issue upon reasonable notice at any time after fifteen years from the date of issue. The bonds will be secured by a first lien on the internal revenues of the republic and a second lien on the customs revenues, subject only to the 5 per cent. allowance for the payment of the salaries and expenses of the general receiver of customs and the financial adviser.

Article VIII. of the protocol of Oct. 3, 1919, provides that the collection and allocation of revenues hypothecated for the service of the loan will remain under the control of an officer or officers appointed by the President of Haiti upon the nomination of the President of the United States during the life of the loan after the expiration of the treaty, so as to make certain that adequate provision will be made for the service of the loan.

As soon as the contract for the loan shall have been signed it shall be transmitted to the Government of Haiti to be sanctioned by the legislative body, in accordance with the Haitian Constitution. In the meantime it is understood, as made necessary by the existing situation, that immediately after the signing of the loan contract the bankers are authorized to proceed with the issuance of the bonds upon the market. The banker or the group of bankers who may have offered the highest price for the bonds will be declared the successful bidder and issue the bonds.

The principal purpose of the loan of $40,000,000 is to take advantage of the present situation of the exchange market in order to refund the French exterior loans of 1896 and 1910, amounting to about 87,023,425 francs. The balance remaining after extinction of the French loans will be employed, together with the issue of the internal bonds mentioned below, for the settlement of the interior debts and for the economic development of the country, public roads and schoolhouses.

For the purpose of refunding first the interior debt and then the floating debt and various claims, the Government of Haiti is also authorized to issue $5,000,000 of gold bonds, which will be known as Series B. They will be a distinct and separate issue from Series A. These bonds will also bear 6 per cent. interest and will be payable in thirty years. The interest and amortization will be paid in Haiti. Amortization will be accomplished in accordance with a table similar to that provided for Series A bonds. No further issue of the $40,000,000 provided for in the protocol is contemplated for the present.

The external debts and the funded internal debts of Haiti are now secured by portions of the customs and internal revenues. The refunding of these debts will free the income of the country from all present obligations and make possible the application of that income to the service of the present loan in accordance with the provisions of the treaty and the protocol.

The average income of the Republic of Haiti for the past six years is given in the invitation as $4,776,447.82 annually, while the revenues for the first eight months of the fiscal year 1921-1922 amount to $3,922,558.26.

Crex Carpet Reports $58,066 Deficit.

The Crex Carpet Company, for the year ended June 30, 1922, reports manufacturing profits of $327,916, against $359,756 in the previous fiscal year. After deducting all expenses and allowing for depreciation there was reported a deficit of $58,066, against net profits of $13,285 the year before. The profit and loss surplus on June 30 amounted to $662,377, against $735,417 at the close of the previous year.

OIL MEN NOT SATISFIED.

Deny That Mexican Article 27 Has Been Modified.

The retroactive and confiscatory features of Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution have not been settled to the satisfaction of American oil producers in Mexico, according to a statement issued by the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico, in connection with recent interviews published in Mexico to the effect that the oil companies have accepted Article 27. The statement follows:

"No construction which is satisfactory as relieving it of its retroactive and confiscatory features has as yet been placed upon Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution. Therefore, the attitude of the American oil companies regarding Article 27 remains unchanged and any statements to the contrary insofar as they purport to reflect the attitude of American oil companies are erroneous."

"The news published yesterday to the effect that the Chambers of Commerce had been consulted by the President in regard to the advisability of making certain changes in Article 27 of the Constitution has created considerable surprise. Article 27 has been generally accepted and is not objected to even by the oil companies who are the ones most interested in the matter. Secretary de la Huerta says the report is false, as this has not been considered by the Government. He denies the report that the oil men made any propositions for abrogation or changes in the article in question."

KEROSENE MAY GO HIGHER.

The usual Winter advance in kerosene prices has started several weeks earlier than in normal years, according to advices in local oil trade circles. Thus far advances during the last week have ranged between ¼ and ⅞ cent a gallon, but predictions are being made in the trade that the wholesale price will probably double before the Winter movement is at its height.

Kerosene in Pennsylvania is now selling at 7⅞ cents a gallon wholesale, against 7 cents last week. The mid-continent price is now 5¼ cents against 4¾ cents, while on the Gulf coast the price is 5½ cents strong, against 5¼ to 5⅝ cents last week.

Louisiana & N. W. Bond Redemptions.

Under the provisions of a voluntary sinking fund instituted by the Directors of the Louisiana & North West Railroad, by which 20 per cent. of net earnings applicable to dividends is set aside for bond redemptions, the company will receive at its office, 347 Madison Avenue, up to noon, Oct. 2, written orders for redemption of $12,000 of its first mortgage bonds. A quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. will be paid to stockholders of the road on Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 15.

CONNOLLY, TOO, HAS NEW TRANSIT PLAN

WILL OPEN FIGHT OCT. 2

Mayor Hylan's transit plan for the expenditure of $600,000,000 for new subway lines is likely to meet with opposition in the Board of Estimate. Information from the office of Maurice E. Connolly, Borough President of Queens, was that Mr. Connolly intended to make a fight against the Mayor's construction program beginning on Oct. 2, when a public hearing on the proposed Queens routes is scheduled before the board.

Since the Mayor's plan was made public, engineers of Mr. Connolly's office have been studying them at Mr. Connolly's direction. A report was submitted yesterday to the effect that out of the 126 miles of new subways proposed by the Mayor, Queens would get only twenty-eight and one-half miles, and these during the third five-year subdivision of the Mayor's fifteen-year construction period. One of the engineers was quoted as having said that during this fifteen-year period the taxpayers of Queens would have the privilege of sitting back and seeing every other section of the city getting additional transit facilities, while they were paying their share of the hundreds of millions of dollars the new lines benefiting other boroughs would cost.

Mr. Connolly declined to discuss the report of his opposition to the Mayor's plan, but, after receiving the report, directed the engineers of his staff, headed by Clifford B. Moore, consulting engineer, and Charles U. Powell, chief engineer of the Topographical Bureau, to prepare a transit plan which would give greater and more immediate benefits to Queens. This plan will be ready for presentation to the board on Oct. 2.

John H. Booth, President of the Jamaica Board of Trade, declared yesterday that the Mayor's plan was not fair to Queens and that some lines in the borough should be placed in the group to be constructed during the first five years of the building program.

United-Schulte Rumor Revived.

Reports were again circulated in Wall Street yesterday to the effect that the United Retail Stores Corporation, which is now controlled by the Tobacco Products Corporation, was negotiating for control of the Schulte Stores Corporation. This rumor has been in circulation in Wall Street off and on for several years. David A. Shulte yesterday said that he had nothing to say in connection with the report.

To Sell $2,225,000 Ramapo Ajax

Directors of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company yesterday formally ratified the plans for the formation of the Ramapo Ajax Corporation, which has acquired several iron and forging plants, and which will be operated as a subsidiary of Brake & Shoe. The sale of $2,225,000 first mortgage bonds of the Ramapo Company also was approved.

TO USE POISON GAS ON BOLL-WEEVIL

SENATOR DEFENDS TARIFF

A prediction that the boll-weevil ultimately would be eliminated as a menace to the cotton crop of the South by the use of poison gases developed during the war was made yesterday at the Chemical Show in the Grand Central Palace by Brig. Gen. Ames A. Fries, Chief of the Chemical Warfare Service of the army.

"One of the ways in which the ravages of war are going to be offset," said General Fries, "is by making use in peace of the knowledge of those poisonous compounds gained in the war. Insect and animal extermination is one of these. I mention the boll-weevil as an example.

"The Chemical Warfare Service has given some attention to that problem, and is now working to aid the Department of Agriculture in the work. The Chemical Warfare Service furnishes the expert knowledge of poisonous compounds, the knowledge of their characteristics, how to use them, how to manufacture, and how to defend human beings against them, if necessary. The Board of Agriculture combines this knowledge with its knowledge of the boll-weevil to find out which substance will be best.

Insects and Rodents Being Studied.

"That the boll-weevil will be exterminated I am certain. The length of time it will take for such control will depend in a large measure upon the funds available for increasing our knowledge of poisoning compounds and applying them to the solving of the problem of the boll-weevil. The loss to the cotton industry is rated at hundreds of millions a year, enough to support the Chemical Warfare Service for a century.

"There is another great economic problem to which some attention is being given, and that is the control of the teredo and limmoria destroying piling in sea water. We are attacking this problem from an entirely new viewpoint—the viewpoint of one who has always had poisonous compounds in mind and how to use them.

"The Chemical Warfare Service has worked with even greater success in destroying gophers, rats and other rodents so destructive to pastures and fields and which also carry fleas or other insects that may infest the body with bubonic plague. It is now engaged in a study with the Philippine authorities into the adaption of poisonous compounds to the destruction of locusts that cause great loss to crops in the Philippines."

Senator Ransdell Defends High Tariff.

"When the chemical schedule of the pending Tariff bill was under consideration," he said, "I worked actively for a high protective duty on all chemical products, as I believed them to be essential to the proper development and maintenance of the industry in our country.

"In urging highly developed chemical industries along all practical lines I must not be understood as advising them to produce more than a fair supply for the 120,000,000 persons of the continental United States and the 12,000,000 who live under our flag outside the continent. These are enough to support vast chemical plants, doing an immense business. Those industries should be satisfied with producing enough for home folks and those who form a constituent part of the nation, and not make the fatal mistake of tremendous overproduction, which caused Germany to fight the world and wrought her destruction.

"There is no better market than the United States and if our chemical manufacturers can retain that market by the high quality of their products, with the aid of the tariff, they should be satisfied. It should be no part of our program to run the rest of the nations out of business or off the world's markets."

C. R. DeLong, Chief of the Chemical Division of the Department of Commerce, told of the efforts of his department to aid chemical manufacturers in this country.

A large attendance at all the exhibits in the Palace was reported yesterday. One of the exhibits attracting much attention is that of the Pittsburgh experiment station of the Bureau of Mines, where fuel tests were made showing that fuel oil, mixed with fine coal in as large proportions as the coal will hold, increases the calorific value to such an extent that the practice is suggested to steam coal users and gas manufacturers to make their coal supply more efficient during coal shortage.

The meeting of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry is to be held in the Palace at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and speakers at the evening meeting at the show are to be Representative Arch E. Olpp and C. P. Smith, Assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who will discuss regulation of industrial alcohol.

The show will be open today from noon until 10:30 o'clock in the evening. The usual moving picture programs are to be run in the afternoon and evening.

Payments on M., K. & T. Stock Close

Yesterday was the final day for the last cash instalment of $5 a share on the common stock and $4 a share on the preferred stock of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway Company, according to an announcement by J. & W. Seligman & Co., and Hallgarten & Co., reorganization managers of the railroad. This applies to all stock deposited with the Equitable Trust Company of New York. Participation warrants issued for deposited stock must be presented at the time of payment of the cash instalment for the proper notation thereon.

LOCATES EXTENSION STATION

With the approval of residents of the section present, the Transit Commission decided yesterday not to establish a station between Eighty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, the present end of the Fourth Avenue subway, and Ninety-fifth Street, the terminus of the proposed extension to Fort Hamilton. The commission decided it would be better to spend the money on an extensive terminal, with entrances at Ninety-third, Ninety-fourth and Ninety-fifth Streets.

Commissioner Leroy T. Harkness, who presided at the hearing, directed Robert Ridgway, the commission's chief engineer, to draw plans to include the largest terminal for resubmission to the Board of Estimate. The cost of the extension is estimated at about $1,000,000.

Members of the delegation from Fort Hamilton at the hearing included William B. Hatfield, President of the Bay Ridge Citizens' Association and Chamber of Commerce; Richfield F. Moynihan, Chairman of its Transit Committee; former Assemblyman Frederick S. Burr, Theodore Beisner, Chairman of the Fort Hamilton Community Centre; P. F. Donnelly of 543 Ninety-fourth Street, Mrs. J. H. McDonald of 484 120th Street and Albert E. Schroeder of 360 Eighty-third Street.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 12.—William R. Hearst is to publish a daily and Sunday newspaper in Syracuse. It will be issued from the building at East Genesee and South State Streets now occupied by the Firestone Tire Company.

Mr. Hearst's emissaries are rushing the installation of equipment in order to begin publication before the Democratic State Convention in this city. The new paper will be known as The Syracuse American.

RETIRES $2,000,000 NOTES.

Stewart-Warner Speedometer Converts Them Into Stock.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Announcement was made today that all of the $2,000,000 8 per cent. notes of the Stewart-Warner Speedometer Corporation due March 1, 1926, had been retired. Practically the entire amount was converted into stock at the rate of twenty-five shares of stock for each $1,000 bond. Conversion, however, has not increased the outstanding capital stock, the company having purchased stock in the open market.

Sales by the corporation for August were 103 per cent. greater than for August last year, and sales for the first eight months of 1922 have been in excess of the total for the whole of 1921.

The South in World Commerce

IN the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1919, the ports from Baltimore to San Antonio had an export commerce of one and a half billion dollars compared with slightly over seven billion for the entire country. Two years later these Southern ports had increased their exports to $2,294,000,000 while the exports of the whole country had decreased to six and one half billion dollars.

This increase in export trade at a time of world-wide depression is an impressive record of Southern progress. The Port of New Orleans alone in 1920 exported merchandise valued at over seven hundred million dollars, making this port second in importance in export and import trade in the United States.

With this immense growth of trade, there has been great improvement of port facilities, financed by issues of bonds. In New Orleans these are general obligations of the State of Louisiana, and with tax-free features are especially attractive investments. Further details on these bonds upon request.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY

REFUNDING AND IMPROVEMENT MORTGAGE 6's

These bonds are not due until 2047, but they are callable at 110 in 1936 and thereafter. It seems almost certain that the Railway Company will avail itself of this redemption privilege in some period of easy money long before maturity, in order to effect the obvious saving in interest charges.

Face Value $1,100
Coupon Rate 5.45%
Present Market ..... about par

The 4½% and 5% series, secured by the same mortgage, but not so likely to be called before maturity, are selling on about a 5% basis. With a 5.45% series selling at about par, we believe that there is a discrepancy in value not warranted by the probable difference in maturity.

We recommend the 6% bonds at the present market (about 110).

HEIRS OF BENNETT'S SISTER GET $691,634

EARLIER ACCOUNTING ASKED

Referee Says There Is No Evidence That Money Paid on Mortgages Was Reinvested.

A report filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday by Thomas W. Churchill as referee showed that a dispute over trust funds in the estate of the elder James Gordon Bennett, who died in 1872, for his daughter, Mrs. Jeanette Bell, of which his son, the late James Gordon Bennett, was trustee, had been settled. This has been done chiefly because the records of the estate left by the trustee were in such condition that the Guaranty Trust Company and Rodman Wanamaker, as trustees of the late James Gordon Bennett's estate, could not determine with accuracy the amount involved in the fund.

Upon the death of the recent proprietor of The New York Herald William Travers Jerome was appointed as trustee of the fund left by the elder Bennett for his daughter. In a proceeding by Mr. Jerome to compel the trustee to account, the trustees reported that so far as they could determine the fund amounted to $641,408 at the time of Mr. Bennett's death. Mr. Jerome objected to this accounting, and Mr. Churchill was named as referee to take testimony.

Mr. Churchill's report states that the late Mr. Bennett never accounted in the Surrogates Court for the funds in his possession although a proceeding for an accounting was begun, but he paid regularly to his sister and her kin the income accruing, and did not ask for commissions. The referee reports that the trust fund appears to have been in excess of the $641,408 accounted for by the son's trustees, "yet the exact amount of such excess is impossible to determine," because of the unexplainable manner in which the younger Bennett handled the fund. He says there is no evidence that moneys received from mortgages paid off were reiveted.

By te compromise it is agreed that the assets of the trust fund consist of two mortgages on Fort Washington property, amounting to $187,161 and $131,590; mortgage on Yonkers property, $322,688; District of Columbia bond, $225; proceeds from mortgages on 11 West Thirty-ninth Street and 37 West Twenty-first Street, respectively, $19,827 and $14,893; Northern Pacific bond, $9,000, and compromise of all other disputed claims, $6,250, making a total of $691,634, or in excess of $50,225 to be paid over to Mr. Jerome, on which interest will be paid.

The fund now goes to Mrs. Bell's kin, Diana and Daphne Bell, Jeanette, Frances and Mary Ricardo and Jacqueline and Paula d'Aramon.

DELAY IN BRITISH FUNDING.

Interest Payments Expected Before Main Plan Is Completed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. — Great Britain will probably begin the payment of interest on her war debt to this country before arrangements are made for the funding of the $5,000,000,000 of obligations, it was indicated today at the Treasury.

On Oct. 15, officials said, the first instalment of interest on the British debt amounting to $65,000,000 will fall due. Although a British financial mission has been expected to leave England in time to begin funding negotiations with the American Debt Commission by the latter part of this month, this country has not been notified of its impending departure. With September nearly half gone officials expressed the belief that funding arrangements could not be worked out with Great Britain before the latter part of October.

The view, however, was expressed at the Treasury that Great Britain would meet the Oct. 15 instalment of interest, making payment through New York bankers as the Pittman silver debt is being liquidated, and that by Nov. 15, when about $35,000,000, or the remainder of the semi-annual instalment of interest falls due, the program for England meeting its wartime obligations to this country will have been completed.

As the British debt now stands there is $4,155,000,000 of principal and $611,000,000 of interest due over three years ending last April, which was deferred by mutual understanding until funding plans could be adopted, so that the Oct. 15 instalment will be the first interest actually to fall due and payable.

So far, according to Treasury officials, there has been no direct communication from Great Britain of that nation's plans to meet the Oct. 15 payment, but that the amount will be forthcoming is regarded as practically certain in view of statements by British statesmen indicating that financial preparations were being made for that purpose.

Buffalo Bonds to National City Co.

BUFFALO, Sept. 12.—Banks and bond houses in competing for the purchase of the Buffalo bond issue to cover the financing of a new filteration plant and other improvements bid more than eleven times the amount of the issue. The National City Company of New York was the successful bidder, taking the entire amount of $3,580,000 at 103.106. The bonds will draw interest at 3.93 per cent.

COTTON MAKES GAIN ON CROP ESTIMATE

Cotton turned upward yesterday on more liberal buying from domestic and foreign spinning interests. After an early decline that revealed an extensive demand around 21½ cents, a steady recovery followed. An estimated crop of only 9,900,000 bales on a condition of 49.4 was circulated by a crop-reporting agency which stimulated activity in professional quarters. Several large blocks of December and March, amounting to over 20,000 bales, were taken above 21¾ cents. With New England mills reopening and reports of poor staple from widely scattered sections, less selling pressure prevailed. The South continues to sell on advances. Prices gained 29 to 31 points.

With a lower Liverpool, where sales of spot cotton amounted to only 5,000 bales, and a continuation of Monday's liquidation, prices eased off during early trading. December lost 23 a bale from high levels of the previous day, offerings from speculative and Southern sources being quite heavy for a few moments following the call. As December approached 21½ cents resistance of importance was encountered. Rumors that a crop-reporting agency placed condition below 60 started both trade and professional activity. The market turned sharply with a recovery of 30 points before midday. The fact that New England mills have advanced wages led operators to conclude that a larger quantity of goods was being distributed on a basis that would permit increased cost of manufacture. Heavy rains in Eastern sections where picking is in progress proved unfavorable.

For several days demand for cotton South from both exporters and domestic mills has been along more liberal lines. Reduced crop estimates have created a daily demand for both actual cotton and contracts in volume sufficient to look after new cotton appearing for sale. But thus far, general speculation such as frequently enters the cotton market has not occurred. This is attributed to uncertainty over consumption this season, as well as to high prices compared with wheat and other commodities.

Reports from certain spot interests doing business with European countries that more cotton had been sold in two days than at any time before this season had a stimulating effect on sentiment. Several telegrams from the South regarding quality of the growing crop attracted attention. In Western regions cotton this season is a drought staple, never as good as that grown under normal climatic conditions. From Atlantic sections complaints are being received that cotton is not up to quality usually produced in this region. In cases where forward sales have been made difficulty may be experienced in obtaining proper grades to fill orders.

More contract buying occurred when December advanced above 21.85, a stream of large speculative orders being executed during the afternoon. Blocks of 5,000 bales were wanted, indicating that cotton sold out the previous day was being replaced. This rushed December over 22 cents, making a half cent advance from early low figures. New Orleans recovered sharply, though many sharp setbacks of 10 points or more took place after each upturn. This concentrated buying pushed prices up while orders were being executed, but trading was not broad enough to prevent prices running back as soon as demand had been filled. Similar conditions prevailed in New Orleans, indicating that sharp advances meet cotton which is gradually being absorbed in various channels. December closed around 22 cents.

Redeemable in whole or in part on any interest date after thirty days' notice, (a) for the purpose of the sinking fund on and after but not before September 1, 1924, and (b) at the option of the Company on and after, but not before September 1, 1932, except in the event of consolidation. The redemption price to be 105 up to and including September 1, 1932, and thereafter at a premium equal to ½% for each year to maturity. Pennsylvania four mills tax refunded.

BUSINESS: Ramapo Ajax Corporation has been incorporated by The American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company to acquire the Ramapo Iron Works and the Ajax Forge Company. These companies have been in successful operation since their organization in 1881 and 1883, respectively. They manufacture railway track material, industrial cars and car equipment. The Company's products enjoy a high reputation and are supplied in large quantities to the principal railways of the United States and foreign countries.

CONTROL: Ramapo Ajax Corporation is a subsidiary of The American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company which will covenant in the mortgage to retain control of the Company so long as any of these Bonds remain outstanding.

SECURITY: These Bonds will be secured in the opinion of counsel by a first mortgage on all fixed assets of the Company, including land owned in fee, buildings, machinery, equipment, and leaseholds (in certain instances the land lease is subject to lessor mortgages).

ASSETS: Land, plant and equipment, less depreciation has been appraised by the American Appraisal Company at $3,557,060. Total assets less all indebtedness except these Bonds amount to over $6,000,000.

EARNINGS: During the ten and one-half years ended June 30, 1922, the consolidated net income of the predecessor companies available for interest and Federal Taxes, after deducting depreciation and after inventory adjustments, averaged more than 3.8 times the annual interest charges on these Bonds. Such income during the five and one-half years ended June 30, 1922, averaged annually 5.5 times such interest charges. Operations for the year 1921 resulted in a loss, but are now showing a substantial profit.

SINKING FUND: Semi-annual sinking fund will retire $1,000,000 principal amount of these Bonds by maturity.

Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel. All legal matters will be passed upon by Messrs. Roberts, Montgomery & McKeehan, for the Bankers and Messrs. Breed, Abbott & Morgan, for the Company.

We Recommend These Bonds for Investment

Redeemable beginning September 1, 1923, to and including September 1, 1924, at 107½, the premium decreasing on a scale thereafter.

THE CHASE NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

W. E. Ogilvie, Esq., President of Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation, has summarized as follows his letter of September 11, 1922, copy of which will be furnished on request:

BUSINESS: Eastern Cuba Sugar Corporation, organized in 1920, is a subsidiary of Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation, which is the largest single producer of raw sugar in the world.

PURPOSE: With the proceeds of sale of these bonds Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation and its subsidiary will pay off all floating debt except $7,500,000 which has been extended at 6% to October 1, 1923, and which it is expected will be repaid out of next year's operations.

PROPERTY: These bonds will be a first mortgage (subject to approximately $1,260,000 Prior Liens) on the property of Eastern Cuba Sugar Corporation known as the Violeta Mill with a capacity of 500,000 bags per year, approximately 60,000 acres of land, railway trackage and all of the rolling stock of the Corporation.

GUARANTY: Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation will unconditionally guarantee the bonds, principal, interest and sinking fund, by endorsement.

EARNINGS AND ASSETS: Eastern Cuba Sugar Corporation's net assets before deducting this issue, as of July 31, 1922, after giving effect to the present financing and after deduction of the above prior liens, amount to over $15,000,000.

Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation's consolidated earnings, before Income Taxes and depreciation, available for interest, have since organization of the Company been as follows:

1918	7,916,407
1919	12,113,379	1922 (Estimated profit exclusive of approximately $1,000,000 profit in 1922 on account of 1921 sugars.)	3,300,000

Fixed interest charges, including interest on these $10,000,000 of Bonds, amount to $3,125,511 per year. Average earnings for the five years ending in 1920 have amounted to $13,481,720, or more than four (4) times such interest charges.

CONVERTIBILITY: Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation will give to the holder the right to exchange these bonds for Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation Common Stock at the rate of $20 per share (with adjustment of interest and dividends) at any time during the life of the Bonds. Earnings available for dividends on the Common Stock from organization to September 30, 1920, have averaged at the rate of over $10 per share of Common Stock now outstanding.

SINKING FUND: Sinking fund to retire annually for five years, beginning in 1925, $300,000 face value of the issue, and thereafter annually $500,000 face value, thereby retiring more than 50% of the issue by maturity.

These Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us, subject to prior sale, and to the approval of Messrs. Cravath, Henderson, Leffingwell & deGersdorff and Messrs. Rushmore, Bisbee & Stern, Counsel for the Bankers, and of Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, Counsel for the corporation. Temporary Bonds or Interim Certificates may be delivered in the first instance.

WHEAT GOES LOWER ON CANADIAN REPORT

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The Canadian Government crop report, estimating the yield at 389,000,000 bushels compared with 300,000,000 bushels harvested last year, and confirming private estimates, had a depressing effect on wheat prices, and, with pressure from houses with Northwestern and Southwestern connections, a decline was easily attained, the close being at net losses of ⅝@1¼ cents, with the near-by deliveries leading.

An advance of 1½d in Liverpool September, due to larger takings of cargoes afloat by the Continent, had a limited effect early, but there was no aggressive buying throughout the day. Commission houses bought December on scale orders, mainly in small lots, from $1.01¼ down, which acted as a brake on the rallies.

Wheat came out freely and there is some change in sentiment noted, the belief being that lower prices will have to prevail, although a great deal of caution is being displayed in getting short on the breaks. The very lightness of the trade is causing buying orders to have considerable effect at times, as the pit element gets oversold.

Based on the Canadian report, North America Can, under pressure, export more than 500,000,000 bushels, or within 150,000,000 bushels of Broomhalls estimate as to the world's import needs.

Statistics, which have been favorable to the bulls, have swung to the other side, and assistance is not expected from this quarter unless the southern hemisphere crop is damaged.

The Canadian movement is increasing rapidly. Exporters were liberal buyers of Winnipeg October during the day, suggesting export sales, and 180,000 bushels of Duru and Manitobas were reported as having been done direct, while the seaboard claimed 300,000 bushels sold. Premiums on Manitobas were firmer, due to takings by exporters and shippers who had cargoes to take care of by Sept. 15.

Local handlers sold 700,000 bushels hard Winter to exporters, part of the grain now being afloat or in Eastern Canadian ports. No. 2 hard, free on board, Montreal sold at 13 cents over September.

The edge is regarded as off the bull market in corn, and, while many of the local traders remain bullish and bought freely, the undertone was heavy from the start, with September unhanged and the deferred deliveries ⅛ cent lower, at the last. Some of the pit bulls went home heavily long, while others were short.

Sentiment is not as bullish as of late due to the better weather conditions. September acts as though it were in strong hands, and a leading local house again supported the cash market, selling December as a hedge. Premiums were unchanged to 1 cent lower, with the lower grades leading. Exporters took 275,000 bushels here.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 2,534,000 bushels; week ago, 4,027,000; last year, 3,477,000. Shipments were 865,000; week ago, 1,496,000; last year, 629,000.

Corn receipts were 1,220,000 bushels; week ago, 1,863,000; last year, 1,630,000, and shipments, 463,000 bushels; week ago, 1,310,000; last year, 974,000.

EL SALVADOR SILVER PLAN.

Reorganization Calls for Sale of $500,000 New Stock.

Stockholders of the El Salvador Silver Mines Company, Inc., have received a circular giving the plan of reorganization and rehabilitation as outlined by the Reorganization Committee consisting of Edward D. Dowling, Frederick G. Corning, A. J. McAllister and Frederick T. Freilinghuysen.

The program of reorganization as submitted to the stockholders calls for the creation of a new issue of 500,000 shares of $1 par value of 8 per cent. cumulative and convertible preferred stock, 400,000 shares of which must be subscribed for to make the plan effective. The preferred shares will be convertible into common stock of the company at the option of the holder at any time on the basis of two shares of common stock for each share of preferred stock.

Certain creditors, according to the letter, have agreed to accept preferred stock at par in liquidation of their claims, and if sufficient of the remaining shares are subscribed for, and the plan becomes operative, with the discharge of the receiver, the property will be returned to the shareholders and the company will resume business free of all current indebtedness and with approximately $380,000 working capital, of which $218,000, less receivership expenses, will be cash, besides plant, equipment and other fixed assets.

The committee says that if the stockholders are willing to take advantage of the situation and supply additional capital sufficient to pay the creditors and develop El Transito property, there is a reasonable chance of rehabilitating the company.

Car Lighting Preferred Subscriptions.

The time limit for subscribing to the preferred stock of the Car Lighting and Power Company has been extended to Sept. 20, according to an announcement made yesterday by J. L. Watson, Secretary of the company.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

Notice of Special Stockholders' Meeting.

Richmond, Va., August 19, 1922.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Special Meeting of the Stockholders of The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company has been called by the Board of Directors of said Company to be held at the principal office of the Company in the City of Richmond, Virginia, on Tuesday, the 26th day of September, 1922, at 11:00 o'clock A. M., for the following purposes:

(a) To consider and act upon a proposal to increase the Company's capital stock by the addition thereto of stock in the par amount of $30,000,000, to be divided into shares of the par value of $100 each, so as to make the total authorized par amount of such capital stock $180,000,000, consisting of 1,800,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, such increase of capital stock to be of such class or classes, with such designations, preferences and voting powers, or restrictions or qualifications thereof, as the stockholders at said meeting shall determine or authorize; and specifically, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, to consider and act upon a proposal that the additional capital stock be in the first instance preferred stock, and that the same, or any thereof, may be converted into common stock;

(b) To authorize the Board of Directors of the Company from time to time to issue and to dispose of such additional shares of stock as the Board may in the exercise of its lawful discretion determine;

(c) To ratify and confirm such action heretofore taken or authorized by said Board in anticipation of such action by the stockholders, as may be submitted to the meeting, and to take such other and further action in the premises, including the authorization of any necessary or appropriate amendment or amendments of the Charter of the Company, as the stockholders at this meeting may determine; and

(d) For the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

For the purpose of the meeting the stock transfer books will be closed at 3 P. M. on Friday, September 15, 1922, and will be opened again at 10 A. M. on Wednesday, September 27, 1922.

By Order of the Board of Directors.

NEED 'STRONG RIGHT ARM,' SAYS HOOVER

SPEAKS AT CHEMISTS' DINNER

A call for governmental action in coal strikes with "a strong right arm" was made last night by Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, in a speech at the dinner of the Salesmen's Association of the American Chemical Industry at the Hotel Commodore. He asserted that it was time for both miners and operators to consider "the superior right of the public" in the midst of their industrial warfare.

"Some examination of our industrial sanity is called for," said Secretary Hoover, "when the public can be made the victim of infinite loss and suffering by such disagreements as we have witnessed; when the whole nation once every two years or less can be pushed to the precipice of want and commercial collapse; when we are brought to consideration of price fixing against extortion in time of peace; when hundreds of thousands of workers, not only in the industry, but outside of it, are thrown into skimping and starving, and when the nation is made to suffer the shame of Herrin and rampant crime that has followed in the train of strikes.

"There is much in the industry that needs public ventilation, but more important than this, there are two distinct lines of problems for which constructive solutions are needed, that can only be furnished after more considered investigation. The first of these problems is the employer-employe relationship, the second is the economic reorganization of the industry.

Public Has Right to Voice in Quarrel.

"The present relationship of employer and employe in the industry comprises a periodical national danger, because with national organization and national disagreement comes national stoppage. In the end the issues of the struggle are consciously or unconsciously imposed by pinching the welfare of 90 per cent. of the community, who are not parties to the quarrel. And through subsequent prices the public pays the bill. The public therefore has a right to a voice in this whole business.

"Surely fair play can be obtained for employer and employe in our civilization without war on the public. But it is not sufficient to shirk the issue by saying that there must be fair play. We must discover the machinery by which fair play can be delivered on all sides."

Secretary Hoover spoke of the legislation for a National Coal Commission and said that he had favored the organization of that body, "because I do not believe great solutions are to be found out of emotional denunciation, but out of sober, scientific examination." He said he believed that a commission would find that collective bargaining, conciliation and arbitration had broken down in the coal industry.

"Under freedom from the restraint of trade laws," he continued, "the workers' organizations have grown in strength, solidarity and devotion; they have shown able leadership, whereas the organization of employers for collective bargaining has been to a large degree destroyed by the action of those same laws. Without entering into the history or the rights or wrongs of this phase, the bare fact exists that the recent agreement in the bituminous industry was determined by only 15 per cent. of the employers, and this minority's decision controlled the whole.

Collective Bargaining Plan a Failure.

"The greater proof that the conception of collective bargaining has failed upon its present basis to secure any assistance of protection to the public is the famine in coal. We may well preserve the old methods of peace, but of a certainty they must be better organized, and we need something more that will bring a positive insurance of peace to the public. Nor is the organization of employers on a national basis the answer, for in such a case, while collective bargaining might proceed more smoothly, the public could well take alarm that the costs of any bargain can be passed on to the consumer. Therefore, such bargaining must be controlled in the public interest, even if it served to prevent the stoppage."

Mr. Hoover spoke of the various rights claimed by both employer and employes and added:

"No one seriously denies any of these rights, but a lot of people are overlooking a most right. That is the right of the public to a continuous supply of its vital necessities and services upon terms fair to the employer and employe. When these various rights infringe upon the public right, then the dominant right is publicly violated.

Asserting that "most of the economic demoralization lies in the bituminous industry," Mr. Hoover said that the mine capacity was 800,000,000 tons beyond national needs, or 2,000 too many bituminous mines and 200,00 too many people in the business." He said that all these conditions led to instability in the industry.

He said that there were several remedies "which should be investigated and which do not lead to socialism and destruction of the American freedom and initiative." Storage of coal during the slack season, he said, was one remedy. A cooperative system of marketing by miners who wish to adopt the plan was another proposal, "under conditions that would assure competitive conditions."

"I recognize that stabilization of the industry," he added, "or anything that lends stabilization to the industry, is opposed by a small minority of speculative operators who use the periodically disturbed production to reap a recurrent harvest. It would be opposed on the other side by some of the more narrow-minded labor leaders, who contend that their object in all industry is to reduce the number of hours of actual labor to some minor fraction of the whole year, or whose ambition is to drive the nation to socialism in desperation for coal, or who deny the public right to any voice."

"These periodic wars in the industry are, therefore, in part, symptoms of a disease. But before we treat this disease we must have a more accurate diagnosis. From such an understanding we should be able to return this industry to sanity. The proposed commission has the greatest opportunity for constructive work since the war. The public demands results. It is sick and weary of periodic warfare and attempts at solution. Something must be done with a strong right arm."

SENATORS WRANGLE OVER LIBERIA LOAN

HEFLIN AND MOSES IN ROW

Alabaman Accuses New Hampshire Senator of "Going Back" on Bonus Bill Promise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept 12.—Lively interchanges marked the debate in the Senate today on the House resolution authorizing a loan of $5,000,000 to the Government of Liberia. Little was heard about Liberia. The debate afforded a chance for attacks on Wall Street, discussion of the war bonus and observations on politics. Consideration of the bill finally went over until tomorrow.

Senator Watson of Georgia scored the loan proposal. Among other things, he said that there were 60,000 civilized negroes in Liberia, and he would rather give the $5,000,000 to negroes in Alabama or Georgia than to them. This amount, he said, meant $100 each for every negro man, woman and child.

"And," the Senator asked, "what in the world are they going to do with it when they get it? Five hundred dollars for every negro family in Liberia! Oh, what a jubilation there would be in Washington City if we made a present of $500 to every negro family in the District of Columbia."

Mr. Watson held that, before loaning this money to Liberia, America should collect from England and other nations that owed us money.

Senator Heflin of Alabama accused Senator Moses of New Hampshire of having gone back on a promise to vote for adjusted compensation for ex-service men.

Senator Moses resented this and charged that Mr. Heflin was misrepresenting his position.

"I said I was in favor of some form of adjusted compensation, and I am now," Mr. Moses declared; "but I'm not in favor of the Bonus bill the Senator favors."

Senator Heflin persisted in his accusation, and declared that Senator Moses had made his campaign for re-election on the bonus issue.

"This brought from Mr. Moses the statement that what Mr. Heflin charged was not in accord with the facts. He did not bring the bonus into his campaign, he said. He had made his campaign on the issue of the League of Nations.

The interchange between the two became livelier. Mr. Heflin said Senator Moses was embarrassed by what had been said, and Mr. Moses continued to assert that no Senator had the right to put on his words a construction that was not justified.

"I won't stand for it!" cried Mr. Moses. "If it continues I shall have to appeal to the Chair. The Senator has no right to impute improper motives to another Senator as the Senator from Alabama has been doing."

"I ask that the Senator from Alabama be protected in order."

"I don't ask permission to proceed in order, and if the Chair rules otherwise I shall appeal from his ruling to the Senate." Mr. Heflin exclaimed in angry tones.

Senator Heflin espoused the provision of the Bonus Bill which has been incorporated by agreement between the Senate and House conferees on that measure for the payment of the cash bonus out of interest paid on the war debt due the United States by European nations.

Mr. Moses declared that nothing had been paid on this debt except by one small nation, and in his opinion none would be paid except by one great Nation.

Mr. Heflin wanted to know what the Republican Government would do when a debtor country would not pay.

"If the Republicans can't make them pay," he sneered, "all you have to do is to elect the Democrats, and so help me God we'll make them pay."

"How?" asked Mr. Moses.

"By insisting on it," said Mr. Heflin, who contended that the money could be collected without shedding a drop of blood or causing hard feelings, by letting England and other debtor nations know that we intended to collect the debt.

Mr. Kipling accused the Republican Party of being under the control of Wall Street, and that was why he said, the European countires would not pay what they owed to this country.

Mr. Moses remarked that somewhere in the Record he had read of a Senator who had "the honey mouth of a Congress" "I know now," he added "who had the bravest mouth in Congress."

To which Mr. Heflin retorted that his mouth was so attuned to chivalry and courage that he never misrepresented anything.

Senator Watson wanted to know if England hadn't sent a warship into the Harbor of Piraitus, Greece, and collected a debt from the Greek Government. His idea of collecting what was owed to the United States by Europe was to send a ship to England, France, or any other debtor nation to collect it.

Mr. Moses asked if Mr. Watson would go to war, to which Mr. Watson said in his opinion there would not be any war.

Senator Heflin painted a word picture of the gallantry of American soldiers in France, and ended his speech with an attack on William P. G. Harding, ex-Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, who would not go to Alabama to vote the Democratic ticket because Mr. Heflin's name was on it.

LAYS WRECK TO TAMPERING.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The derailment of an express train on the Michigan Central Railroad near Gary, Ind., on Aug. 20, which resulted in the death of two railroad employes and injury of two passengers, was caused by "malicious tampering with the track," according to a report issued today by the Bureau of Safety of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Careful examination of the train after the accident, the report stated, showed it to be in good condition, while no defects were found in the wheels and axles of the derailed equipment.

"The evidence," the report said, "clearly indicates that thirty spikes had been withdrawn from the ties on the outside of the left rail, leaving it without support and permitting it to spread outward under the engine hauling train No. 39, resulting in the derailment of the engine and following cars. At the time of this investigation it had not been definitely determined when or by whom the spikes were removed."

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Four men are being held by the Lake County, Indiana, authorities on charges of murder as a result of the fatal wreck at Gary. Chicago and Gary police and special agents of the Michigan Central co-operated in the investigation and arrests.

The Gary police declared the men confessed to drawing spikes from the tracks, but latest reports repudiated the confessions and their counsel charged that the men were beaten by the police until they made false confessions.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

WAS HELD AT $625,000

Two More Old Private Dwellings Claimed for Business—Will Be Entirely Remodeled.

An important deal in the midtown loft zone that has been pending for several days was closed yesterday when an investing client of Spotts & Starr, Inc., purchased the twelve-story commercial loft at 44 to 50 East Thirty-second Street.

Paul M. Herzog, the seller, acquired the property in 1918.

The building occupies a plot 66.4 by 210 feet, between Madison and Park Avenues. It is fully leased and shows a gross annual rent of about $85,000.

It was held at $625,000, and according to the brokers in the transaction brought very close to that figure.

Another loft deal in the same section involving about $500,000 is also reported pending. A syndicate of investors is the prospective buyer.

Two Dwellings Claimed for Business.

Two old dwellings, one on Lexington Avenue and another in Harlem, were claimed for business yesterday, and will be extensively altered.

The Lexington Avenue transaction involves the four-story and basement house at the northwest corner of Sixty-fifth Street, owned by J. W. A. Davis, and which is being leased for a term of twenty-one years at a reported net rental of $8,000 per annum to interests which plan the installation of stores in the property. The house fronts 40.5 feet on the avenue and 70 feet on the street. It is opposite St. Vincent Ferrer Roman Catholic Church.

Last week the old Guilford Mansion at the southeast corner of Lexington Avenue and Forty-sixth Street was sold by the Hartwood Holding Company, Alfred M. Bing, President, to the Mandel-Ehrich Corporation. The buyers will erect an apartment hotel.

Goodwin & Goodwin, Inc., sold to H. Gershun the four-story private dwelling at 153 Lenox Avenue on lot 19 by 75. After extensive alterations the new owner will use it for his own business.

THE BROOKLYN MARKET.

Private House and Apartment Projects Involve $700,000.

The A. S. G. Construction Company bought the block front on the west side of Fourth Avenue, between Eighty-sixth and Eighty-seventh Streets, a plot 160 by 100, for improvement with stores and dwellings, the operation to involve about $200,000. The same company purchased the plot, 150 by 100, at the southwest corner of Fourth Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street, on which it contemplates erecting two elevator apartment houses of either six or eight stories and costing about $500,000. J. H. Schreiner, H. G. Goeber and A. J. Appell are the directors of the new company.

In Flatbush, the Bulkley & Horton Company sold the large detached residence at 664 East Eighteenth Street, between Foster Avenue and Farragut Road, on a plot 50 by 100, for Charles E. Henry of Wilmington, Del., to a client, for occupancy.

The Real Estate Management Company sold for the J. J. McComb estate the three-story business building at the northeast corner of Avenue C and Seventh Street to the Public National Bank.

The building will be altered early next Spring and used by the bank as a branch office.

Gas Company Passes Title.

The Consolidated Gas Company has just passed title to a plot of land, 75 by 181, on the southeast corner of Twelfth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street, to the Republic Storage Warehouse, Inc. The parcel lies on the easterly side of Twelfth Avenue, just in the rear of the large municipal docks recently constructed, and it is understood it will be improved by the Republic Storage Company with a nine-story warehouse, to be used entirely for the storage of tobacco. Associated with Joseph P. Day, Inc., was the Fenimore C. Goode Company.

Realty Notes.

Maximilian Zipkes of the late firm of Zipkes, Wolff & Kudroff, architects, and for some years head of the managing department of Max N. Natanson, real estate operator, has opened offices at 25 West Forty-third Street to engage in business as architect and real estate operator on his own account.

Mrs. Claire E. Stevens has purchased an elevator garden apartment at 142 Twenty-second Street (Hampton Court), Jackson Heights.

Suburban Homes in Demand.

The Meister Builders, Inc., purchased the fourteen-one family brick and shingle dwellings located at Cain Avenue, Trenton, N. J., through Philip Pisani.

Herman Frankfort sold for Julius Levy to Sadie Sandler the newly built two-story brick dwelling and garage situated on the easterly side of Broadway, south of Jarvis Lane, Far Rockaway, L. I.

Buys Bridge Plaza Building.

The Roman-Callman Company sold for the Long Island City Building Company, Inc., the factory and office building located on Prospect Street, at the Bridge Plaza station, Long Island City. The purchaser, Frank B. Lasette, plumbing and heating contractor, will use the building for his shop, warehouse and general offices.

$500,000 Building Loan.

The Jatison Construction Company, acting for Julius Tishman & Sons, has obtained from the 135 Broadway Holding Company a building loan of $500,000 on the nine-story apartment house to be erected at 146 to 153 West Fifty-fifth Street, on a plot 100 by 1.92.

GARMENT CENTRE LEASES.

Church Property Will Be Improved With Loft Building.

The property at 329, 331, 333 and 335 West Thirty-sixth Street, a plot 75 by 100, was leased by the Washington Square M. E. Church to Revere & Goldenblum, real estate operators and builders, for a term of twenty-one years, with a renewal period of twenty-one years. The lease involves an aggregate rent of $250,000. Revere & Goldenblum, anticipating a movement across Eighth Avenue by the garment and other manufacturing concerns, plan to improve the plot with an eight-story loft building. Peter Grimm was the broker in the deal.

The store adjoining the entrance of 370 Seventh Avenue, known as the Penn Terminal Building, which takes in the entire block front on the west side of Seventh Avenue between Thirtieth and Thirty-first Streets, was leased by Arthur Eckstein for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $75,000 to Eff & Richards, Inc., merchant tailors, as a branch to their present store, now located at 380 Sixth Avenue. Extensive alterations are being made to meet the requirements of the tenant's business. The same broker also leased space in this building to Stubblefield & McCallum, to Hersenstein & Seman and to Arthur Levy.

The building is fully rented for the first time since its erection, having among its tenants such concerns as the Standard Oil Company of New York, New York Telephone Company, J. C. Penney Company, Inc., National Surety Company, Prudential Life Insurance Company, the Workmen's Compensation Rating Board, McGraw-Hill Book Company, American Exporter, National Health Council, Educational Films Corporation and the Magnavox Company. The Penn Terminal Building is eighteen stories high, covering a plot 100 by 200 feet.

The Haggstrom-Callen Company leased for a term of five years the building at 249 West Thirty-ninth Street to Louis Radiah.

Henry Shapiro & Co. leased for Kaiser & Co. the large corner store in the Hotel Grand, at the southeast corner of Broadway and Thirty-first Street. The lessee is Casper Bloom, formerly of the firm of Bloom & Horner, who will open up a men's retail clothes shop after extensive alterations are made to the premises.

John F. Rowland, cafeteria owner, leased from Herman Beits the two buildings at 161 and 163 East Fifty-fourth Street. The lease is for twenty-one years from Oct. 1, 1922, at rentals ranging from $5,000 to $6,500 a year.

Apartment Trading.

THE ANNALIST
A Magazine of Finance, Commerce and Economics
Published Mondays by The New York Times Co.
FINANCE
The Annalist contains articles showing the causes of fluctuations on investments, charts exhibiting average prices of stocks and bonds, full and reliable quotations of Stock Exchange transactions and information of interest to stockholders.
COMMERCE
International commercial developments dealt with by authoritative writers, each an expert in his own line. Free trade and high tariff subjects discussed comprehensively as to their effect on business in the United States.
ECONOMICS
Politico-economic discussions are regular features of The Annalist. There are articles on the relations of capital and labor, war reparations and indemnities and taxation.

Garment Center Capitol
The Greatest Co-operative Institution of the Garment World
STEEL AND STONE have only built the shell of these buildings. Their real greatness is in the spirit that planned them and that animates them to-day. In less than two years a new City has grown around them. They are an Institution to point to with pride as exemplifying the progress and development of the industry.
The ninety-six manufacturers in these buildings employ close to 20,000 men. Their yearly production is more than $100,000,000.
In such company you are among the leaders of the industry—men who set the new standard of ideals and business thought that is the visible manifestation of the dignity and importance of this National structure.
It houses firms that make principles as important as dollars—and that spirit leads to their doors the "pick" of the retail institutions of America.

WE have sold every piece of property advertised through the "Times." It is true that the "Time" is a very fine medium, but be it not forgotten that the intelligent investor is not allured by any extant advertisement, and that it is only the solidity of an advantageous investment which appeals to him. It is our policy to analyze and scrutinize the merits of any proposition before submitting it to the investing public; hence the success of our business. If you have $16,000 to invest in a high-class property on the west side you may derive a net income of $6,400 a year, after deducting all expenses of any nature whatsoever. Particulars furnished upon request. E. V. Pescia & Co., Times Building. Tel. 4000 Bryant.

HARLEM EAST SIDE tenement, about to increase in value, because of the great demand for cheap rooms; any such tenements, renting at $5 a room, are always fully occupied and do not require much repairing; we have some that pay 30 per cent. on the investment while you hold them, and afford the opportunity of making handsome profits in reselling them at an advanced price; an investment of $10,000 will secure a net income of $3,000 a year without any risk of depreciation in value. Ask particulars. E. V. Pescia & Co., Times Building. Tel. 4000 Bryant.

MUCH BETTER THAN ANY ROOMING HOUSE; eliminates all work and worry; $6,000, with only 5 times low rental of $11.50 a room per month, buys beautiful 42.6x100 modern five-story A-1 condition apartment house at 502 and 504 West 177th St., with 2-5, 1-4, 1-6 room apartments on each floor; easy long-term mortgage payments, yielding $4,000 yearly after amortization of $2,500. I recommend this is a most unusual investment from every viewpoint. Geo. Lazo, 1,472 Broadway. Phone Bryant 2186.

Education Notes.

A teacher for the first year grade who can play the piano for assembly is wanted at Public School 120 on Barren Island. Miss Jane Shaw, Principal, says that the garden work on the island is the longer in operation. The teacher is expected to live from Monday to Friday each week in an attractive cottage owned by the Board of Education, and will be assigned a large room well furnished. Cottage is lighted by electricity. The salary is $7.80 a day. Living expenses are $1 a day.

The Board of Education will consider today the lists of appointments above 6B in elementary schools, to take effect tomorrow, according to the recommendation of the Board of Superintendents.

James C. Byrne, whose term as a member of the Board of Examiners expires Sept. 27, will be up for election to succeed himself when the Board of Education meets today.

A bequest of $2,000 has been made to the Board of Education in the will of Clarence W. Klein Jr., formerly a pupil in De Witt Clinton High School, the income from the fund to be known as the "Clarence Winfield Klein Jr. Prize," and to be awarded semi-annually to a De Witt Clinton student for the best essay on any prescribed subject.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Temperature is quite evenly distributed over the United States, it being relatively high generally east of the Rocky Mountains and low on the Pacific slope. The weather has become cooler in the Atlantic States and somewhat warmer in the Great Central Valleys, the middle plain and the middle Rocky Mountain region.

Warm weather continued in all districts west of the Rocky Mountains. There have been showers within the last twenty-four hours in the Atlantic States and along the Gulf Coast and the northern border from Michigan westward to Montana. Fair weather prevailed in other parts of the country.

The outlook is for generally fair weather Wednesday and Thursday in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee and the East Gulf and Atlantic States, except in Florida, where there will be showers. Moderate temperature will prevail generally east of the Mississippi River during the next forty-eight hours.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Southern New England—Fair Wednesday and probably Thursday; moderate temperature.

Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey—Fair Wednesday and Thursday; moderate temperature.

3 PLEAD NOT GUILTY OF SLAYING BERGEN

ALL TRIALS SET FOR OCT. 9

Confessor of Killing to Plead Unwritten Law and Accident—Girl Is Calm.

Alice Thornton, George Cline and Charles Scullion, when arraigned in the Supreme Court at Hackensack, N. J., yesterday, and charged with the murder of John Bergen, moving picture actor, pleaded not guilty. Justice Charles W. Parker fixed the trial of all three for Oct. 9, and the prisoners were taken back to their cells in the Bergen County Jail five minutes after the proceedings had begun.

Cline has confessed to shooting Bergen in Cline's home at Edgewater, N. J., on the night of Aug. 25, but bases his defense, first, on the unwritten law, alleging that Bergen had admitted his relations with Mrs. Cline, and second, on the statement that a pistol went off accidentally while he and Bergen were struggling for it.

Charles Scullion, Cline's 21-year-old brother-in-law, is charged with getting a pistol for Cline just before the shooting, and Miss Thornton, a 19-year-old New York girl, who had been Bergen's fiancee before she learned of his relations with Mrs. Cline, is represented by the prosecution as the lure that attracted Bergen to Cline's home on the night of the shooting.

During the Court proceedings yesterday County Judge John D. Zabriskie sat on the bench with Justice Parker. Miss Thornton, who was very calm, was attended by Mrs. Reilly, the jail matron, and by Mrs. Bonema, a court attendant. The defendants were represented by their attorney, State Senator William B. Mackay Jr. Prosecutor A. C. Hart also was present.

Assistant Prosecutor Charles J. McCarthy read the indictment, which charged briefly that Bergen was "feloniously and wilfully" murdered by the defendants.

ONCE RICH, DIES UNKNOWN.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 12.—A classmate of ex-President Woodrow Wilson in Princeton University, and believed to have been at one time a man of wealth in the Middle West, is to be buried here tomorrow under the name of Edwin S. McCarthy, although that is not his real name. He was about 73 years of age.

Five years ago he came to Worcester under the influence of the officials of Bethel Help Mission, and work was obtained for him as a sweeper in the plant of the Wickwire-Spencer Steel Corporation. He followed this occupation until stricken with paralysis last week and taken to City Hospital, where he died Sunday night.

The officers of the corporation today located his lodging in the rear of a small fruit store, where they found a few books which showed the unknown had high literary tastes. Papers were also found to indicate he had owned large sugar refineries in the Middle West, but there was nothing among the papers to show anything more tangible concerning his family.

TEXTILE WAGES RAISED.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 12.—Wage increases which, it is understood, will offset the 20 per cent. cut of last January, were announced today by some of the largest cotton manufacturing industries in Rhode Island, including Goddard Brothers, B. B. & R. Knight, Inc., the Interlaken Company and the Crompton Company.

Manufacturers, while declaring that conditions in the cotton goods markets did not justify an increase in the pay of operatives, said that the action of mills in Massachusetts and northern New England in restoring the old wage scale had forced their hands. Goddard Brothers said that it would be impossible to operate at capacity under the new wages.

Leaders of the 23,000 operatives who struck in the Blackstone and Pawtuxet Valleys when the 20 per cent. reduction was made, were today advising against a hasty return to work. Meetings have been called to consider the manufacturers' offers. In the Pawtuxet Valley the strikers have demanded a forty-eight hour week instead of the present fifty-four hours, but the mill heads have announced no change in working time. The Blackstone Valley is on a forty-eight hour basis.

FOSTER TAKEN TO MICHIGAN

Radical Leader to Be Tried Under Syndicalism Law.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—William Z. Foster, head of the Trade Union Educational League and leader of the 1919 steel strike, was taken into custody today by the Sheriff of Berrien County, Mich., on a Governor's warrant and started in an automobile for St. Joseph, Mich., for arraignment there on a charge of violation of the Michigan syndicalism law.

He was arrested here several weeks ago in connection with a meeting of radicals at Bridgman, Berrien County, which was raided by Federal and Michigan officers. In the raid seventeen men were taken, including several characterized by the Federal Department of Justice as well-known radicals. Many of them were said to be communists. They met in a wooded valley in secret until Federal agents learned of the gathering.

Foster, when arrested here on a fugitive warrant, denied he had been in Michigan. Extradition papers issued by Governor Groesbeck of Michigan were granted by Governor Small of Illinois on Aug. 31.

BOMBING EXCITES HORSES.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Bombing and cannonading in the military spectacle at the State Fair yesterday made nervous wrecks of many of the high-spirited horses in the Grand Circuit races and horse exhibits, according to owners and exhibitors, who protested to fair officials. Ben White was among the owners who said he would ship his horses away if the spectacle is repeated.

Mrs. Irene Castle Tremaine, among other exhibitors, protested that the noise had a bad effect on all thoroughbred animals.

Bus Injunction Hearing Postponed.

At the request of counsel for Joseph H. Hoadley, President of the Manhattan Transit Company, Justice Harry E. Lewis in Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday adjourned until next Tuesday argument on the application of the receivers for the Steinway surface lines to make permanent an injunction restraining the company from operating buses between Astoria and Long Island City.

It's useless to try to reduce to writing the uncommon weaves, patterns and colorings which the world's finest looms have contributed to their making; the styling and tailoring of a Hart Schaffner & Marx suit also are not things of mere words. And bare mention of the prices, $45, $50 and up, contains no hint of their great value till you see them.

TOO many concerns have developed a frightfully short-sighted philosophy of business. Some are actually hindering their own chances for an early return to real prosperity by basing their plans for six months hence on recent or present discouragements.

That's not merely unwise; it is emphatically wrong! Not to know or sense the vast improvement in fundamental conditions in recent months is to confess to a business mind that travels in a mighty narrow groove. In the commercial history of the United States, there is nothing to equal the recent record for rapid recovery.

Meet Expanding Opportunity with Strongly Renewed Sales Effort

Fight! Plan wisely and fight hard! Improvement or no improvement, more business isn't going to be yours simply because you want it. We can't all be in the radio equipment business today. Normally, most of us have to go after business to get it.

If you haven't learned this, at least one of your live competitors has. It was really wonderful the way some concerns kept things going during the darkest days of post-war depression—with the help of a Belknap System. Intensive campaigns of direct selling effort—aimed at all the concerns they had a right to sell. Interest-compelling letters; circulars that hit home; catalogues that told what people wanted to know about goods they wanted. All work that a Belknap System makes easy by removing the drudgery of slow, expensive, hand addressing. You're paying for one even if you don't own one, so you'd better have one—and save.

Phone Gramercy 6363 for Belknap Service Man; write for booklet; or call for immediate demonstration.

More Power at the Wheels

The GMC Two-Range Transmission produces more pulling power and more speed in the same truck than heretofore has been possible without the use of a costly power plant.

Its simple, practical multiplication of economical engine power in newer and greater power at the wheels has opened up vast and almost unlimited fields for heavy duty trucking—fields that could not be developed without this exclusive GMC feature.
